RCMP Probing Kerster Claim

The RCMP said today it is investigating the possibility of a criminal offence involving Surrey Dodge Ltd. and an insurance claim paid by the Insurance Corp. of B.C.

Spokesman Supt. Bob Mulloch, head of the force's commercial crime section in Vancouver, said the RCMP maintains a continuing relationship with ICBC's special investigation unit and had the Surrey Dodge case referred to it on Monday.

Opposition MLAs have accused Education Minister Pat McGeer, who is responsible for the insurance corporation, of covering up because Social Credit MLA George Kerster of Coquitlam, the former president and general manager of Surrey Dodge, appealed to ICBC on behalf of the firm to have the claim paid.

Supt. Mulloch said the case is still under investigation and is being treated as the many other cases of possible fraud on which the ICBC special investigation unit and RCMP fraud section work together.

On July 22 ICBC auditors were instructed to refer their information to the attorney-general who would direct the force to start an investigation. That authority has not yet been given, Mulloch said.

These documents were delivered to NDP members of the legislature and apparently are the basis of allegations involving Kerster and Surrey Dodge.

In the house Monday McGeer said he has no control over the RCMP, who could decide themselves whether there are grounds for an investigation.

Alex Macdonald (NDP — Vancouver-East) accused the minister of "deliberately refusing to look at the facts."

"I think this is a cover-up. It has to be a cover-up," he said. "Never has the legislature been treated to more contempt by a minister of the crown."

McGeer accused Macdonald, attorney-general under the former NDP government, of being sanctimonious and said he should be ashamed to sit in the legislature.

"He sits there with instant, perfect judgment," McGeer said. "He knows the member (Kerster) is guilty. You of all people, a former attorney-general, stand up as prosecutor, judge and jury."

MIX-UP ON PRESS

About 2,500 copies were on the street before the mistake was caught. Another 3,000 copies were stopped before they left the Victoria Press plant.

The Times apologizes to those readers who received the mixed-up edition.

WAGE PACKAGE REJECTED

Air Controllers' Mediation Fails

OTTAWA (CP) — A conciliation board report on the air traffic controllers' dispute was released today but board recommendations failed to remove the threat of a controllers' strike.

Jim Livingston, president of the Canadian Air Traffic Control Association (CATCA), said the board proposals provide "no basis for settlement."

The country's 2,200 controllers are voting on a CATCA request for a mandate to call a strike. Ballot boxes are to be opened at noon EDT Friday and results announced at 4 p.m.

The three-man conciliation board headed by mediator T. C. O'Connor recommended an increase in total wage benefits of eight per cent. Livingston said the CATCA and the government disagree about what that means.

The conciliation report makes no recommendations on a new classification standard for CATCA members and implementation of a proposed early retirement program because these two issues were ruled to be beyond the board's authority.

The board urged the controllers and the government to settle these two issues which it said are the key problems in the dispute.

The conciliation board, which was established by the Public Service Staff Relations Board (PSSRB), was instructed by the PSSRB not to make proposals on those issues. The government had objected to including the items in the conciliation board terms of reference.

The conciliation board rejected the CATCA position on all other major items in dispute.

The union has said about $3 million in wage benefits separates the government and CATCA. That amounts to about $1,300 a year for each CATCA member.

The union is seeking an eight-per-cent wage increase while the government has offered 6¼ per cent.

In addition, CATCA is asking for changes in the job classification system, changes it says would lead to promotions and wage increases for 60 per cent of its members. Controllers benefiting from the increases would get an average $1,035 in addition to regular wage increases.

Livingston has said the reclassification system would be exempt from Anti-Inflation Board rules but that is disputed by the government.

Annual salaries for non-supervisory controllers range between $8,000 for trainees and $25,000 for those with 12 years' experience. The average annual salary for these CATCA members is about $18,000.

CANADIAN DOLLAR AT 7-YEAR LOW

TORONTO (UPI)—The Canadian Dollar plunged to a seven-year low of 93.89 (U.S.) cents today as concern over a weak Canadian economy produced a sharp downward trend on United States money markets.

The floating dollar was listed at 93.96 cents at the start of trading and fell to 93.89 by noon.

Toronto financial experts said the price was the lowest since the Canadian government floated the dollar in May, 1970.

"At the moment, the Canadian dollar is a weak currency which moves down quickly when any stress is put upon it," said Graham Sweet, deputy chief trader for the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Sweet said current stress on the dollar resulted from concern over unemployment, end-of-month repatriation of profits to the U.S. and pessimistic forecasts by Finance Minister Donald Macdonald.

Macdonald said recently it was unlikely the government could meet its goal of holding inflation to six per cent this year.

CUPW Rejects Postal Merger

HALIFAX (CP) — The militant Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) rejected a proposal today to merge with the more-moderate Letter Carriers Union of Canada.

Delegates to the CUPW convention said their eventual aim is to have one union representing all post office employees, but the rift between inside postal workers and letter carriers is too serious for a merger now.

As delegates were discussing a resolution to combine the two unions, letter carriers in Ottawa were crossing a picket line set up by CUPW members on an unofficial strike.

Clement Morel, director of CUPW's Quebec region, said joining forces with the letter carriers "would be like merging with the employer."

About two-thirds of the 250 CUPW delegates opposed the resolution, submitted by the union's western region. The resolution proposed both unions hold a vote on the possibility of merging.

Joe Davidson, retiring president of the 22,000-member CUPW, said the motion was defeated on the grounds the CUPW does not have the right to give directions to another union.

But a number of delegates who spoke against the proposal made it clear they want nothing to do with the letter carriers. An Edmonton delegate said the letter carriers union "has chickens at the executive level."

CUPW also threatened to take legal action against the government if it does not move to ban private courier services, which are taking business away from the post office.

Delegates said private courier services are operating in illegal competition with the post office. The government is losing about $100 million worth of business a year to the private operations.

SOCRED MP FINED $5,050

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — Social Credit MP Gilbert Rondeau was fined $5,050 Monday on 17 counts of fraudulent tax evasion in connection with a party fund-raising scheme.

The 49-year-old Rondeau, MP for the rural Shefford riding for 12 of the last 15 years, appeared shocked when the sentence was announced by Judge Yvon Roberge of sessions court.

Judge Roberge noted that Rondeau committed the crime with premeditation and that he was at "a high level in the hierarchy . . . and one of the instigators of the affair."

The judge said Rondeau's offence involved "betraying the confidence of those who elected him."

Blast Damages Pipeline

FAIRBANKS (AP)—A blast from an undetermined explosive device damaged the exterior of a section of the Trans-Alaska pipeline Monday, but the flow of oil was not affected, authorities said.

State police Lt. George Pollitt said the blast, which damaged insulation around the outside of the line, occurred about 9 p.m. about 17 miles north of Fairbanks.

Pollitt said FBI investigators and state police were on the scene. He said authorities had been notifed by Ayleska Pipeline Service Co. "that an explosive device had been detonated near the pipeline" and added that troopers at the scene "confirmed that some damage to the insulation had been done by what appeared to be a blast of some type."

Pollitt said troopers were bringing pieces of the debris back to Fairbanks for analysis.

An Alyeska official said there was no halt or slowdown in oil flow through the pipe following the explosion.

The leading edge of Prudhoe Bay oil now in the pipeline moved only two miles through the line Monday as crews worked out some bugs at pump station No. 9, according to Alyeska officials.

Conservatives Fear 'Manipulation of News'

By DAN POTTIER

Times-Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The setting up of a new information centre to counter the "subversive propaganda" of the Parti Quebecois has raised concern that it might become a tool to boost the image of the Trudeau government.

Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Monday that a group of 10 people from various departments was being set up to "distribute material on the subject of Canadian unity."

With details still sketchy, Allan Lawrence (PC — Northumberland Durham) said the new "propaganda machine" might be used by the government to "manipulate the news" by trying to "spoon-feed the media."

However, Trudeau told the Tory MP the new group was in answer to the "10 or 15 offices set up by the Parti Quebecois government to convey information favorable to separatism."

It would "counteract that subversive propaganda," he added.

Lawrence said it seemed as if Information Canada was being revived and failed to get an answer when he asked for the new group's terms of reference, its cost and its method of operation.

The prime minister said the group would be based in the secretary of state department for financial administration reasons but that it would work with the national unity office headed by Paul Tellier.

Tellier said in an interview the group's budget would be about $1 million a year and rejected Lawrence's claims

Third Suspect Freed

Times News Services

AGASSIZ — Police today said they had released the third suspect questioned at length in the slaying last week of two and possibly four teenagers on the banks of the Fraser River.

A police spokesman said the suspect, who closely resembled a description of the killer and was wearing a ring similar to one worn by one of the youths, was released late Monday.

Police interrogated the man for several hours but did not believe him involved in the killings, police said.

The ring in his possession could not be identified as belonging to the youth.

Cpl. W. D. McClure earlier said police acted on a tip from the public in arresting the 26-year-old man on a downtown street in Penticton, B.C., early Monday.

McClure described the suspect as "closely" resembling a police drawing compiled from information given by the only known survivor of the incident at Ferry Island near Chilliwack.

ICBC Officials To Talk

Officials of the Insurance Corparation of B.C. will be asked to appear next week before the legislature's public accounts committee to testify about allegations of fraud and government interference in the Crown corporation.

The committee today unanimously passed a motion introduced by George Kerster (SC—Coquitlam) that would have ICBC officials testify before the committee on Aug. 2.

New Democratic Party members of the committee raised no objection to the motion, even though it accused them of slandering Kerster.

Kerster's motion read:

"In view of the fact that I have been recklessly slandered by members of the official opposition, regarding what they allege is fraud perpetrated by me in relation to certain ICBC claims and further taking into consideration that no opposition member has brought forward a motion in this committee that will allow a complete and open investigation of all aspects of those allegations, thus allowing me to clear myself completely of these irresponsible charges, I move:

"That senior management officials of the Insurance Corporation of B.C., a claims coverage committee and any other ICBC personnel connected with the case in question, or requested by any member of this committee to attend, be summoned to appear before a public accounts committee on the second of August."

Earlier today, government members alleged that a total of $21,276 was paid out two years ago to the NDP-based Nanaimo Commonwealth Holding Society for secretarial services for MLAs.

Government MLAs on the public accounts committee demanded an explanation of why the money was paid to the society which has as its objectives the development and holding of property and supplying of hall facilities in the Nanaimo area, and the furthering of socialist education.

NERVE GAS LEAK

DUGWAY, Utah (UPI)—A tank holding 31 M139 "bomblets" containing the nerve gas GB exploded at the Dugway Proving Grounds Monday, but no one was reported hurt or contaminated.

Dugway commander Col. Adalbert Toepel said damage was limited to the immediate area.

Toepel said the bomblets were being neutralized when a tank containing the devices exploded, throwing several of them out on the ground. An inspection of the site showed that some of the bomblets had ruptured and seven were leaking GB.

Dick Whitaker, a spokesman for Dugway, said 20 to 25 persons were evacuated from the area but no one was close enough to be contaminated.

HOT WEATHER SPARKS PLANT EXPLOSIONS

SUMMERLAND (CP) — Damage was estimated at $200,000 Monday after two explosions and a fire ripped through the D.A. Industries fibreglass plant near here.

No injuries were reported as the plant's 14 workers escaped through a rear door.

The plant was located in a new building, opened less than two months ago.

Summerland fire chief Mike Murphy said the explosions were "quick flash-fire explosions" caused by hot weather which caused a reaction in the chemicals used in the plant.

He said two firemen were overcome by cyanide gas given off during the blaze.

Levesque Could Sit Pat on Language—Report

By KEN POLE

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — An independent study of the use of English and French in Quebec indicates strongly that Rene Levesque didn't need to bring in his controversial language legislation.

Completed in March for the Secretary of State's department, it was prepared by Dr. Ronald Sutherland of the University of Sherbrooke English department and attention was focused on it by written questions tabled in the House of Commons a few days ago by Liberal MP Harold Herbert.

Curiously enough, despite the general findings of the report, the government has chosen so far to keep quiet, distributing it only to departmental libraries across the country.

According to Herbert who represents the riding of Vaudreuil west of Montreal, Sutherland's report shows not only that the anglophone presence is no longer significant in many parts of Quebec, but also that many anglophones have been taking special pains to learn French, to facilitate working in an increasingly French culture.

"It very clearly defeats the need for Levesque to do anything at all," the Liberal backbencher said in an interview Monday. "It's happening already in Quebec and we don't need Levesque's legislation, obviously."

Nowhere does the report say, as Herbert points out in one of his written questions, that "the Quebec francophone majority is in danger of being dominated by the anglophone minority."

What it does say — and this may help explain why the federal government has been less than anxious to publicize it — is that official bilingualism hasn't been as successful in Quebec as Ottawa would have liked.

It says the average Quebecois is primarily, even exclusively in many cases, preoccupied with what happens in Quebec, While they aren't particularly concerned about bilingual government services in, say, Moose Jaw, there could be considerable sensitivity "about the sign on a washroom door in an executive suite in Trois Rivieres."

Sutherland notes that when the average French-speaking Quebec resident is drawn by the sun and sea of Florida and other southern states, he or she finds ways to transcend the language barrier.

"At home, in Quebec, he no longer feels like it. Pride and principle rather than practicability are what is at stake and it is for this reason that the practical solution of promoting bilingualism in order to make the francophone Canadian feel at home throughout the nation, important as it may be in the long term, is not working as it should in the current situation."

that it would be a propaganda arm for the government.

He said its purpose was to deal with requests for information from the public; a task too large for his small national unity group in the Privy Council.

The foundations for the group had been laid a couple of months ago with Pierre Lefebre of his office heading it. It had only been formalized recently and was just getting under way.

Tellier said it was completely different from Information Canada which was scrapped by the government last year as part of an austerity drive. It saved the taxpayer about $7 million.

The group would not set up "storefront operations" like the Information Canada bookstores.

For example, Tellier said, last week the group distributed to all MPs copies of Quebec's revised language law proposals — Bill 101.

Trudeau said the basic aim of the information centre was to "make available to Canadians information and facts favorable to Canada rather than to separatism."

Lawrence raised the issue based on published reports quoting Secretary of State John Roberts as saying the prime minister had directed him to begin work on a new information network.

He was also quoted as saying the group would distribute non-partisan information about the federal government because the news media only spread bad news about the Trudeau administration.

"Let's face it, bad news is news," Roberts is quoted as saying. "Good news doesn't make it."

Trudeau urged the opposition to support the new centre, but Lawrence later told reporters much more information was needed on the matter.

"The prime minister should not think he can trap the opposition in all kinds of weird things in the name of national unity," he said.

He was concerned over the possibility of "news manipulation" in that the group might try to "downplay the bad news and grind out at public expense matters that would put the government in a good light."

Armed Guard Ban Studied by Munro

By DAN POTTIER
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Labor Minister John Munro says the possibility of rules to keep armed guards away from labor conflicts is being examined by his department.

"As a general proposition it makes a lot of sense," the minister told reporters Monday.

However, careful study was needed to see which level of government has the jurisdiction to bring this about.

"We are now looking at this matter to see if it is covered by present laws," he added.

He was responding to questions about the wounding of eight strikers Friday at the Robin Hood Multifoods Ltd. flour mill in Montreal.

Three security guards from a private firm pleaded not guilty Saturday to charges of discharging a firearm with the intent to maim or wound. The company involved is Bureau des Detectives industrielles.

Earlier, New Democratic Party leader Ed Broadbent had urged Ottawa to adopt no firearms policy in labor conflict under its jurisdiction.

Calling it a "violent and very disturbing incident," Broadbent said Ottawa should make it clear that it was inappropriate to hire armed guards in industrial disputes where tempers can flare.

The police forces were available to maintain law and order when there were perceived threats to property.

He urged Munro to call Robin Hood management to Ottawa to stress those points, but the minister rejected the this idea saying it would indicate he had made a judgment as to where responsibility lay for the incident.

"I do not want to make judgments off the cuff," he said, "although I do not approve of the use of firearms to maim people. I cannot attach responsibility to anyone becaust I do not know all the facts."

Broadbent told a news conference the prime responsibility was with the company which hired a private security company.

FERRY OFFICERS APPEAL BACKED

B.C. Ferry and Marine Workers Union will support a bid by its officer component to be reclassified by the Labor Relations Board, although the union executive believes the move is wrong.

A statement by the executive and table officers Monday said the view of officers is respected, but is is felt the union should observe the first year of the amalgamated union in an effort to make it work.

Officers were ordered to join with unlicenced ferry workers formerly with B.C. Government Employees Union to form the new BCFMWU.

A B.C. Ferries Officers Committee has been formed with the object of testing the validity of the LRB ruling that forced the 500 officers into the new union for a total membership of 2,600.

Legal advice suggests officers may be subject to federal government jurisdiction because shipping and navigation are federal responsibilities.

The statement said a majority of members, including officers, want to make the single union work. Four officers were party to the statement.

SCHOOL BOARD SEES SURPLUS

Although it is only halfway through the budget year, Greater Victoria school board officials are cautiously predicting a surplus for the second straight year.

Trustee Peter Dorazio, noting most departments have spent less than half their budget, Monday night asked superintendent Allan Stables if this is an indication of a year-end surplus.

Stables said there are still some factors to be considered, "but yes, I think we will have a surplus. That's a feeling I have."

He said he'd be "foolish" to try and put a figure on it at this point.

Last year the district ended up with a surplus of more than $3 million, and most of the tax reduction this year was attributable to that surplus.

Kerster said the vouchers for the $21,276 revealed the money was in return for constituency secretarial services for several NDP MLAs of the day representing such diverse ridings as Kootenay, Kamloops, Nanaimo and Cowichan-Malahat.

Kerster said the practice is still going on and suggested the payments were made under "questionable circumstances," because NDP-MLA Dave Stupich of Nanaimo, also chairman of the public accounts committee, is a director of the Nanaimo Commonwealth Holding Society.

Socred Ray Loewen (Burnaby-Edmonds) said the payments to the society were "only one step removed" from Stupich getting the funds directly.

Stupich promised an explanation at an upcoming meeting of the public accounts committee, probably next week, prompting a comment from Labor Minister Allan Williams that the committee would finally get to the bottom of the "Nanaimo Dodge."

NEWS BRIEFS

Truce Disputed

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt says a ceasefire has taken hold on its embattled western frontier, and a military spokesman has denied a Libyan ambassador's statement that his countrymen were still battling Egyptian invaders.

1.6M Unemployed

LONDON (AP) — More people are out of work in Britain than at any time since the end of the Second World War, the employment department said today. Jobless in Britain and Northern Ireland totalled 1.6 million on July 14, or 6.8 per cent of the work force, an increase of almost 164,000 since last month.

the weather

Record afternoon temperatures for the date were set or equalled at some stations in the B.C. Interior on Monday. Kamloops at 37 degrees was the hot spot in Canada. This hot weather in the Interior will continue through Wednesday under mainly sunny skies as only southern sections are expected to have any cloud or showers today. Along the coast overnight low cloud and fog will give way to sunshine during the morning. A weak disturbance will bring increasing cloud to the south coast by Wednesday evening.

Bawlf Unveils Heritage Site Law

BAWLF
. . . new trust fund

New legislation providing greater protection for heritage structures and sites in B.C. was introduced Monday by Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf.

The Heritage Conservation Act sets up a new Heritage Trust with a "substantial endowment" from the provincial government to help all communities and organizations in B.C. concerned with heritage conservation.

The bill consolidates for the first time all legislation dealing with heritage conservation, now spread throughout several different acts.

The act also streamlines the heritage designation process for municipalities and allows a freeze of up to 90 days to be imposed by municipalities on any work done on a potential heritage site.

For the first time, a municipal council will be able to compensate the owner of a heritage site, if he will lose because of the designation. Until now, councils are expressly forbidden from providing any compensation.

The act covers sites and structures of historic, archeological, paleontological (fossils), architectural and scenic significance.

"In the past, our citizens have struggled to find ways and means of preserving our heritage with few resources at their disposal," Bawlf said.

Many small communities, he said, could enhance their tourist appeal by the preservation of heritage structures, [illegible] lack the expertise and funds to develop the potential.

The new Heritage Trust, Bawlf said, is designed to close such a gap.

The trust, which Bawlf said will have a board of about 12 members appointed by the provincial cabinet, will be funded by an endowment from the provincial government and private donations and bequests.

The trust will provide information on the financial, legal and technical aspects of heritage conservation to all interested organizations in B.C.

The trust will also have the power to acquire and dispose of property and provide loans and grants.

Bawlf would not give exact figures for the provincial donations to the fund, but said that over the years, the fund will accumulate into the millions, although it would not be that high in the beginning.

Municipal councils would have the option under the legislation to impose an immediate 30-day freeze on any work being done on a potential heritage site.

The freeze could be extended a further 60 days while a bylaw designating the site as heritage is considered.

Bawlf said the success of program depends on co-operation with private owners. At least 80 per cent of heritage sites and structures are in private hands, Bawlf said.

The legislation was welcomed by Victoria Ald. Bob Wright, chairman of city council's zoning and planning committee, as a means of putting "an immediate stop to the erosion of Victoria's character.

"Until now, we've had no legal means of withholding demolition permits," Wright said. "This legislation will give us the tools to adminster a good heritage program.

"At least now we can consider the designation of a building without fear that a bulldozer might run through it next morning."

WOLFE

Liberal leader Gordon Gibson said Monday he is willing to bet his seat in the B.C. legislature on the outcome of a committee which will look into allegations that three government MLAs improperly received expense money.

Gibson told the legislature he is so sure that the committee — which will have a government majority — will clear the three, that he will resign his seat if it rules the three should be disqualified.

"I will admit I was wrong," Gibson said. "I will resign my seat. I will devote my time to making tables and growing cucumbers."

He said the committee "would have all the suspense of an Idi Amin cabinet meeting; there would be no doubt whatsoever.

"Yu don't need to go to law school to know when you're getting into a game with a stacked house."

Gibson's comments were made during debate on a government motion to set up a committee to look into opposiion charges that Recreation and Conservation Minister Sam Bawlf, Agriculture Minister Jim Hewitt and George Kerster (SC — Coquitlam) improperly accepted expense money while serving on a government committee on B.C. housing problems last year.

The motion was passed Monday 28 to 16, with Gibson and Progressive Conservative leader Scott Wallace joining the New Democratic party in opposition to it.

The opposition says the matter should be decided by the courts, where it could be decided without government influence.

The opposition has said the three MLAs were in contravention of the Constitution Act and should therefore not be allowed to sit in the legislature.

"The reason for the committee is to use the government majority to exculpate those members," Gibson said. "It makes me a little bit ill."

Gibson's speech followed a legal duel between Garde Gardom, the present attorney-general, and Alex Macdonald, the attorney-general with the former NDP government.

Gardom quoted precedents ranging as far back as the reign of Queen Elizabeth I to back the government case to send the matter to a special committee.

He said it has been clearly established that Parliament has the right to deal with the qualifications of its members, and the matter should not go to the courts.

The attorney-general said the intended government action does not preclude a civil action being launched in the courts, but the government has only one route to go — through a committee.

Macdonald said Gardom's precedents had nothing to do with the matter under debate.

He said that no matter how Gardom equivocated, he could not deny that in the Constitution Act there exists a clause saying matters dealing with qualifications of members would be brought to the courts by a private citizen.

Macdonald suggested that Gardom, as chief law enforcement officer of B.C., be the one to bring the matter to the courts.

He said the government was opting for a "political court" that would no doubt produce a political ruling.

Gibson said that if the government had any confidence that its MLAs were free of wrongdoing, it would have taken the matter to the courts.

Asked later by reporters why he himself does not initiate a court action, Gibson said it was the attorney-general's job and such a move might seem overly partisan.

Housing Minister Hugh Curtis told the legislature earlier that expenses for the three MLAs had been paid while they sat on the committee.

The opposition claims that since the committee was not approved by the legislature, the expenses were paid illegally.

RAILWEST RETRAINING ORGANIZED

A three-party agreement was signed approximately 10 days ago to provide for the retraining and relocation of employees at British Columbia Railways railcar manufacturing plant in Squamish, Labor Minister Allan Williams told the B.C. legislature Monday.

B.C. Rail announced Thursday that its Railwest plant would be closed in mid-August when the present order to 100 ballast cars is completed.

Williams said that an agreement had been signed by Canada Manpower, his ministry and Railwest a "week or 10 days ago," to make Canada Manpower services available to the employees.

B.C. Gets Short Shrift From CBC News—Gibson

The CBC national news gives B.C. short shrift, covering only "lightweight stuff like belly flop contests and the battle of Wreck Beach," Liberal Leader Gordon Gibson complained Monday.

Gibson asked Premier Bill Bennett to make representation to the CBC so the rest of the country will know about the "11 per cent of Canadians living out here largely unknown to the rest of Canada."

Gibson said the recent Canadian Radio-Telecommunications Commission revealed that B.C. news rates only 0.3 per cent of story time on the national news.

Bennett said he was unaware of the figure, but expressed his concern that "newsworthy" B.C. be known to the rest of Canada.

He did not say whether he would comply with Gibson's request to make representation to the CBC about the treatment of B.C.

MLAs Impeded In Work—Levi

Finance Minister Evan Wolfe was accused Monday of infringing on the rights of members of the legislature and of "obstructing and impeding their performance as legislators."

Norman Levi (NDP—Vancouver-Burrard) said that advertisements for senior positions with the British Columbia Systems Corp., a Crown corporation proposed by the Social Credit government, were "a contempt of this house."

Levi noted that while there is a bill before the legislature to set up the corporation, which would handle all computer operations for the government, it has not yet been approved.

"It's one thing for the minister of finance to present a bill, the Systems Act, to the house," Levi said, "and an entirely different matter . . .when he authorizes advertisements that clearly indicate that the intent of the bill, to establish a systems corporation, had been accomplished.

"It is my contention that there has been a breach of the privilege of the house by the minister of finance."

Levi said Wolfe had "obstructed and impeded the prerogatives" of the MLAs by authorizing the ads before the legislature had approved the bill setting up the corporation.

"The minister's actions impinge on the hard-won prerogatives of Parliament," Levi said.

"The minister is presuming that the bill will pass despite the fact that the bill has not been called for second reading.

"Certainly his presumptions offends this house."

Speaker Ed Smith said he will study the accusations, and announce a decision at a later date.

Courtenay Tory Volunteers

COURTENAY, (CP) — Courtenay lawyer Vic Stephens said Monday he will seek election as B.C. Progressive Conservative party leader at the party's convention in October.

Stephens is the first person to step forward as a candidate for leader since Scott Wallace announced last week that he intended to resign.

"If I am able to reconcile my personal life and my business affairs — basically get my life straightened out — I will run for leader," said Stephens.

Stephens said he will have to give up his law practice to run.

His most important project if he is elected party head will be the attempt to unify the provincial and federal tories, he said.

"I think I am in a unique position to undertake that task, since I am a vice-president for the B.C. branch of the federal party and have also run provincially for the Tories."

Stephens was a candidate in the Comox riding during the 1975 provincial election and managed to increase the Tory vote in the riding.

The Tory convention will be held Oct. 7 in Kelowna, and will mark Wallace's formal resignation from politics.

Jewelry Found

ISTANBUL (AP) — Turkish archeologists have unearthed golden jewelry, a golden crown and other 1,900-year-old objects from two Roman tombs in western Turkey, an official of a local museum said. Nezib Firatli of the Istanbul Archeological Museum said the artifacts date back to the first century A.D., when Rome ruled what is now Turkey under the Emperor Domitian.

Just a few ideas that your organization might like to think about for a Canada Works project.
These and other ideas may bring new jobs and lasting benefits to your community and British Columbia. And private companies can apply too, with non-profit proposals.

Please remember that your project, whatever it is, should make use of and add to the skills of the unemployed in your area, helping them to re-enter the work force on a full-time basis.
But the deadline is August 26. So let's get working on some good ideas.

Optimism and Agony

RIP Railwest. Born 1975 amid optimism and rosy economic prospects. Died 1977 of starvation, a bankrupt. Losses of several million dollars in capital investment, about 200 jobs, the municipality of Squamish out $400,000 in tax arrears. Cause of death a squeeze play by Ottawa, Victoria and the parent-owner British Columbia Railway.

Has the provincial government learned anything from its expensive experiment in rail car manufacturing?

It was Canada's most modern rolling stock plant and was capable of producing several cars a day at full capacity. More than 200 skilled workers and managerial staff were attracted to the plant at Squamish, where the BCR comes down to tidewater out of the province's interior. They brought their families, bought homes, entered their children in local schools. The closure means pulling up these established roots and a severe blow to the economy of Squamish.

Mayor Pat Brennan notes bitterly that the end of Railwest suddenly reduces the town's work force by one-eighth. Imagine that overnight 10,000 people were laid off by employers in the Victoria area, or that the national defence department decided to close the Esquimalt base and you can judge the impact upon Squamish of Railwest's demise.

How did it happen? How did the government of B.C. end up building a modern car manufacturing plant one year, then killing it off barely two years later?

Part of the answer is the differing philosophies of the New Democratic Party and Social Credit, who traded places as government and official opposition during Railwest's brief life. The idea was conceived by the NDP as a supplier of rail cars to the BCR, at a time of a severe car shortage on the railway and other North American lines. It chose to ignore more pessimistic advice that the shortage was only temporary and that there was actually a surplus of manufacturing capacity.

With the change of governments came a change in philosophy. The BCR would now lease cars, which is cheaper in the short term than laying out the $30,000 or $40,000 each car would cost if manufactured by Railwest. Also, the plant is a small one compared to eastern firms, and cannot compete on runs of cars totalling only a few hundred.

The politicians involved in the affair have not brought much honor to their profession. Although Ottawa had no principal involvement in either building Railwest or shutting it down, it certainly didn't help much when help was needed.

The Liberal government lieutenants in B.C., Justice Minister Ron Basford and Sen. Ray Perrault, kept dangling evanescent car orders, then withdrawing them or changing the conditions.

Economic Development Minister Don Phillips must be the world's most positive thinker, a Pollyanna among mortal men, for his part in the affair consisted of insisting in the face of well-documented doom and gloom that Railwest still had a chance.

For example, he came out of a BCR board meeting last week and announced that he'd always "been optimistic about the future of Railwest and I want to say at this time that optimism has not changed."

That was the same meeting at which directors — Phillips among them — decided to shut the plant, so as not to "prolong the agony," in the words of BCR chairman J. N. Fraine. The minister's optimism appears to have no basis in fact or fiction and the hope that the plant may reopen in the near future is illusory, according to the BCR statement.

There's little to be gained in crying now or pointing the finger at a scapegoat, but Railwest should not be allowed to disappear into the sea of red ink keeping the BCR afloat without a post mortem. The plant has cost several million dollars already; the government should spend a few thousand more to find out what went wrong. Hire an outside consultant and give him terms of reference suitably free of politics so he may come up with a blueprint of how not to establish secondary industry, so there may be at least a negative benefit from all the money poured into the plant.

Brickbat? A Bouquet!

The Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) should be jumping up and down with joy at the latest criticism of its leadership and activities. Nothing could be better arranged to increase what minimal credibility the CLC has than such a violent attack on it from one of its own members.

The attack comes from the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) which accuses the CLC in general of "a betrayal of the principles of the trade union movement" and CLC president Joe Morris of being "nothing but a traitor to the labor movement."

What was the heinous crime the CLC had perpetrated to deserve this abuse from one of its member unions? Why, it had told the federal government it was willing to join in economic discussions with the government and with business leaders. What an heretical idea for a union group to espouse!

The CLC has not exactly been known across the country as an organization about to sell out the labor movement. Rather, many Canadians have believed it to be much too radical in pressing for higher wages for workers and removal of anti-inflation guidelines at a time when this appeared to be against the national interest. Some people may even remember it as the group that organized a one-day national strike (sorry, day of protest) last October, hardly the activity of a bunch of management patsies.

But now all is clear; the view of all those Canadians was wrong. CUPW has told us the truth. The only time it's acceptable even to talk to the government or business is to tell them you're about to go on strike, legally or illegally.

In the face of such 19th century thinking, the CLC looks more moderate and rational by the minute.

CLAUDE ADAMS

Leon Jaworski Rides Again

WASHINGTON — Leon Jaworski, the man who stepped in where others failed to orchestrate the final moves of Watergate and force Richard Nixon out of office, is coming back to Washington for another round of stable-cleaning.

And though there are smaller fish to fry, and less at stake than the presidency, Jaworski will ostensibly be dealing with a potentially explosive matter — the very integrity of the U.S. Congress.

The South Korean influence-buying scandal has been mostly shadows and whispers so far but because of an inept investigation and a persistent press, a public clamor has been aroused. Was U.S. policy in Korea influenced by bribes, gifts and free trips to congressmen and officials?

Has Congress, in the awkward position of having to investigate its own ethics, thrown a blanket over the investigation, hoping it would disappear? Or, as some insiders maintain, are we merely talking about a string of minor indiscretions whipped out of all proportion by a press that cannot forget Watergate?

Top-level Moves

Frantic top-level moves to bring Jaworski, a $200,000-a-year Texas lawyer, into the case came last week after the whispers of scandal touched two top Democrats, House Speaker Thomas O'Neill and House Majority Leader Jim Wright. They wanted a "name" to put new direction in the stuttering investigation, someone above reproach.

Jaworski, head of the fourth-biggest law firm in the country, was the classic choice for an exercise that will be as much public relations as investigative.

He fashioned the strategy that forced Nixon to resign, but balanced this out by repeatedly pushing for his pardon and thus keeping him out of jail. Remember Nixon as the "unindicted conspirator?"

His image as the non-partisan seeker of truth was bolstered by his skill at wresting evidence from reluctant sources and grittily plodding on when the White House turned up the heat.

While sometimes seen as being a bit too much of the frontier pragmatist, the New York Times says one of his problems is that he is accustomed to moving "in the middle of big events, big money and Texas politics, yet there is little question about Jaworski's own integrity.

The Korea scandal, of course, is not Watergate, despite some incidental parallels, and it will not necessarily respond to Watergate-tested solutions. And Jaworski's role is a somewhat curious one, this time largely to demonstrate the old democratic conceit that appearance is as important as fact in the exercise of justice.

"The House is in a tremendous image box," a congressional staffer close to the investigation said candidly last week.

"If they got a lawyer of less than Jaworski's standing, and he concluded 'no, we couldn't find anything,' would the public accept it? I don't think so.

LEON JAWORSKI
. . . once more into the breach

The answer is a clear-cut no, at least in this probe. The line between the unethical acceptance of gifts (i.e. jewelry boxes, silk scarves and cufflinks) and simply picking the fruits of lobbying is far too fuzzy, especially if congressmen have to judge their own indiscretions.

There have been reports, largely unsubstantiated but worrisome nonetheless, that five members of the House ethics committee themselves accepted gifts or favors from the South Koreans.

Furthermore, the committee has been unable to satisfactorily reply to leaks that more than 100 current and former congressmen accepted goodies from the energetic Korean lobby, which financed the exclusive George Town Club here to woo politicians.

The investigation suffered its most serious blow last week when special counsel Philip Lacovara quit the probe, complaining of conflicts and lack of trust. That precipitated the Jaworski recruiting.

"It's been one bump and stumble after the other, reinforcing the impression in the public mind that there's some devilry at work. Jaworski is now a critical factor, and congressmen want the South Korean thing out of the way before congressional elections next year.

"If he quits, you might as well hang this place up," said an informed source last week.

So far, Jaworski has made all the right noises. He firmly demanded complete independence and subpoena powers, and got them. He surprised committee members by insisting that he work for free. And he said that if anybody, presumably from the White House down, tried to impede his investigation, he would not hesitate to "go public."

Two-edged Sword

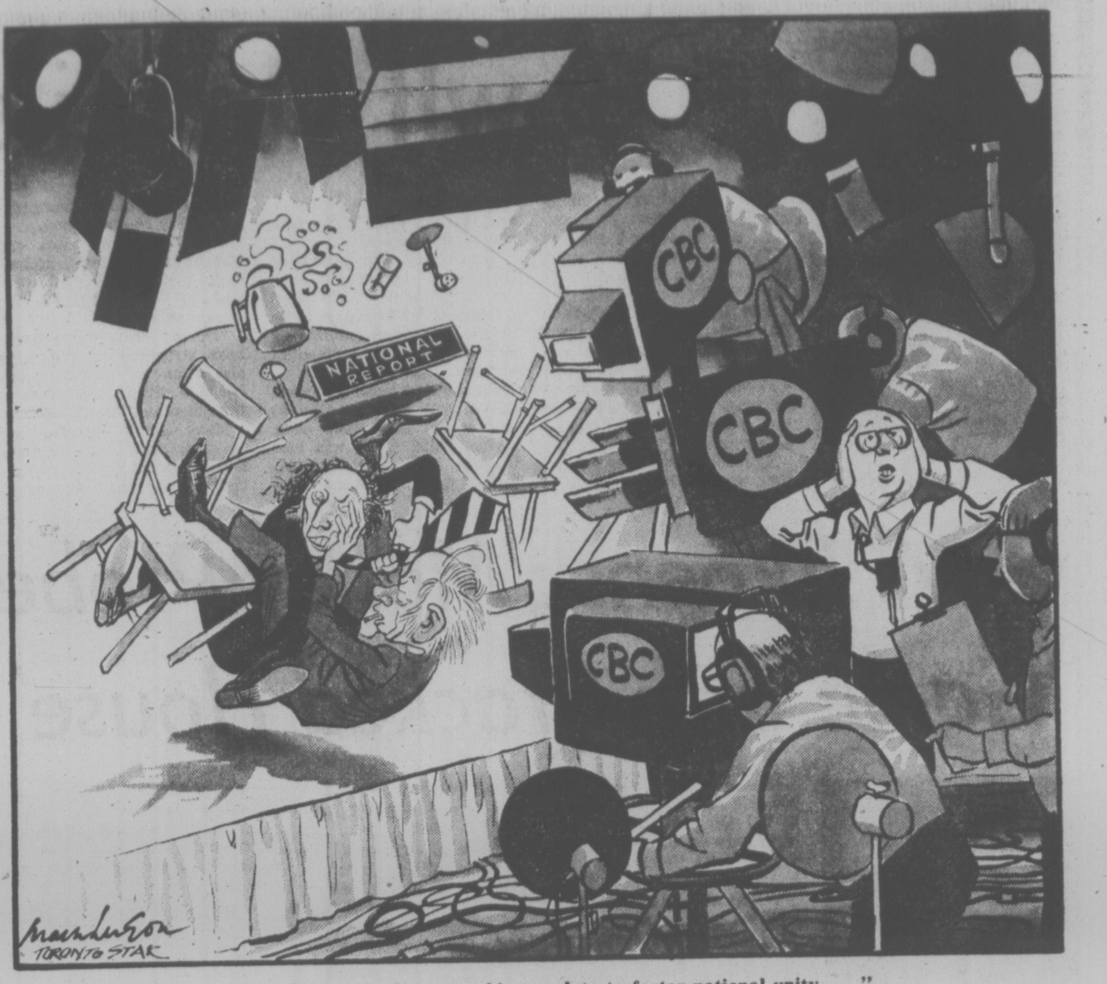
So he will ride in from Texas next month, and start cleaning house. Among his first tasks will be a review of the hundreds of questionnaires which the committee sent out to congressmen and officials concerning South Korean influences, and to secure the testimony of the elusive Korean businessman Tongsun Park, the alleged middleman for the "influence" money and gifts.

But senior Democrats must realize that, as solid as his public image might be, Jaworski is a sharp two-edged sword. He will have a lot to say about what constitutes "wrongdoing" in the Korean affair, and he could try to shrug off even the most subtle restraints.

Some observers here say that if he does get complete independence in the probe, it would be a miracle of modern politics. The new post-Watergate morality, after all, only extends so far.

And there are dozens of nervous congressmen here who, to some degree or other, have had questionable contacts with the South Korean lobby, even if it's as little as the gift of a silk scarf.

Financially secure at age 71, some say, Jaworski has little to lose.



". . . there goes the network's mandate to foster national unity . . ."

RICHARD GWYN

Freedom from Information

OTTAWA — Patrick McFadden, a wit, a writer, and in uncreative moments, a professor of journalism at Carleton University, predicts that the next right the public will demand will be "freedom from information."

McFadden's thesis is that the deluge of news (most of it is bad news since good news doesn't sell) soon will provoke the public into turning off all TV and radio sets and slamming their doors in newsboys' faces.

He has a point. Consider the immediate future: An all-news radio network has just started; the Toronto Star soon will publish a Sunday edition; Ottawa soon will get a fourth newspaper; the CBC will stretch its national TV news to half an hour; Maclean's magazine has promised to go weekly next year. Consider the recent past: Until about 20 years ago we survived, like South Sea savages, without newscasts every half-hour.

Quality Changed

Quantity on this scale doesn't so much affect quality as change it. Because the building-blocks of news stories are drama, controversy, conflict and contradiction, we search for these amid the dross of day-to-day events, lovingly record them and heighten them. All for the purpose of getting the reader to actually read what we bash out. Better dead than un-read.

The question to be coped with is press accountability and responsibility. We don't — one of McFadden's first-year students just possibly might still believe otherwise — report the news only, we quite often make it.

The dilemma — freedom of the press vs the public interest — was best described by the U.S. political writer Theodore White. "The power of the press in America is a primordial one," White wrote back in 1972. "It sets the agenda of public discussion, and this sweeping political power is unrestrained by any law."

White's observations are troubling. They can't be dismissed by the glib press retort that everything we print or broadcast is automatically in the public interest because we provide only what the public wants. So do pornographers.

Lack of "laws", in White's phrase, or of any process of accountability other than the professionalism of editors, is creating a political vacuum. Into it, the bureaucrats are edging their way.

One sign of changing times was Judy Lamarsh's recommendations, in her report to the Ontario government, for censorship as a solution to violence in the media. Another was Quebec Culture Minister Louis O'Neill's recent speech in which he described Quebec's broadcasters as "an entrustment of the cultural policies of the state."

Now Prime Minister Trudeau has joined the chorus. "Who is controlling the messages?" he asked rhetorically at his press conference this week. "Should it be the state? Should it be private enterprise with its billions of dollars?"

Trudeau's comments were inspired by the report of the Canadian Radio-Television and Telecommunications Commission which examined — hastily — the CBC and found it failing to promote national unity, and which didn't examine anyone else concluded that all electronic media in Canada are "biased to the point of subversiveness."

Unsubstantiated by any facts, the sensationalism of the commission's second conclusion is as bad as anything done by any of the media it criticizes. As for the preaching at the CBC, this perhaps is deserved but the sermon is stale. The commission for example deplores as "a low coverage" the 17 per cent of its newscast time that the CBC English network devotes to items from Quebec. That's a case of looking at a half-full bottle and calling it half-empty. The proportion — close to one-fifth — strikes me as high enough to deserve applause. Go any higher and you'd test the tolerance of viewers, who want mostly to hear about themselves.

Itself biased and more than a bit naive, the commission has bungled the chance it had to contribute to the debate on press accountability.

Hire Critics

Yet the debate is important. I've dodged about, quoting and criticizing others. Here are two contributions of my own. Media owners should use some of those billions of dollars to create jobs for critics who would rip into the press as rudely and as ruthlessly as the critics the press already employs rip into the arts, theatre, movies, books, sports, and politics.

Second, Trudeau should stop using the excuse of a report by the CRTC to advance his personal preference for state intervention in the flow of messages between itself and the public. A Freedom of Information Act would get him more quickly to his goal of an informed public.

Mind you, I'll defend to the death Trudeau's right to say, as he did at the same press conference, that the issue of press accountability, "is one which has very great implications for the future of our society and for democracy in any sense of that word." Too many politicians are too timid to take on the press in public. One of Trudeau's attractions is that he isn't.

Public Benefit

May I add one more to the arguments already advanced against the public funding of private schools? It is this:

In a free society the population is expected to control its own affairs, public and private. The successful functioning of such a society demands a population knowledgeable and thoughtful enough to do the job. Such a society needs to provide itself with a system of education freely and equally available to all. The whole society benefits, not just those individuals who at any given moment are using the schools.

Schooling is expensive. It would be unfair to expect those individuals registered in schools to pay their whole cost, when all of society benefits, in the long run, from having its citizens educated. It would also be impractical, as very few individuals could afford an education, and we would have too few educated citizens to keep our highly technical society functioning.

It is reasonable to expect every member of society to contribute to pay for schools which benefit the whole society, whether they themselves are actually enrolled in those schools or not, since without this unanimous public support we could not afford such schools, and society as a whole would suffer. It is also reasonable to expect publicly-funded schools to be equally accessible to all.

There is no reason to prevent those who wish to use private schools from exercising their freedom of choice, but surely those who wish to use a special service, one which is only possible for a few, should expect to pay for it. They are not prevented from dancing; they are only expected to pay their own piper should they prefer him to the music already provided. If they want everyone to contribute to paying their piper, then he must be prepared to play for everyone.

The public school system can adapt itself to the diverse and changing needs and desires of the society it serves, as witness the various experimental and special schools and programs presently offered by the Greater Victoria school districts, and still provide schools accessible to everyone. There is room and need for change and improvement in our public school system and such things usually cost money. Any tax money available for education should surely go to improve schools which are open to everyone, and not be split up to help finance schools which are accessible only to a few. — Pat Greene, 150 Wellington.

Moral Soapbox

I would like to answer C. D. Victoria's letter Birth Control, dated July 11. I feel that as there are different soapboxes on which to stand, I have the right to stand on mine — the moral one.

I am a Christian, and because of this the Bible is the basis upon which I base my life and decisions. I have found great peace because of this. C. D.'s letter, on the other hand, is one of hurt and confusion — as a result of never finding the "right" method of birth control. At this time, I am a single parent with three children (aged 11, eight and five). My husband deserted us three years ago because he was not interested in family responsibility. As I do not believe in sex outside of the marriage union, I do not have the nerve-wracking tension of wondering if I am pregnant or not every month. I would sympathize with C. D. if she were married, and wished to limit her family. When I was married, I tried different forms of birth control, and I agree — most were bad news. The only answer I found was the birth control pill with the lowest hormone dosage. It seems a shame, but the majority of the pain we feel, is what we inflict on ourselves, by our decisions and actions. — Margaret Hale, 22 Hayward Heights.

Dog Owners

I am writing this letter because I feel it is time that some attention is paid to the deplorable state of affairs regarding dogs in Victoria, or, more specifically, dog owners.

I realize that some dog owners in this city do take full responsibility for their pets, in that they keep them in their own yards, walk them on a leash, and do not allow them to defecate anywhere but in their own yard, or, should the deed occur elsewhere, will conscientiously scoop up the mess. Such owners, I would suggest, are a minority. It increasingly astounds me that dog owners do not see such behavior as the accepted norm.

I have been forced to give up running in town because of the number of dogs on the loose, all of whom seem to see a natural enemy in a running person. This, added to the fact that one must constantly be on the lookout for dog droppings, takes away all the joy one can experience in running. I do not see why I have to put up with this sort of thing, or has Victoria gone to the dogs?

I am not a dog owner, not because I dislike dogs, but because I am away all day, and do not have the time or facilities to which I feel a pet is entitled.

It is time that dog owners are forced to face the responsibilities that come with being a pet owner. Dog-owners of Victoria — clean up your act! — S. E. Day, 1251 McKenzie Street.

Blackout: Rich Greedy Too

By SUSAN JACOBY

NEW YORK — Stan Grossel, my downstairs neighbor, is one of the Good Samaritans who enabled well-off white New Yorkers to pat themselves on the backs when they heard frightening news of widespread looting and arson in poor neighborhoods on the day of the power blackout.

As the temperature climbed into the 90s on the morning of July 14, Grossell stood at the corner of 88th St. and York Ave. — located near the East River in one of the most expensive sections of the city — and directed traffic. He worked for hours, and his presence was sorely needed by pedestrians and drivers alike.

Many other local residents, clucking disapprovingly at the news of looting on transistor radios, were no help to Grossel.

"Who told that bastard to give me orders?" one man shouted as he started to cross the street against Grossell's hand signal; another man yelled an obscenity at a woman he had nearly knocked down with a bicycle because he ignored Grossell's gesture and turned a corner.

That's the way it was the day of the blackout on East 86th St. If the poor who looted were saying they felt no sense of responsibility to their own communities — much less to the city as a whole — the rich in my neighborhood were saying the same thing in a manner too subtle for the Evening News.

Let it be said that there were more people like Stan Grossel than there were people who cursed him from the curb, just as there were more terrified poor people who barricaded themselves in their apartments than there were looters in the streets.

That didn't make it any less disturbing to watch the behavior of some of the best-educated, best-housed, best-fed people in the city.

Most of the people on my block aren't millionaires, but they do make three or four or five times as much money as the average resident of New York City. In my building, a one-bedroom apartment costs $400 to $500 and a two-bedroom apartment $500 to $700, depending on the floor.

The behavior of many tenants during the blackout was reminiscent of their behavior during a strike of building maintenance men last year. In both instances, people displayed a bewildering inability to understand why high rents cannot always buy insulation from trouble.

On the day of the blackout, some tenants fumbled with their mailbox keys in the pitch-black lobby. They refused to accept the doorman's statement that no mail would be delivered, even though it should have seemed obvious that it was impossible to deliver mail in the dark.

I asked one woman why she expected to receive mail when there was no light to allow sorting — either in the postal distribution centers or in the apartment building. "I can't answer that," she snapped. "I'm not a mailman."

Then there were the people who threw open brown paper bags of garbage down the chute in spite of the fact that the basement, like the hallways, was completely dark. This meant the building maintenance men could not perform their usual task of stuffing the garbage into plastic bags for street pickup by the Sanitation Department.

Tenants had done the same thing with the garbage during the building maintenance strike last summer. Once, when I suggested to a woman that it was easy enough to buy plastic bags and put the garbage on the street herself, she replied — "At these rents, I'm entitled to service."

In the heat on the day of the blackout, the garbage rotted quickly. The next morning, after the power was restored, the putrid smell pervaded the building until maintenance men were able to clear away the mess. The situation was the same in other high-rise buildings on 86th St.

"The tenants just don't care," sighed a doorman in a more expensive building than mine.

"They'd scream if they saw a rat in their apartment, but they don't care that dumping garbage gives other people rats."

There was endless grumbling about the fact that our area, known as Yorkville, was the last in the city to have its power restored. Power was restored to many sections of Manhattan in the early afternoon of the 14th, but 86th St. was without light and water until 10:40 p.m. The complaints were understandable: It was unpleasant and scary to light the candles at 8:30 in anticipation of a second night of darkness. Less understandable was the frequent implication that we should have received preferential treatment because we lived in a "nice neighborhood."

"What should Con Ed do?" one woman asked a man on the street. "Turn on the power according to who pays the highest rent?"

"That wouldn't be a bad idea," her companion replied.

The grumbling about the injustice of having no power in a high-rent district brought back a memory of a similar comment made in a more horrifying context. A young man had killed himself by jumping out a 10th floor window in my building and the body lay on the pavement in the courtyard for several hours while the police completed their investigation.

When I walked through the lobby that morning, a man was complaining because the body had not been removed. "At these rents," he said, "we shouldn't have to look at that." His comment might have been the theme of the ill-behaved rich on the day of the blackout.

Local merchants also encountered the ire of customers who refused to make allowances for the unusual circumstances. In my neighborhood, Gristede's was the only chain supermarket that managed to open July 14. The manager lined the aisles with candles and customers were able to buy canned food at more reasonable prices than the ones charged by small delicatessens.

The Gristede's management had imported bags of ice from New Jersey to place among the perishable foods that had not already spoiled. Many people who had assumed the ice was for sale politely returned the bags when the manager explained they were there to retard food spoilage. But there were some who tried to grab the ice and run.

One woman stuffed a large bag of ice into her Louis Vuitton satchel. A man spotted her and informed her that he would be delighted to call not only the store manager but the nearest policeman if she did not return the ice immediately. Needless to say, the woman was not arrested for looting.

The manager found that ice was not the only object of an attempted ripoff by upper-class looters. Canned pork and beans and soup were popular purse-stuffers. In each instance, the manager quietly asked the would-be thief to return the cans to the shelf. "Go figure it out," he said, "why anyone in a neighborhood this rich would try to steal a can of soup."

I have a sad suspicion that many of the rich who say they love New York are saying they love New York as long as their money can isolate them from the city's real problems. What they love about New York is its cultural institutions, its entertainment, its restaurants, its stores.

But many of the rich who "love" New York form a class that is, in some respects, as alienated from the city's real life as the class of poor people who live in Brownsville and Bedford-Stuyvesant. They don't care about the imposition of tuition at the once-proud, free City University because their children go to Harvard and Radcliffe. They don't care about the 25 per cent cut in subway and bus service imposed by the city's fiscal crisis because they can always afford a cab. They don't care about most of the daily hassles endured by ordinary New Yorkers living on ordinary incomes.

They care about themselves. Like the looters, the ill-behaved rich proved during the blackout that they are only concerned about themselves.

Washington Post

In Blindness of the Night, Rage

NEW YORK TIMES
An Editorial

Distance and perspective on the New York blackout leave ugly pictures in the mind. Smoke hovering over Brooklyn; shards of glass and leftover litter covering Pitkin avenue. The anguished face of a merchant whose life's work and savings have just disappeared through a broken storefront. There are lithe, dark, young bodies darting past, laden with booty. There is a bearded black man, standing on a street of his own youth, surveying the scene and pronouncing the looters "rotten scum."

After the searing emotions experienced in those few hours of our communal life, it is important now to go back and to be quite clear about exactly what it was we saw. We surely saw losses that will diminish us for years to come: losses of business, of confidence, of faith, of racial civility, of neighborhood strength. We saw the loss of some portion of the reputation of our city. We saw the creation of ugly physical scars that may never heal.

But the darkness made us see more about our city and our national policies than we have been able to see in a decade of sunshine. We were forced to confront what we as a nation have attempted to ignore, ever since President Nixon assured us that it was all right to do so: that profound problems of race and poverty still lurk just beneath the surface of this fruitful society, that they pose a constant threat to a social fabric that is in fact surprisingly fragile.

Places called Bushwick, Brownsville, East Harlem and Williamsburg are miles beyond the ken of the thriving and thrusting Americans who make policy and mold opinions. The people who live in such places have always been beyond the vision of most Americans, but since the upheavals of the 60's, they have become even less visible. The new prominence of a relative handful of members of minority groups has, in the minds of the majorities in America, masked the enduring torments of poverty and race. But the invisibility of the inhabitants of the most forsaken, barren corners of urban America does not make their anguish or their rage less real. It simply makes their situation more hopeless, and they know it.

These people are victims of economic and social forces that they sense but do not understand: Puerto Ricans from an island where economic possibilities seem limited, and blacks from Southern farms where mechanization made them superfluous. Now, they are locked in a once-promising city, watching jobs and opportunity evaporate across the suburban horizon. Federal data indicate that the jobless rate for minority youth rose from 29 per cent in 1973 to 33 per cent in the recession of '73-'74 — and beyond 40 per cent in the recovering economy of 1976. Small wonder that manpower specialists think minority youth unemployment is immune to upswings in the economic cycle.

In essence, the "animals" and the "scum" are people not bound to this society's values even by the semblance of equal opportunity in life. They have little reason to believe that the common good includes them. Of course society must protect itself. Of course the police must maintain order and criminals must be punished swiftly and certainly. But if those are the only lessons that President Carter, Mayor Beame and the rest of us carry away from last week's anguish, we are in much worse trouble than we thought in the ugly hours before dawn on Thursday. In the blindness of that night, New York and America could see rage. We've been put on notice again. We may continue to ignore the terrible problems of poverty and race, but we must do so aware of the risks to both justice and peace.

Looter at work . . . a spreading non-ethic

'A Carnival of Evil'

By WILLIAM SAFIRE

NEW YORK — In white letters on a black background, the headline of New York's Spanish newspaper, El Diario, demanded to know "Por Que?" Why?

Why, when the city's lights went out, was there a billion dollar orgy of looting and pillaging by tens of thousands of the occupants of the city's slums?

Nothing like the rampage of this Bastille Day has happened to an American city before. This was not a race riot: no discrimination was shown between black or white shopkeepers. Race relations have surely suffered — television's projection of exultant black looters wiped out the gains of the televised "Roots" — but no civil rights cause motivated the blackouts' glad-to-be-angry opportunists.

Nor was this an example of people driven by desperation to reach out for necessities. They took toasters, not bread; liquor, not milk; more sports shirts for the sporty than shoes for the shoeless. One of the participants aptly called the evil carnival atmosphere: "Christmas in July."

Why? The standard liberal answer is that this was a cry for economic help, an expression of despair by society's forgotten people. It is our fault for abandoning the Great Society, for not making certain that each ghetto resident has a job or a welfare payment to keep him content.

The standard hard line answer is just as foolishly self-flagellating: that the militia was not called out in time to keep law and order, or that the cops were not equipped with shoot-to-kill instructions.

More far-fetched answers come from people in the looting area who were neither criminals nor victims. The blackout itself was described as an "act of God," as Consolidated Edison promptly called it, which suspended the rules of lawful behavior. Or that Con Ed pulled the plug on purpose, to dramatize its need for more power plants, and that such a conspiracy justified gleeful participation in its "strike."

None of these answers, nor all together, satisfy; they are excuses, not reasons. People do not become a thieving mob because they cannot afford jewelry, booze or new couches. They do not refrain from stealing because of the presence of glinting bayonets. They do not break the law because of signs in the sky or anti-establishment conspiracy theories.

The looters looted because of the spreading non-ethic that stealing is OK if you can get away with it, as you usually can; that only a jerk passes up an opportunity to rip off his neighbor; that society not only owes you a living, but the good life.

Millions of black and Hispanic New Yorkers were the worst victims of the looting and arson on this 1977 Bastille Day, and do not deserve the shudders directed their way in its aftermath. Many of them called the looters "animals," and in a non-racial sense were right: inhumanly, the looters attached no guilt to their actions. They took what was in the stores as their right; it was free-style Christmas in July.

What is the basis for that newly widespread attitude of a "right" to rip off? Sorry, the economic despair excuse will not hold up, because poverty in the ghettos was greater in the last blackout, and the standard of living was lower in the past generation.

One reason for the I'm-entitled-to-what-I-want attitude is the philosophy that welfare is a right to be expanded and not a condition to be avoided by the able-bodied.

Another reason is the claim that because minorities have suffered discrimination in the past, they are now entitled to reparation in the form of special treatment — and some carry that claim to extremes.

Another reason is the notion that a job is something to be provided and not searched for, and that menial work is to be spurned as not a "decent" job.

Another reason is the argument that crime is the result of poverty, and that poverty is nobody's fault but the System's: it follows that in this no-fault world, society is to blame for what a poor person does when the lights are out.

Heresy? Of course. Most of us prefer a much more palatable get-tough-with-the rich exploitation of resentment or a get-tough-with-the-crooks correctionism. Not many are willing to get tough minded about the prevailing political philosophy and to face up to the consequences of the overweening assumption of responsibility by government.

Surely there are other and more complex reasons for the suspension of ordinary civilty and morality by so many New Yorkers during the city's ordeal. But that's the beginning of the hard answer to El Diaro's "Por Que?"

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A 20-year-old interrupted his own bail hearing Monday in Victoria provincial court to plead guilty to a charge of breaking and entering.

George August, no fixed address, appeared before Judge Blake Allan on an application to be released on bail when he motioned to legal aid lawyer Lenore Boyes and spoke to her briefly.

The lawyer then told Allan her client wished to elect and plead guilty to a July 19 break-in at the Shah Jahan restaurant, 1010 Fort.

August, who misunderstood the meaning of "electing trial by magistrate," became upset at the lawyer and the case was adjourned briefly so that the lawyer could explain the procedure to August.

After it was explained that electing trial by magistrate meant that a plea could be entered in provincial court, the lawyer maintained the guilty plea.

Crown counsel Robert Mulligan told the court the break-in occurred about 2 a.m., and entry was gained through a window in the rear. Mulligan said that when Victoria city police apprehended August, he told the officers he had spent the $13.50 and had consumed six cases of beer taken from the premises.

Mulligan related a criminal record for August which included a Feb. 13, 1976, conviction in Victoria for theft under $200 for which he received 30 days; a July 15, 1976, conviction in Port Alberni for breaking and entering for which he received a suspended sentence; an Aug. 11, 1976, conviction in Port Alberni for taking a car without the owner's consent for which he received another suspended sentence; and a Dec. 31, 1976, conviction in Victoria for another break-in for which he received his third suspended sentence and was placed on a year's probation.

Allan, who remarked that August had received "more than his share of breaks" from the courts, gave him a term of six months' definite and six months' indeterminate.

Gregory Paul Huebner, 17, of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to three charges and was remanded in custody until Aug. 8 for a pre-sentence report and sentence.

Huebner pleaded guilty to theft under $200, involving a pair of bluejeans from Eaton's on July 12, breach of probation in connection with two orders for community work service, and breaking and entering in connection with a small amount of cash missing from the Meat Market restaurant, 535 Yates.

Defence layer Ted Hanman told the court Huebner had been sleeping inside the building at 535 Yates for about 30 nights and gained entry through a hole in the ceiling of the elevator shaft. Hanman said Huebner risked serious injury or death nightly by shimmying down the greased elevator cables.

Court was told Huebner was convicted in Victoria of theft under $200 on May 2, 1977, and breach of probation on June 3, 1977, and was given community service work in each case.

Eugene Touchie, 34, of 705 Mary, was fined $450 after pleading guilty to impaired driving July 3 in Saanich. Readings of .16 and .17 were obtained in a breath test, Mulligan said.

David Brian Morberg, 22, of 1019 Rockland, was charged in connection with an incident Saturday at the Oak Bay Recreation Centre in which a razor blade was used.

He was remanded to next Monday for election of his trial method.

Fined for drinking - driving offences were Murray Wayne Farup, 17, of Salt Spring Island, $500; James Raymond Rutledge, 51, of 1471 Fort Street, $150, and Rachel Ann Williams, 31, $100.

'Merciful' Plea Wins

A 19-year-old man had his sentence suspended Monday for one year and was placed on probation after pleading guilty in Victoria county court to trafficking in MDA.

Brian Philip Hong, of 206-889 Craigflower, sold 22 caps of the drug for $60 to an undercover policeman who visited his home April 24, 1976, court was told.

Several character witnesses said Hong was trying to change his lifestyle.

Defence counsel Dermod Owen-Flood said if the court was "merciful" it would not be in vain. Prosecutor Fleming Hansen said that, given the amount involved, his age and circumstances, "perhaps jail it not necessary in this case."

Judge M. L. T. Drake said Hong had made "considerable efforts to get out of the mess he has let himself into" and it would be wrong to hamper his maturing.

Cowichan Estuary Mill Given Government Support

DUNCAN — The Environment and Land Use Committee will not stand in the way of a new Island Shake and Shingle Mill on a 10-acre site in the Cowichan estuary.

Provincial Environment Minister Jim Nielsen, ELUC chairman, outlined the committee's position in a letter to North Cowichan council released Monday.

In an earlier letter April 4, Nielsen said ELUC was concerned with protecting the estuary but was also open to suggestions for development that would benefit the Cowichan Valley's economy.

The Monday letter, dated July 19, said an economic study of the Cowichan Valley, requested by North Cowichan, would be carried out by a task force. Submissions from provincial, federal and local governments would be considered, Nielsen said in the letter.

Nielsen indicated the task force would reconvene in October.

He also said ELUC will not "interfere in any way with North Cowichan's prerogative to issue a building permit to Island Shake and Shingle.

"Regarding design and construction of the proposed Island Shake and Shingle mill, normal provincial approvals involving application to the pollution control branch or the health inspector for septic control, and to the ministry of highways for access, both of which must precede issuance of the building permit, will apply," Nielsen said.

North Cowichan Mayor Gerry Smith said his municipality would not issue a building permit until all plans had been studied by the appropriate authorities. He added, however, that the municipality was legally bound by a B.C. Supreme Court ruling to issue a building permit if the plans are acceptable.

Revised Library Plan Approved by Esquimalt

Esquimalt council had a change of heart Monday and decided to support the proposal to relocate Victoria's central library in the provincial government building under construction at Blanshard and Broughton.

The council had earlier opposed the Greater Victoria Library Board's recommendation for the move, as had Oak Bay and Saanich councils. Only Victoria itself supported the idea at that time.

Revised terms were subsequently negotated between board representatives and the B.C. Buildings Corporation, and these proved acceptable to Esquimalt.

Victoria Ald. Murray Glazier, chairman of the library board's building committee, explained that the rental for the necessary 50,000 square feet had been reduced from $9 to $8.25 per square foot, $2 of which would be offset by a provincial grant.

Other improvements included a 10-year lease with renewal options and specific commitments that the province would install stairs, elevators and other features.

Ald. Larry Mann, one of the opponents of the original proposal, moved that council instruct the board to negotiate a lease with the province on the terms outlined.

Esquimalt's approval, however, would be conditional on similar agreement from the other three municipalities and a written guarantee from the province of a $100,000 annual grant for the full lease period of 10 years.

Esquimalt's share of the cost is estimated at almost $34,000, or $20,000 more than it now contributes toward the operaion of the library board's five branches.

After the meeting Glazier said he is optimistic that Oak Bay and Saanich councils will support the revised lease proposal, along with Victoria which had already backed the plan in its original format.

No dates have been set for presentations to those councils, but Glazier said such meetings would be held well in advance of the Aug. 19 deadline for acceptance of the provincial offer.

Kuwait Reopens Iraq Border

KUWAIT (Reuter) — The Kuwait government has announced it is reopening its border with Iraq, closed to Kuwait citizens since 1972. The move follows an agreement earlier this week between Iraq and Kuwait to disengage their forces along their common border and withdraw them half a mile behind a line drawn up by the Arab League 15 years ago.

Fraud Charges Admitted

Edward Allen Dick, 41, of 5 Maplebank, pleaded guilty in Victoria court Monday to two counts of defrauding the government of a total of $8,358.41.

The first count involved $2,623.55, part of $13,700 he received from the B.C. government and the First Citizens Fund as project manager of a restoration program for a longhouse on the Songhees reserve.

Prosecutor Peter Birkett said Dick wrote 17 cheques against the funds which were of direct benefit to himself between March 4, 1975, and Sept. 14, 1975.

On the second count, involving misappropriation of $5,734.86, Birkett said Dick wrote 23 cheques between Nov. 28, 1975 and Feb. 7, 1976, against a Canadian government and Local Initiatives Program to continue the longhouse work for which $22,240 had been forwarded.

Birkett said one of the cheques Dick wrote against this fund was for $1,737.25 for the purchase of a car which was registered in his wife's name.

He said Dick has a criminal record involving convictions for assault causing bodily harm in 1954, breaking, entering and theft in 1955, carrying a sawed-off rifle in 1958 and common assault in 1972.

Defence counsel Bruce McConnan asked for an adjournment to call character evidence and Judge M. L. T. Drake set continuation of the case for Sept. 2.

Toronto Market Sharply Lower

TORONTO (CP) — Plummeting mining and oil issues sent the Toronto stock market sharply lower in moderate midafternoon trading Tuesday.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 1.43 million shares.

Among industrials, Great West Life Assurance dropped 1 to $56½, Inco A ¾ to $24⅛, Bow Valley Industries ⅝ to $20¾, Harlequin Enterprises ½ to $19½ and Pacific Petroleums ½ to $31¾.

Maclaren Power A gained ¾ to $33, consolidated-Bathurst A ⅝ to $26⅜, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas ¼ to $40¾, Eastern Provincial Airways 40 cents to $2.50 and Greyhound Computer of Canada five cents to 65 cents.

Brenda Mines fell ⅝ to $10½, Cassiar Asbestos ¼ to $9½ and Pamour Porcupine A 15 cents to $3.85. Wright-Hargreaves Mines rose 23 cents to 98 cents and Kerr Addison A ⅛ to $15⅝.

Numac Oil and Gas slipped ⅞ to $12⅛, Ocelot Industries B ¼ to $11⅛ and Merland Explorations ¼ to 5⅞. United Western Oil and Gas was up two cents to 40 cents and American Eagle Petroleums two cents to 60 cents.

New York

Declines outnumbered advances by about a 5-2 spread among New York Stock Exchange-listed isssues.

NYSE volume came to 14.91 million shares at mid-afternoon.

The market's drop Monday brought a sudden halt to the gradual rally of the past six sessions.

Analysts blamed the downturn on continuing concern that economic growth would slow in the months ahead. They also noted that the market's recent behavior had dimmed hopes of any sustained rally in the immediate future.

U.S. Steel fell 1¼ to 36¾ as the company reported second-quarter earnings of 91 cents a share, down from $1.47 in the same period last year.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally lower in light to moderate afternoon trading today on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

London

LONDON (CP)—Prices dropped sharply near the close of light trading today on the London stock market. The Financial Times index was down 6.1 to 431.1 an hour before the close. Equity leaders declined heavily, while gold issues drifted lower with the drop in bullion prices. Canadian stocks eased in light trading.

TODAY'S GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Most grain prices remained weak in moderate trading at the close on the Winnipeg commodity exchange today.

Flax was unchanged to slightly higher and Thunder Bay rapeseed was unchanged and inactive.

Monday's volume of trade was 32,000 metric tons of rapeseed, 11,920 of barley, 10,200 of feed wheat, 9,740 of oats, 7,420 of flax and 3,240 of rye.

Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — New crop soybean prices retreated about a dime on the Board of Trade today, while old crop options shot down 20 cents in the wake of a lower Brazilian export tax.

Corn lost one cent, but wheat and oats were fractionally mixed. Soybean meal and oil futures were down sharply from the previous close and other deliveries were firmly lower.

Brazil's decision to cut its soybean export tax from seven per cent to four per cent triggered the sharp decreases in old crop beans Monday and the downtrend continued Tuesday.

Investments to Increase?

OTTAWA (CP) — Statistics Canada has announced it has revised its estimates for expected capital spending in 1977 up to $46.27 billion, a 10-per-cent increase from the $42.07 billion spent in 1976.

This estimate is 1.8 per cent higher in value than the federal agency had projected in its April forecast of spending plans.

New construction spending now is expected to rise to $29.53 billion, up 1.3 per cent from the earlier estimate and 9.1 per cent above 1976 spending of $27.06 billion.

All the estimates are in current dollar terms and do not discount for inflation. Statistics Canada said in June that the annual inflation rate was about 7.8 per cent, which accounts for a large part of the revised spending plans.

Spending on new housing is forecast to be $10.27 billion this year, 4.7 per cent higher than forecast in April and 5.2 per cent more than was spent in 1976. This follows an increase in the forecast for new housing starts to an expected 237,500 in 1977, which is 2,500 more than originally estimated.

Spending plans for new machinery and equipment have been revised upwards to $16.73 billion, 2.7 per cent more than the April estimate and 11.5 per cent higher than the $15.01 billion spent last year.

Capital spending plans for manufacturers in 1977 now are forecast at $6.35 billion, an upward revision of 4.5 per cent from April and 20.5 per cent more than the $5.27 billion manufacturers spent in 1976.

On the other hand, expected investment by utilities companies has veen revised downward to $9.61 billion, 15 per cent more than they spent in 1976 but less than the 17.1 per cent increase Statistics Canada forecast in April.

Lower spending by utilities results from reduced investment plans by electric power companies, by telephone and telegraph and by pipelines and railway transport operations.

Among companies in the finance, trade and commercial group, investment is picking up, particularly among companies that buy machinery and equipment for leasing, Statistics Canada says.

In primary industries, total investment plans remain unchanged from April levels. The petroleum and gas industry indicates it will spend more than it had expected to in April, but investment in agriculture and in fishing and forestry is being trimmed.

Municipal governments are now expected to spend another 7.1 per cent above the other 7.1 per cent above the provincial and federal governments, as well as hospitals, have all reduced their expected capital spending, Statistics Canada says.

Petroleum Association Sets Reserves of Gas

CALGARY (CP) — Canadian petroleum explorers may discover 19 trillion to 35 trillion cubic feet of natural gas in southern Canada during the next 18 years, the Canadian Petroleum Association said Monday.

In releasing a study on gas reserves in Western Canada, the association said the study attempts to reconcile differing reserve estimates prepared by seven companies and government agencies. It was presented to federal Energy Minister Alastair Gillespie in Ottawa last week.

In estimating the probable additions to gas reserves in the next 20 years, the association said its predictions assume a maximum exploratory effort by the industry which will be influenced by the general economic climate, government regulations and the availability in investment capital.

The study estimated that remaining marketable reserves of gas reserves in Western Canada stood at 59.9 trillion cubic feet on Dec. 31, 1976. Of the total, the association said 51 trillion cubic feet of gas was located in Alberta while British Columbia had 7.2 trillion cubic feet and Saskatchewan 1.1 trillion cubic feet. The gas reserves in the southern Northwest Territories was .6 trillion cubic feet in 1975.

The association said the 1976 total is down from 60.4 trillion cobic feet in 1975.

Of the total marketable reserves, 19.7 trillion cubic feet were developed but not connected to pipeline transmission facilities and 40.2 trillion cubic feet were connected, the association said.

Hans Maciej, the association's Alberta manager, told a news conference that more than half of the 19.7 trillion cubic feet figure cannot be connected to pipeline in the near future because the gas must remain in the ground as part of conservations programs.

The 1976 reserve estimates do not take into account major gas discoveries made at the end of the year because little technical information on them has yet been made public.

The association said the study estimated the petroleum industry has already discovered a cumulative total of 88 trillion cubic feet of marketable gas in non-frontier areas, of which 28 trillion cubic feet has already been produced.

Ultimate reserves are estimated to reach between 107 trillion and 121 trillion cubic feet by 1995.

Figures used in the estimate were prepared by Alberta Gas Trunk Line Ltd., Canadian Arctic Gas Pipeline Ltd., Imperial Oil Ltd., Gulf Oil Canada Ltd., The Alberta Energy Resources Conservation Board, the B.C. ministry of mines and petroleum resources and the Saskatchewan mineral resources department.

Port Angeles Pulp Mill Refitted

PORT ANGELES, Wash. (AP) — Crown Zellerbach has started phasing in a $17.1 million modification of its Port Angeles pulp and paper mill, company officials report.

The company is converting its pulping system at a cost of $12.7 million and another $3.8 million is being spent to modify the mill's power boilers to improve air quality, said Dick Kott, a company spokesman. In addition, new pulp bleaching equipment installed will cost $600,000.

When completed, the mill will be the first in the United States capable of producing both newsprint and telephone directory paper by the new system.

Court Order

VANCOUVER (CP) — Donaldson Securities Ltd., a brokerage firm that at one time operated in British Columbia and Alberta, has been placed in receivership at the request of the securities commissions of both provinces.

The company's operations have been placed in the hands of Coopers and Lybrand Ltd. by the B.C. and Alberta Supreme Courts.

Most of Donaldson's clients live in Alberta.

GOLD QUOTES

LONDON (AP) — Monday's closing gold prices in U.S. dollars per ounce. London — 146.55; Paris — 151.27; Frankfurt — 145.75; Zurich — 146.375; Hong Kong — 143.63.

Airship Eyed for North

EDMONTON (CP) — Good Year Aerospace Corp. of Akron, Ohio, which is developing a helicopter-powered airship, is eyeing Canada's northwest as a possible market.

The 342-foot-long airship is scheduled for marketing in two years. It is described as capable of lifting 75 to 100 tons and carrying it at speeds of 70 miles an hour for 100 miles.

D. E. Williams and Don Brown, with Goodyear's modern airship program, were here recently for meetings with Rowly McFarlane, Alberta's chief deputy minister of transport.

McFarlane has been assessing the role of modern airships in resource and transportation development in remote areas. He has visited Goodyear in Akron.

The Goodyear officials were laying the groundwork for a meeting in Calgary with Alberta transportation experts and leading industrialists.

They said the company planned to have a team of airship specialists explain the capability of their ship and try to determine the transportation requirement of northern pipeline ventures and others.

"I feel the conditions, interest and timing are all correct to make the step into a new transportation system centred around the airship in Alberta," said Brown.

Goodyear began its modern airship research program about four years ago and is working on it with the U.S. Navy and the U.S. National Aeronautics and Space administration (NASA).

The initial ship will be powered by four giant Sikorsky CH-54B helicopters. Two helicopters will be attached to each side of a gas bag containing 2.5 million cubic feet of helium, a gas weighing one-seventh as much as air.

Williams said the sirship is technically feasible, but more work needs to be done before a full-scale model is built.

The officials said they were not able to state the cost of the airship.

Williams said the airship is "modest" when compared to the ships built in the 1030s — Goodyear built two ships that the ships built in the 1930s—

"The technology in the airship has been used before, but we are putting it together in a different way."

Commission Rate Revised

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Vancouver Stock Exchange board of governors has announced it has approved a new commission rate schedule developed by the Toronto Stock Exchange, and already approved by that exchange and the Montreal Stock Exchange.

The new schedule will increase commissions on trades of lower-priced shares, but lower the charge on higher-priced shares. The exchanges plan to introduce the new rates on Sept. 1.

Base rate will be three per cent of the value of each board lot of shares. A board lot consists of 500 shares of a stock selling for less than $1 a share, and 100 shares of a stock selling between $1 and $100. A few stocks trade in special board lots of 25 shares.

To smoke or not to smoke.

There's a good chance that lately you've been giving some thought to smoking. Many people are.

The question is, what are you going to do about it? If you've never smoked, or if you've quit smoking, we're not urging you to start. But if you're a smoker who's not ready to give up the enjoyment you get from smoking, we'd like to call your attention to Vantage.

Vantage gives you the taste you want. The Vantage filter, which is based on a new design concept, lets the full, rich flavour of Virginia tobaccos come through. Vantage gives you so much of what you want in a cigarette with a lot less of what you don't want.

And Vantage draws easily. You don't have to puff hard pulling the smoke through so that the joy of smoking is lost.

If all this makes sense to you, there's every reason to consider the new cigarette called Vantage.

Why not try a pack.

Warning: Health and Welfare Canada advises that danger to health increases with amount smoked—avoid inhaling. 11 mg. "tar" 0.8 mg. nicotine.

Lions May Find Roughies Tougher

By The Canadian Press

Fresh from a successful road show, Montreal Alouettes bring their Canadian Football League act home to Olympic Stadium tonight to take on Calgary Stampeders of the Western Conference in an interlocking game.

British Columbia Lions, like Montreal, undefeated in two games, will be playing at home to Saskatchewan Roughriders.

The Stampeders have given the Alouettes fits ever since the CFL began its interlocking play. The Stampeders have won 10 games, lost five and tied one against the Alouettes.

But with victories over Ottawa Rough Riders and Toronto Argonauts under their belts, coach Marv Levy's club enters tonight's game with an unblemished record and a good deal of confidence.

"But don't forget, they have a lot of fine offensive players," Levy noted, reeling off the names of Willie Burden, Lou Harris, Rudy Linterman and Tom Forzani.

"You can't forget John Hufnagel either. He's an excellent quarterback and an accurate passer.

"Just imagine them with a backfield with Willie Burden and Lou Harris in it. Believe me, these guys are capable of scoring a touchdown on every play."

Lineman Gordie Judges is a doubtful starter following a knee injury picked up in last Wednesday's 16-10 victory over Toronto while defensive end Junior Ah You, injured in pre-season play, might make his first start of the regular season.

Calgary, which defeated Hamilton 13-11 last Tuesday in the West, are 1-1 and alone in third place in the WFC, two points behind unbeaten Winnipeg Blue Bombers and British Columbia Lions.

In spite of the 1-1 record, Calgary has been unfortunate in the injury department in 1977.

"Hufnagel has had a hard time," said Calgary coach Jack Gotta. "Of the top five receivers, Burten was the only one to play the first two games this year. Willie Armstead broke his leg two days before the season started and Tom Forzani's wrist kept him out of one game. Then Rudy Linterman missed a game as did Lou Harris."

But Gotta remains optimistic despite the setbacks.

"In spite of the fact the Als are supposed to have the best defence in the league, I'd be very disappointed if our offence doesn't click tomorrow night."

The Lions are tops in the West with a 34-14 victory over Saskatchewan last week, but the Roughriders haven't given up yet.

"There is no way we're playing as well as we can," said Bill Baker, traded to Saskatchewan by B.C. this season.

"We have to play tougher and harder. It's a challenge to me. When you get down, that's when a real pro ballplayer gets tougher and tougher."

Saskatchewan coach Jim Eddy said he is trying to patch up the defensive secondary, which has had no interceptions in the teams first two games.

"I was trying to get things solidified there," Eddy said. It's expected that veteran Ted Provost, who has yet to see action this season because of pulled thigh muscles, will be in tonight's game.

If Provost can't make it, Eddy will use rookie Emil Nielson at safety to free Paul Williams for duty at left cornerback.

British Columbia's first victory of the season was a 14-9 decision over Calgary.

Yankee Owner Was Gentle In Calling Martin a Liar

NEW YORK (AP) — In a remarkable round-table discussion with the press Monday night, New York Yankee owner George Steinbrenner gently called Billy Martin a liar and said a decision on the Yankee manager's dismissal would be left completely to team president Gabe Paul.

"Whatever Gabe recommends will be accepted by me," Steinbrenner said. "It's totally his decision. But there's nothing imminent in the matter."

While Steinbrenner wouldn't say that Martin was in danger of losing his job, the energetic owner left the impression that the same patterns that led to Martin's firing in three other places were happening in New York.

Steinbrenner was upset with some of Martin's recent remarks, which came in the wake of widely circulating rumors that the Yankee skipper had been fired.

"Sure I'm displeased with the remarks," Steinbrenner told a news conference. "They're just not factual. Certain things have been said that just aren't so."

Steinbrenner referred specifically to Martin's claim that his status had become shaky in spring training when he and Steinbrenner got into a shouting match in the team's clubhouse in St. Petersburg, Fla., after a game with New York Mets.

Although the factual discrepancies don't seem major, Steinbrenner seemed to be using them to subtly discredit other recent statements of his manager.

"I want to clear the air," Steinbrenner said. "I'm not out to get Billy Martin. That's a lot of crap. It's a copout. And it's not even a new copout."

Steinbrenner pointed to Martin's previous battles with management at Minnesota, Detroit and Texas. "His statements have been misleading. He's saying "they're making a martyr out of me.' Well, look at the history. It's happened three times before.

"I'm tired with all his self-serving statements. I don't want to be part of making a martyr out of Billy Martin. He's got the best material in the American League. The manager's job is to motivate and make his players perform."

Yankees were in third place, 2½ games behind Baltimore in the AL East, before Monday night's action.

Steinbrenner said he was not happy with the team's play or the team's position, adding that the fault must ultimately lie with the field manager.

"I thought it was beautiful when Sparky Anderson (Cincinnati Reds manager) blamed his team's failures on the manager," said Steinbrenner. "How the team performs is the only yardstick you have."

But despite the dissatisfaction, Steinbrenner said he was sticking with Martin as long as Paul does. "For Billy's good, the good of the team and Gabe's good, I hope Billy reaches a real understanding with Gabe."

Paul wouldn't comment on whether he felt Martin was doing a good job, but said: "We're not thinking in terms of a change. We're thinking of winning with Billy Martin."

SPARKY ANDERSON

Loss to Cardinals Spoils Good News

By The Associated Press

It was a day of good news and bad news for Sparky Anderson on Moday.

He got the good news in the afternoon when the Cincinnati Reds management extended his contract for two years. He got the bad news at night when his team's losing streak was extended to seven games.

"There's no question the contract felt good, but we've simply got to win more games," said Anderson, shaking his head after a 9-8 loss to St. Louis Cardinals.

The white-haired manager thought a while.

"If you win games, you're going to be there (manager) for a long time," Anderson said. "But if you lose . . ."

The baseballs have been bouncing the wrong way of late for the two-time World Series champions. A fly ball which should have been caught dropped in for a double Monday, helping the Cardinals score two runs in the third inning.

In other National League games, Montreal Expos nipped San Francisco Giants 4-3, Chicago Cubs beat Houston Astros 9-7, Pittsburgh Pirates tripped Atlanta Braves 6-3, Philadelphia Phillies turned back San Diego Padres 6-4 in 12 innings and New York Mets edged Los Angeles Dodgers 1-0.

Jerry Mumphrey and Garry Templeton delivered run-scoring singles in the sixth to snap a 4-4 tie and Ted Simmons later pounded his 15th home run to supply power for the Cardinal victory.

The Cardinals withstood an assault by Cincinnati hitters that included two home runs by George Foster and one each by Johnny Bench and Bob Bailey.

Del Unser and Ellis Valentine belted homers and four Montreal pitchers collaborated on a seven-hitter to carry Montreal past San Francisco. Steve Rogers, 11-8, Joe Kerrigan, Will McEnaney and Bill Atkinson combined to pitch the Expos to their seventh victory in nine starts. All the San Francisco runs were scored on a three-run homer by Gary Alexander off Atkinson in the ninth.

Larry Biittner's two-run homer in the bottom of the eighth gave Chicago a comeback victory over Houston. After the Astros tied it at 7-7 with a seven-run outburst in the eighth, George Mitterwald walked to open the bottom of the eighth for Chicago. Two outs later, Biittner stroked his eighth homer of the season off loser Mark Lemongello.

Craig Swan fired a three-hitter for his first shutout of the season and Steve Henderson doubled home the winning run as New York defeated Los Angeles. First-inning singles by Lenny Randle and Felix Millan and then Henderson's bloop double to right produced the game's only run and Swan, 6-6, made the lead stand up.

Meanwhile in the American League, Chicago White Sox rallied from a 6-1 deficit to edge Boston Red Sox 8-7.

"We were hitting the ball well but right at somebody," Chicago manager Bob Lemon said in reference to the early part of the game—before his club unleashed a home-run barrage.

"I thought we were unlucky for about the first six innings. But we came out in the end swinging like a fighter. It's been like this all year."

Eric Soderholm, Jim Spencer and Brian Downing hit Chicago homers and two more drives might have gone for extra bases but for two stellar plays by Boston centre fielder Fred Lynn.

Elsewhere, Detroit Tigers clobbered Toronto Blue Jays 8-3, Minnesota Twins edged Oakland A's 2-1 in 11 innings, Baltimore Orioles nipped Milwaukee Brewers 4-3 in 11 innings, Texas Rangers defeated Cleveland Indians 6-4 and California Angels downed Seattle Mariners 7-2. Kansas City at New York was rained out.

RUTHOWSKY RESCUES VICTORY FOR BATES

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. — Dave Ruthowski earned the victory in dramatic fashion while pitching Victoria Bate to a 2-1 triumph over Springfield in the second game of a softball doubleheader here Monday.

It was the first victory in eight games of a 14-game exhibition softball trip through the United States and snapped a seven-game losing streak for the Canadian champions.

The host club won the opener 5-2 after jumping to an early lead.

In the second game, however, Ruthowski provided vital difference and the only Springfield run was unearned.

Bates jumped on pitcher Roy Burleson for two runs in the first inning and held on the rest of the way. John Green drew a base on balls and moved to second on a single by Carl Walker. Both runners advanced on a passed ball and Green scored when Harvey Stevenson grounded out deep to the shortstop. Walker moved to third on the play and scored what proved to be the winning run on another passed ball.

Then, in the seventh inning, Ruthowski proved his worth in the clutch.

Springfield mounted a serious threat as Jam Maggi singled with one out and Wynn doubled him to third. Pinch-hitter John Burnett was intentionally walked to load the bases and Ruthowski reached deep to strike out both pinch-hitter Roger Cromer and Burleson to end the game.

Ruthowski finished up with seven strikeouts and allowed five hits.

In the opener, Springfield jumped to a 5-0 lead before Victoria got on the scoreboard in the sixth inning.

Ken Bate led off the frame with a triple and scored when the ball was bobbled by the third baseman. Bob Holness drew a base on balls, advanced to second on a sacrifice fly and scored on a double by Konopacki.

Bate now moves on to Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for a doubleheader Wednesday, and plays two doubleheaders Friday and Saturday in Santa Rosa, Calif., before returning home Sunday evening.

Kelly Shares Crown

Kelly Jacklin of Victoria shared one of the triumphs as Canadian women captured two gold medals and placed second in two events at the West German international rowing championships Sunday at Munich.

Jacklin, Patricia Smith of Vancouver and three Ontario crewmates — Nancy Higgans, Dolores Young and Barb Much — won the coxed fours final, finishing more than two seconds ahead of another Canadian crew.

Susan Anthoft of Vancouver and Betty Craig of Ontario won the other gold for Canada in the coxless pairs as a West German duo took the runner-up berth.

In the double sculls, Cheryl Howard of Vancouver and Bev Cameron of Ottawa finished second to Lisa Hansen and Elisabeth Halls of the United States.

Joan Lind of the U.S. won the single sculls.

In men's events, Czechoslovakia took the coxed fours, Raimund Haberl of Austria was first in the lightweight single sculls, Australia won the lightweight coxless fours and West Germany captured the lightweight eights.

Vilas Repeats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Guillermo Vilas continued his clay court dominance over Brian Gottfried Monday night with a 6-4, 7-5 victory in the rain-delayed finals of the $125,000 Washington Star international tennis championships.

Working from the baseline, the 24-year-old Argentine pressured the error-prone Gottfried into mistakes with both his forehand and backhand, most of which hit the net.

Vilas, the first player to repeat as champion in the nine years of the Star tournament, broke the American in the first game of the first set. Gottfried had the advantage twice, but threw it away with backhands into the net.

Vilas, runnerup here in 1974 and a winner in 1975, took home $20,000, while Gottfried won $10,000.

The final, played on a relatively soft court, was delayed one hour and 45 minutes because of a rainstorm.

Americans in Final

American League won its third game in as many nights and advanced to the final of the Greater Victoria Little League baseball championship tournament by ousting Hampton 5-4 Monday in an extra-inning contest at Sidney Park.

American and unbeaten Gordon Head square off in the final of the six-team, double-loss elimination event tonight at 6:30. If American wins, a deciding game is scheduled for the same time and site Wednesday.

The winner of the tourney advances to face north-Island champion Campbell River in a best-of-three district final starting at 6:30 p.m. Friday at Sidney. The second and third (if necessary) games will be played at the same time Saturday and Sunday.

Trailing 3-2 after the third inning, American came back to tie it up in the bottom of the sixth and won the game by outscoring Hampton 2-1 in the seventh.

Winning-pitcher Glen Leung scored the 3-3 run when the Hampton infield misplayed a bunt single.

Russ Courtnall drove in the 4-4 run with a single and scored what proved to be the winning run when Randy Moss cracked a two-out single.

Drinkwater Spins Shutout Victory

Derek Drinkwater boosted his season record to 13-3 and helped Gorge Hotel to a 1-0 shutout over Greaves Movers by hurling a one-hitter during Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League play Monday night at Lambrick Park.

Victory lifted Gorge two games ahead of second-place Greaves.

Losing-pitcher Roy Moretti hit a one-out single in the seventh inning to end Drinkwater's chances of a no-hitter. Drinkwater struck out seven batters and issued four bases on balls while earning the victory.

Jennifer Takes Opening Match

Miss Bland, competing in the girls' 16-and-under event, was one of the 10 competitors from British Columbia to win in 11 opening-day matches.

ALI IS ASKING FOR $12 MILLION

NEW YORK (AP) — Twelve million dollars is Muhammad Ali's asking price for a fight against the winner of the Ken Norton-Jimmy Young bout, the heavyweight champion said Monday, treating his defence against Earnie Shavers on Sept. 29 as a fait accompli.

"I've already beaten them both," Ali said, looking ahead to Norton and Young. "I can't add to my greatness as a fighter.

"The winner of that fight will make at least $2 million to fight me," said Ali. "If they don't fight me, they won't make $2 million the rest of their lives."

Ali, dressed in what has become something of an old-of-ring uniform for him, black slacks and black shirt, was talking quietly. The room was free of cameras and microphones. The formal news conference for the Ali-Shavers fight in Madison Square Garden was 15 minutes away.

"I have no reason to take a risky fight if they don't pay me right," Ali said. Then, looking at someone nearby, he added, "I'll fight as long as I can get $5 million fighting guys like you. I can fight three more years fighting Evangelistas."

The champion's last fight was a dull effort against Alfredo Evangelista of Spain on May 16.

He admitted he didn't look good in that fight, but said, "After all of my bad fights, my next fight is great."

The star of the Sept. 29 show, which will be televised live by NBC will get $3 million plus expenses. Shavers will get $300,000.

Soccer Transfer

MANCHESTER, England (UPI) — English soccer star Mike Channon Monday joined Manchester City from second division Southampton in a $510,000 transfer deal.

Channon said he was happy to join City, which finished second to European champion Liverpool in the league last season. "I am not predicting anything but the class players City have must put them in with a great chance of the top honors," he said.

City manager Tony Book commented: "Mike has all the qualities we're looking for. He's proved that with 45 caps for England and that speaks for itself. Every time we go for a player we go for class and with Liverpool losing Kevin Keegan (transferred to Hamburg), I feel Mike's inclusion can tip the scales in our favor and make all the difference to winning the championship."

Neeld Resumes Battling NHL

BUFFALO (AP) — Greg Neeld, a one-eyed hockey player who lost a court fight to play in the National Hockey League, began a second battle Monday to get a job with the NHL's Buffalo Sabres.

Through lawyer Bingham Leverich, the NHL asked Judge John T. Elfvin of United States district court to throw out Neeld's million-dollar suit against the league.

Neeld, 22, a defenceman from Vancouver, says he is illegally barred from playing hockey because he has only one eye. He lost one eye in 1973 playing for Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Major Junior A Hockey league, but was back on the ice three months later, aided by a special shield his father invented.

The Sabres drafted Neeld in 1975, but the NHL refused him a tryout. The league cited a bylaw barring athletes who have less than 20 per cent vision in either eye.

Leverich told Elfin that Neeld's new suit was a replay of a 1975 suit that was dismissed by a federal judge in San Francisco.

"The plaintiff has had his day in court and should not be permitted to continue harassing the defendants with dubious claims," Leverich said.

Neeld's lawyer, Daniel S. Mason of San Francisco, argued that the issue was very much alive because the ban against Neeld has continued.

"If he went to the Buffalo Sabres today and said I want to play they would say 'you're barred by the league bylaws,'" Mason told the court. "The discrimination is fresh."

Elfvin reserved decision on the dismissal motion.

Simon Says: Oh to Become Hungarian Open Champion

Apart from the diplomatic duties which are bound to interfere with his golf, Simon Wade's main interest in Budapest this summer will be to win the Hungarian Open championship.

If he has his way, he'll arrange and run the tournament, lay out the handicaps . . . and, hopefully, win it.

Simon says he's not in Nicklaus' or Trevino's class, but he'll have other advantages going for him in Budapest. A local son who left Sunday for Hungary and a new embassy job, he'll become a member of that country's one and only golf club.

The course has only four holes. The "clubhouse" is the basement of a building demolished by bombs during the Second World War. Maintained and used by the diplomatic corps stationed in Budapest, the building's main floor was repaired to become the roof of the clubhouse.

An 18-hole round is 4½ trips around the course. Be that as it may, it's the only course in Hungary.

Still with membership at Victoria Golf Club and "about an eight" handicap, Simon played his best golf when he toured Ireland's beautiful courses for a few years. Then came Rome, and a chance to assess the "unbelievable" etiquette of Italian golfers ("they think nothing of playing fivesomes or sixsomes on a Sunday morning").

Last week, between packing trunks, Simon said he was looking forward to the Budapest posting.

Gorge Vale's Earl Davies, executive managing-director of the Bob Toski fan club, is sorry his favorite never got a chance to visit Victoria this month. Plans for Toski's appearance fell through but Davies is hoping the former U.S. Open champion, now considered one of the premier teachers in golf, might make it to Victoria next year.

Davies would like to make it early in the year, "before the season gets into high gear."

That prompts a suggestion that the golf community might get together with Victoria's Celebrity Sports Dinner committee. Toski would look good at the head table . . . if the two groups decided to bag two birdies with one stone.

GOLF

ernie fedoruk

Ontario professional Bob Panasiuk feels the pro tour in Canada needs overhauling because the players are finding it too expensive and, consequently, it is not turning out the calibre of competitors the country should produce.

I can't buy Panasiuk's logic that the boosting of prize money is going to improve the calibre of Canadian players. For one thing, if the pots go up, so will the number of American players who come across the line to compete in Canadian tournaments.

Canadian youngsters would have a better chance of developing into top-class players if they paid more attention to the golf scholarships available in the U.S. There's one important stipulation to the suggestion. The scholarship should be from a school that guarantees first-rate coaching and an extensive schedule.

Jim Nelford developed into a Canadian Amateur champion primarily because he was fortunate enough to be accepted by Utah, a good golf school.

On the other hand, there's Robbie Jackson of Montreal. He had all the technical finery to become a "good one" when he left for the college of his choice. It wasn't a good choice, I say, because he has done little or nothing in a golfing way since returning to Canada.

All News Bad For the Macs

Victoria McDonalds are hurting and there's no relief in sight for the defending Western Canada Major Junior Lacrosse League champions.

Several key players, including leading scorer Tej Labh, have been sidelined and will miss tonight's game against Richmond Roadrunners, starting at 8 in Esquimalt Sports Centre.

McDonalds must also play a makeup game Wednesday against Salmonbellies in New Westminster and face Cablevision in Burnaby on Sunday.

General-manager Bob Reid added to the list of bad news Monday by annoucing that defenceman Lorry Gloeckner has left the team while Labh and Doug Angrove will definitely miss all three games.

Gloeckner claims he hasn't been staying in shape by playing lacrosse and is more interested in a hockey career.

Labh has been nursing an injured wrist for nearly three weeks and its doubtful the 46-goal scorer will be ready to resume playing before the playoffs open Aug. 9. Angrove has a bruised hip and has been out of action for the last two games.

Jamie Robertson and Kevin Kennedy will play despite facial injuries and a bruised leg, respectively.

McDonalds, who have clinched third place, will meet Cablevision in the opening round of playoffs starting in Burnaby. The winner of the best-of-seven affair will face the other semi-final winner in a best-of-seven final.

New Westminster has clinched second place while Coquitlam J-Hawks and last-place Richmond Roadrunners are battling for fourth place.

Relay Record Snapped

VANCOUVER — Victoria athletes came up with commendable performances in a series of track and field meets at the weekend.

Four qualified for the British Columbia team scheduled to compete in the Canadian World Cup track and field trials and World Student Games trials in Edmonton this weekend.

At trials at Swangard Stadium in Burnaby and Empire Stadium in Vancouver, Debbie Scott won the women's 1,500 metres in 4:20.8; Joyce Yakubowich finished first in the women's 200 metres in 23.5; Dave Weicker won the 3,000-metre steeplechase in 8:53 and Murray Keating won the hammer throw with a toss of 68.12 metres.

The World Cup meet is scheduled for Sept. 3-4 at Dusseldorf, West Germany, and the World Student Games take place next month at Sofia, Bulgaria.

In B.C.-Alberta Canada Games meet, held in conjunction with the trials, Ian Sutherland of Victoria won the hammer throw to help B.C. to a 195-165 victory.

Raul Estrada added a victory in the pole vault while Victorian Judy Tobacco and Joanne Rogers of Courtenay partnered Teresa Lenardon of Trail and Colleen Gibson of Abbotsford to a new national midget record in the midget 4x100 relay. Their time of 47.2 topped the old standard of 48.6.

At the annual tyke, peewee and bantam junior development meet Saturday at Vancouver, Barry Menzies finished first in the bantam boys' division.

Cowichan Tennis Tourney Heading Into 90th Year

COWICHAN BAY — Many of the Pacific Coast's most experienced players will take part in the 90th annual Vancouver Island grasscourt seniors' tennis championships here next week.

"This is one of the oldest tournaments in North America," explains Gino Volgarion of the host South Cowichan Lawn Tennis Club. "It's only 10 years younger than Wimbledon and for this, our 90th year, we're expecting some first-class veteran players from Washington, Oregon, California and Montana as well as from the Vancouver area."

These include Don Tisdale of Portland, winner of the 35-years-and-over men's singles title here last year and the second-ranked senior player in the Pacific Northwest.

The seniors' tournament gets under way Sunday, July 31, at noon and includes men's and women's singles and doubles events in both the over-35 and over-45 age groups, plus over-55 events for the men. There is also an open-age mixed doubles event.

Finals are expected to be played the following Saturday, Aug. 6, along with the finals of te Pacific Northwest grasscourt sectionals tournament, which begins on Wednesday, Aug. 6.

The sectionals are open to players of any age and right now the hot favorite to take the men's singles title is defending-champion Mike Prineas of Seattle. Prineas and partner Chris Koruga of Seattle will also be trying to repeat their 1976 success in the men's doubles event although Victoria's Marty Taylor and Roger Skillings, winners in 1975, should be tough contenders.

Island players wishing to enter either the seniors or the sectionals can do so by calling Gino at 746-7282 before noon on Thursday.

On the South Cowichan courts Sunday, Tony Simnett came from behind in the third set to defeat Greg Miller 6-3, 6-7, 6-4 and win the over-35 men's singles title for the third time in four years in the annual "Old Crocks" tournament. The final was postponed when tourney play was rained out during the July 1 weekend.

Carnarvon Falls In Pony Playoff

POWELL RIVER — Powell River defeated Carnarvon 6-2 in the deciding game of a best-of-three series to capture the Vancouver Island Pony League baseball championship here at the weekend.

The host club won the opener 2-0 Saturday but dropped a 6-3 decision to Carnarvon in the first game Sunday.

Victoria Colts In Third Place

KAMLOOPS — Kelowna tripped Coquitlam 6-5 Monday to capture the British Columbia Colt League baseball championship in a nine-inning final.

Victoria All-Stars finished third in the five-team, double-loss-elimination tournament with a 1-2 record. After downing North Delta 8-4 in the opener, Victoria was tripped 7-5 by Kelowna and 5-1 by Coquitlam.

Fox Captures Division Honors

CALGARY — Gordon Fox of Victoria captured top honors in his division of the training section at the Canadian three-day equestrian event here Sunday.

Liz Ashton of Orangeville, Ont., a reserve rider for the Canadian Olympic team last year, collected the intermediate division crown, the highest level at this year's competition.

LIST JFK SEX DATES, JUDGE ORDERS JUDY

LOS ANGELES — Judith Exner, who says she was the mistress of president John F. Kennedy, has been ordered by a federal judge to list the dates on which she had sex with the late president.

Judge William Gray said Monday that since she has written a book about the Kennedy affair, "I don't see why she should be reticent about answering," but he ruled her reply will be kept confidential under the court's seal.

Wynberg Jailed

LOS ANGELES — Henry Wynberg, companion of Elizabeth Taylor between her two marriages to Richard Burton, was sentenced Monday to 90 days in jail for a sex act involving a 16-year-old Beverly Hills girl.

Wynberg, 42, a Dutch-born former used car salesman, was taken from the courthouse to begin serving his sentence. He also was placed on five years probation and fined $1,250.

He and a Beverly Hills friend were originally charged with 10 counts of contributing to the delinquency of four young girls at a sexual picture-taking session at Wynberg's home last year.

But nine of the counts were later dropped and Wynberg was convicted on one count of fondling a minor.

NEW BOOK CITES PERSONAL SPITE:

Philip Canned Margaret Affair

LONDON (AP) — Prince Philip, motivated by both personal dislike and concern for the Royal Family, was instrumental in blocking the marriage of his sister-in-law, Princess Margaret, and war hero Peter Townsend 22 years ago, says a new biography of the princess.

Philip bore a grievance against Townsend because the RAF fighter pilot, as an adviser to King George VI, had counselled the king to prolong the courtship and delay the marriage of Philip and Elizabeth, the future queen, the book says.

Margaret—Princess Without a Cause, by Austrian author Willi Frischauer, paints a vivid picture of the love affairs of the two princesses and of a clash of temperaments behind the scenes at Buckingham Palace.

Margaret's romance with the divorced Townsend was headline news around the world in 1955, when she finally announced she would not marry him.

The princess's eventual marriage five years later to photographer Anthony Armstrong-Jones broke down last year and the couple, who have two children, live separately. Townsend now is married and lives in France.

Frischauer writes that after the Second World War Philip a naval officer courting Elizabeth, and Townsend, a military member of the royal household, were "incompatible and jousting in a narrow space big enough for only one."

King George, who had no son, admired the handsome and dashing air force officer and soon promoted him to deputy master of the household. "I'd have liked a boy like Townsend," the author says the king once told Margaret.

Palace insiders said Townsend, as the king's closest adviser, inspired a plan in 1946 to keep Elizabeth and Philip from a quick marriage so the king could "observe Philip over a time at close quarters before deciding whether he could become a member of the Royal Family," Frischauer writes.

Philip was furious when he found out about Townsend's intervention. The king followed Townsend's advice, the author says, but in November 1947, Philip and Elizabeth married, with the king's blessing.

But the 12-year friendship and romance of Margaret and Townsend was doomed. The king's death in February 1952 "robbed the lovers of a supporter who loved them both as much as they loved each other," Frischauer says, and a group of courtiers headed by Philip began applying pressure on Margaret to drop Townsend.

Finally, in her first and last statement on the romance, Margaret announced on Oct. 31, 1955: "I have decided not to marry Group Capt. Peter Townsend."

Zeppelin Drummer Nab After Concert Brawl

SAN FRANCISCO—Four persons, including the manager and drummer from the British rock band Led Zeppelin, were arrested Monday on a warrant stemming from an alleged altercation with stage hands after a concert, officials said.

The four were taken into custody at a San Francisco hotel in the afternoon, then taken to the Oakland City Jail, where they were booked on assault charges, Oakland police reported.

The arrested were identified as drummer John Bonham, 29, manager Peter Grant, stage manager Richard Cole, 31, and security guard John Bindon, 34.

All listed London as their place of residence.

Police said Cole and Bindon were booked on two counts of battery each; Grant and Bonham were booked on single battery counts.

Bail was set at $250 per count.

The band performed at the Oakland Coliseum on Saturday and Sunday.

Police said the warrant was issued after a complaint was made by a citizen, which they declined to identify.

According to an affadvait which accompanied the complaint, the four were involved in a series of fights with stage hands, security guards and concert management after the Bill Graham-sponsored Day on The Green concert.

Lee Zeppelin associates and Graham were unavailable for comment.

FORD SCORES AGAIN

VAIL, Colo. — Jessie Edeen, a spectator in the Gerald Ford Invitational Golf Tournament, underestimated the former president's ability to his errant shots.

She said she thought she was far enough into the rough Monday to be safe when Ford selected a five-iron for his shot from the fairway toward the green 200 yards away. Ford's shot struck Miss Edeen on the arm.

Her miscalculation left her with a bruised arm and Ford's golf ball, which he let her keep.

Bloodhound Caper

CHESAPEAKS, Va.— Sheriff's deputies are having difficulty finding escaped inmate Buster Lee Blevins, the 48-year-old convict fled with their top bloodhound, Star.

Blevins, serving six months at the city jail for passing bad cheques, escaped while taking the bloodhound on her daily walk.

"He just kept going," a spokesman said of Blevins.

Cpl. Frank Robertson added, "We're all concerned about Star. We're attached to her and she is a valuable dog. She has helped us catch a number of escaped inmates."

Chowchilla Trio Now Plead Guilty

OAKLAND, Calif. — Three young men who pleaded guilty to the kidnap of 26 Chowchilla school children and their bus driver will wage a legal battle together to avoid life in prison without parole, says a defence lawyer.

"They are relieved to get it over with and they are still friends," said public defender Lester Gendron after his client, James Schoenfeld, 25, Schoenfeld's brother, Richard, 24, and Frederick Woods, 25, withdrew their not-guilty pleas Monday.

The three defendants, who come from wealthy families, pleaded guilty to 27 counts of kidnap for ransom, which carries a prison term of five years to life, but they retained their not-guilty pleas on five charges of kidnap with bodily harm.

If convicted on the second and more-serious charges, they could be sentenced to life in prison without possibility of parole.

The 26 children and their bus driver were abducted at gunpoint near Chowchilla, a Central Valley Farming community, on July 15, 1976.

TERROR FILM DROPPED

TOKYO — A major Japanese film distributor said Monday that it has dropped plans to release Black Sunday, depicting an imaginary Palestinian attack on a U.S. president, because it has received threatening postcards.

The Toho Co., which controls a chain of Japanese cinemas, said it has indefinitely postponed showing the Universal film, in which Palestinians raid an American football stadium while the U.S. president is in attendance.

A spokesman said three postcards were received threatening terrorist attacks if the film, due for release in Japan on July 30, were not withdrawn.

Arab diplomats here also asked the company not to show Black Sunday after seeing it at a preview.

Heart Award For Matthau

LOS ANGELES — The American Heart Association gave its annual "Heart of the Year" award to actor Walter Matthau as "the American whose personal battle with heart disease gives hope and encouragement to other patients."

Matthau, 55, suffered a heart attack in 1966 while filming The Fortune Cookie and won an Academy Award for his performance.

The association noted he went on "to play physically demanding roles in a series of highly successful films which brought him stardom."

ANTI-PORN DRIVE RUNS INTO SNAG

VANCOUVER (CP) — Mayor Jack Volrich's anti-porn campaign stalled Monday when he failed to reach Attorney-General Garde Gardom on the telephone.

Monday was the day Volrich was due to unleash city police to seize pornographic magazines and newspapers from Vancouver magazine stands.

A week ago, the mayor gave the dealers one week to "clean up their act."

The problem, said the mayor, formerly Gardom's law partner, is that although police are eager to move ahead with charges on magazines already seized and held, "there has been a certain reluctance by prosecutors to press charges."

Gardom's support would be "very helpful," said Volrich.

Meanwhile, the British Columbia Civil Liberties Association pledged to do its best to find legal assistance for anyone charged under the mayor's campaign. Association president Dr. Jim Dybikowski said the purpose of the pledge was to protect the "vitally important freedom of speech."

He said Volrich is trying and in some cases succeeding in frightening booksellers into accepting judicially untested censorship of publications normally carried on the stands.

Kennedy's Lawyer Scolded

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver lawyer John Taylor was accused in British Columbia Supreme Court Monday of reprehensible conduct for using the media instead of the courts to argue the case of Jim Kennedy, a suspected IRA terrorist appealing a deportation order.

Taylor was absent from a Monday habeas corpus court hearing to determine whether the immigration department has the right to detain Kennedy.

The RCMP insists Kennedy is James Joseph McCann, who is wanted in Europe for crimes that include attempted murder and arson.

George Carruthers, counsel for immigration, said Taylor was not present because he was busy speaking on an open-line radio program.

Calling the use of the media instead of the courts "reprehensible," he argued that the writ should be dismissed if Taylor did not appear within a one-hour time limit.

Mr. Justice David Verchere did not comment on Taylor's absence, and adjourned the case indefinitely, giving the defence lawyer the right to apply for the habeas corpus hearing in the future.

Taylor said in an interview later that Carruthers' criticism was unfounded because he earlier informed all parties of his intention to seek an adjournment.

Hot Summer Brings on Fruit Crop

KELOWNA (CP) — The sudden arrival of hot summer weather will mean an abundance of Oakanagan apricots and peaches this week, a fruit industry official said Monday.

Lionel Desharnais, domestic sales manager for British Columbia Tree Fruits Ltd., said there is a marked difference in this year's fruit crop from that produced during last year's wet, cool summer.

The industry has now finished marketing 9.4 million pounds of cherries, down from the 10.8 million pounds harvested in 1976. About half the crop was sold in the Ontario and Quebec market.

Desharnais said this year's fresh apricot crop, now being picked, should total 5.6 million pounds, up about 11 per cent over 1976.

The peach crop is expected to be up 12 per cent this year at 13.6 million pounds, with fruit available from now until about mid-September.

Desharnais said prices for both peaches and apricots will be up over last year.

Last year tree fruits, the grower-owned central selling agency, got $5 for an 18.5-pound box of peaches, 75 cents below this year's price. A box of apricots will bring $4.50, up to 75 cents higher than one year ago.

The crop of Bartlett pears is estimated at 24.5 million pounds, up 10 per cent from last year, while Anjou pears are expected to total six per cent less than last year's 24.5 million pounds.

Apples are expected to total 231.8 million pounds, down slightly from last year. Desharnais said the industry is hopeful growers will get better prices than they have for the past four years.

Family Firm Paid Out 'Gift' To Lord Ryder

VANCOUVER (CP) — A foreign firm engaged by Canadian Forest Products Ltd. to make what auditors have termed an unauthorized $100,000 payment to the retiring chairman of Reed International Ltd. of Britain was identified by CFP Monday as Sapafine S.A. of Switzerland.

Peter Bentley, president of the Vancouver-based firm, said in a prepared statement that CFP asked Sapafine in 1975 to pay the money as a loan to Lord Ryder, and his firm didn't know until last month that the money was not properly authorized by Reed.

CFP and Reed Paper Ltd., the Canadian subsidiary of Reed International, are equal partners in Prince George Pulp and Paper Ltd. and each own 37.5 per cent of Intercontinental Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd., with a West German company owning the remainder.

Lord Ryder, now head of Brifian's National Enterprise Board, was on the CFP board between 1963 and 1974, although he never attended a board meeting.

Sapafine, a private investment company, is owned by the Bentley-Prentice family interests. L. L. G. Bentley, Peter's father, is vice-chairman of CFRP and J. G. Prentice is chairman of CFP.

Bentley said that in 1974 CFP rejected a request by R. W. Billingsley, former president of Reed Paper, that CFP make a $100,000 retirement gift to Lord Ryder. But, he said, the company later agreed to arrange the payment because it understood that the money was to be paid on behalf of Reed International and would be refunded.

A statement from Reed International in England Monday said CFP believed they were asked to pay Lord Ryder to assist Reed in overcoming "technical difficulties" with the gift.

"They did so in the understandable belief that Mr. Billingsley was speaking on behalf ow Reed International," the British company's statement said.

The transaction was registered as a loan by Sapafine and was repaid along with $10,000 interest and expenses in Jan. 1976, said Bentley.

The money paid to Lord Ryder was subsequently returned by him.

PIPE COMPANY TO BE ASKED FOR STUDY

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — The state energy facilities site evaluation council voted Monday to require a draft environmental impact statement of Northern Tier Pipeline Co. before starting final hearings on its oil port-pipeline application.

However, the language of the council's policy statement, adopted in a 6 to 4 vote, left the door open to holding piecemeal hearings on parts of the case itself before a total impact statement is ready.

In the past, the council has not always required a completed enviromental impact statement draft before it starts the major hearings on applications for energy facility sites.

The firm is seeking to establish an oil port in Port Angeles and build a pipeline around Puget Sound to carry crude oil to the Midwest.

Commission Postpones Energy Probe

VANCOUVER (CP) — Norman Gish, president of the B.C. Energy Commission, said Monday a series of commission hearings planned for this summer to help formulate energy policy has been postponed indefinitely.

Gish said the pressure of other public hearings, such as Dr. Andrew Thompson's West Coast oil port inquiry, is overtaxing public interest groups which might otherwise contribute to the commission's series.

"Groups like the Society for Pollution and Environmental Control are tied up for the next two or three months," said Gish. "We can't realistically expect to get results if we go full-steam ahead right now."

The hearings were originally planned to begin this summer in Vancouver, then proceed to 12 or 15 other B.C. communities in the fall and winter.

"The original purpose was to develp an energy policy for B.C. and get the maximum public input into this process and in the formulation of that policy," said Gish.

Police Bombed

NARITA, Japan (Reuter) — A barrage of 50 gasoline bombs was thrown at police cars outside the gates of Tokyo's new airport Sunday. No one was injured and police said they did not know who was responsible.

Citizens Protest Nanaimo Logging

NANAIMO (CP) — Money from the salmon enhancement program should be used to speed the move by forest companies into dry-land log-sorting operations, says Pat Barron, chairman of the Concerned Citizens' Committee here.

Barron criticized the presence of log booms in the estuary of the Nanaimo River which supports an annual run of 80,000 chum salmon.

"What is the point of spending millions to enhance the rivers if the log booms are going to remain in the estuary?" asked Barron.

Barron said a move to dry-land operations would protect the estuary without threatening a proposed $110 million industrial development on Duke and Jack Points. The project includes plans for three to five sawmills.

MP Hugh Anderson (L — Comox-Alberni) said last week that the government will not renew log-booming leases for Vancouver Island estuaries when they expire in 1982.

Barron suggested that the government buy the land for dry-land operations and lease it to the forest companies.

The committee has written a letter asking Fisheries Minister Romeo LeBlanc to take some action in speeding the move to dry-land sorting.

A Dry Run for Air Canada . . .

TORONTO (CP) — Monday was the first of six dry days for passengers on all Air Canada flights between Toronto, Ottawa, London and Windsor and some passengers said they were not pleased.

The airline lost its licence to sell beer or liquor for six days on some Ontario flights because it served drinks before the noon-hour official bar opening time.

The reaction Monday ranged from disappointment for a 16-year-old who sais for a 16-year-old who said get a beer without showing my ID (identification)" to disgust from Raoul LaPointe of Ottawa who muttered, "Coffee and peanuts—they've got to be kidding."

Don Holt, from Dallas, Tex., displayed some Texas quick-thinking. He heard about the ban when he arrived at the Toronto International Airport.

"I bought myself one of those fancy souvenir hip flasks in the airport and got it filled up with rye in the airport bar," he said, "You sure do have some funny drinking laws in Ontario."

Michael DeWilde, an airline spokesman, said passengers had not deserted Air Canada in droves.

"We've had phone calls from regular customers and they've all been sympathetic," he said.

Many of the dry-run flights have full loads of liquor on board for use when they fly on from one of the four cities to destinations on other provinces.

Oust Struggling Senators —Knowles

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons laughed off a provosal Monday that senators who find it a struggle to get along on $31,200 a year in salary and allowances be relieved of their legislative duties.

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre),, longtime crusader for the abolition of the Senate, raised the matter under a rule that permits discussion of issues "of urgent and pressing necessity" when MPs agree unanimously.

Knowles, tongue in cheek, apparently referred to a survey published by the Toronto Globe and Mail which found 48 of the 93 senators sit on company boards of directors, some to supplement their senatorial stipends.

He proposed that the senators in such straits "be relieved of their positions so that they can spend their full time dealing in stock options, sitting on boards of directors and in other pursuits that will enable them to make the kind of money they feel they must have . . .

Knowles added that nobody should be appointed to replace the senators relieved of their duties, "thus hastening the day when the Senate will be extinct."

NFLD. GOLD DISCOVERY

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Premier Frank Moores expressed excitement Monday about the discovery of gold near Port aux Basques, on the south-western tip of Newfoundland, but said the announcement does not mean a mine will be put into production.

The discovery in the Long Range Mountains, 19 miles northeast of Port aux Basques, was announced earlier Monday by Rio Algom Mines Ltd. of Toronto.

Robert Armstrong, chairman and chief executive officer of Rio Algom, said test yields in the area show 1-10th to 9-10ths of an ounce of high quality gold to every ton of rock.

However, he said it is too soon to tell whether the gold exists in marketable quantities.

MPs Take Summer Break Before Pipe Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons sped through two controversial bills Monday to an earlier - than - expected midsummer holiday, giving final approval to an overhaul of the Immigration Act and a metric conversion bill.

Passage of the two bills allows MPs to break until Aug. 4, when they will have a two-day debate on plans for a natural gas pipeline from the Arctic. After that debate, they will adjourn again until Oct. 17.

The immigration bill, which represents the first major changes to the Immigration Act since 1952, was approved by a vote of 115 to eight with Liberals, Progressive Conservatives and one Social Credit MP in favor and New Democratic Party MPs and two Liberals, Serge Joyal (Maisonneuve-Rosemont) and Louis Duclos (Montmorency) opposed.

Standings in the 264-seat Commons: Liberals 142, Conservatives 95, NDP 16, Soc Credit 10 and one independent. One seat is vacant.

The swift approval of the immigration bill, which provides tougher security and annual government immigration targets, was not expected.

The opposition had fought the bill hard in committee.

Also unexpected was the government's retreat on the metric conversion bill. Len Marchand, minister responsible for the bill, told the House the government was backing down on a provision which would have forced western grain producers to use the metric hectare instead of acres as their unit of land measurement.

The original proposal had been opposed bitterly by farmers and western MPs.

The government had been committed to passage of both bills before a summer adjournment and debate was expected to continue into August.

Immigration Minister Bud Cullen said he was pleased at the passage of the immigration bill—which he termed a model piece of legislation. But NDP critic Andrew Brewin said some provisions were potentially dangerous and could work against legitimate refugees.

Before the legislation was approved, the Liberal majority defeated an NDP motion to set the bill aside for six months.

During the session which began Oct. 12, the government managed to push 42 bills through both Houses of Parliament. Another four require only Senate approval and royal assent to become law.

Pipeline Report Thursday

OTTAWA (CP) — The first of two reports on the impact of a pipeline on the Yukon will be released Thursday, government officials said Monday.

An environmental study, headed by Dr. Harry M. Hill of the federal environment department, will be tabled in the Commons.

A second report on the social and economic impact of the pipeline, prepared by Kenneth Lysyk of the University of British Columbia, will be released next Wednesday.

Both studies were ordered by the government earlier this year after Foothills Pipe Lines Ltd. of Calgary filed an application with the National Energy Board for permission to build a line along the Alaska Highway to move Alaskan gas to U.S. markets.

Earlier this month, the federal pipeline regulatory board recommended to the government that it accept the Foothills' proposal, rejecting a competing application from Canadian Arctic Gas Pipeline Ltd.

The government is expected to make a decision on the pipeline issue sometime in August, meeting a Sept. 1 deadline set by Congress for President Jimmy Carter to make his pipeline choice.

Ottawa Probes Grants For Man. Indian Group

By PAUL WHITELAW
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A probe into possible misuse of federal funds by the Manitoba Indian Brotherhood has been under way for about nine months, Indian Affairs Minister Warren Allmand said Monday.

Allmand told the Commons the investigation was launched nearly a half-year before a Brotherhood employee asked Ottawa to check whether grants for research into treaty and aboriginal rights have been diverted improperly for other purposes.

The minister indicated that information obtained so far has produced no evidence or of outright skullduggery, but there may have been some problems with poor financial management.

Referring to the probe and questions raised by the Brotherhood employee, Allmand stated: "We see nothing of the nature described by the person concerned, but there were some problems with financing, and we are working these out."

The Brotherhood employee, Anthony Qalker, was dismissed from his job as a researcher after copies of his letters to Indian Affairs officials were sent by Ottawa to officials of the native group.

Responding to MP Ray Hnatyshyn (Saskatoon-Biggar), who wanted to know whether Ottawa will have an "independent auditor" look at the Bortherhood's records, Allmand said: "If that has not already been done, I will look into that possibility."

Hnatyshyn stated in his question that the Indian affairs department had "asked the Brotherhood to investigate itself."

The minister replied that the MP's information was "incorrect."

Copies of correspondence between the Indian Affairs officials and the Brotherhood made public by Hnatyshyn indicated that one installment in the federal research grants — a cheque for $48,000 — was withheld briefly last September by suspicious federal officials. The cheque was released following a Telex to Ottawa from the Brotherhood assuring that the money "will be used for research."

Minority Languages Up to Premiers—PM

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Monday he hopes that provincial premiers will discuss minority language education rights at their meeting next month in St. Andrews, N.B.

Trudeau said in the Commons that during a meeting last week with provincial Liberal leaders, he expressed hope that the premiers would also discuss cost-sharing in the implementation of minority language programs.

"I cannot do more than that to make sure they put a specific item on their agenda," he told New Democratic Leader Ed Broadbent.

Broadbent said Trudeau should ask New Brunswick Premier Richard Hatfield, chairman of the premiers' conference, to consider discussing the item at the conference.

But Trudeau said "it is a matter of knowing whether the proper way to have achieved those results is for the federal prime minister to request that the provincial premiers put something on the agenda. It is my suggestion that it is not the proper way to go about these things."

"The important thing is that that type of discussion take place, and I have taken certain measures to ensure that it does take place if the provinces so desire."

Trudeau said in the House that "the provinces are rather jealous of their jurisdiction in the area of education and I think it would not be productive for me to request, demand or suggest to the chairman of the conference to do certain things."

He said Broadbent should encourage New Democratic Premiers Ed Schreyer of Manitoba and Allan Blakeney of Saskatchewan to raise the question of minority education rights at the conference.

Broadbent said he agreed with Trudeau's negative response to a proposal by Quebec Premier Rene Levesque for the provinces to negotiate minority education rights.

But he said he wanted firmer action, "given the importance of minority language rights, an importance which the prime miister correctly told the House transcends provincial jurisdictional authority since it has national implications at this point in our history."

Old War Wound Bothers Dief

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker remained in stable condition Monday after being admitted to Civic Hospital over the weekend for tests, observation and a blood transfusion.

Diefenbaker, 81, is believed to be suffering from a recurring First World War injury when he was struck on the spine by a trenching tool. He was last in hospital for treatment of the injury in 1970 during a visit to Wales.

ESKIMO AIRLINE GIVEN LICENCE

OTTAWA (CP) — Air Inuit Ltd. became on Monday the first Inuit-owned firm to get federal licences to provide air service.

The Canadian transport commission announced it is granting Air Inuit authority to serve several northern Quebec and Northwest Territories communities. The Eskimo firm would also have the right to provide air charter and specialty flying services from a base at Fort Chimo, Que.

The federal and Quebec governments both intervened in the transport commission review of northern Quebec air service.

The federal Indian affairs department offered support to Air Inuit's application and the Quebec government pressed the commission to grant service in northern Quebec to a Quebec-based company.

Transport commission officials said there are two or three small Indian-owned air services. But Air Inuit was the first Eskimo-owned service to gain a federal air licence.

Air Inuit was launched by the Northern Quebec Inuit Association which is to receive substantial payments under the James Bay development agreement reached with the federal and Quebec governments.

It Was a Symphony of Summer

Despite a breeze that ruffled music pages and the conductor's hair—and the roar of Vancouver-bound seaplanes — the first Victoria Symphony Summer Festival concert of the season got off to a promising start Monday evening.

With a new conductor on the podium — gifted Canadian and former Victorian, Timothy Vernon—and in the new location of Centennial Square, the two 45-minute concerts attracted about 1,000 persons. There were toddlers and teenagers, senior citizens, hikers, handicapped, family groups, even a dog or two.

The MacPherson Playhouse glass facade formed a backdrop that reflected the whole scene — the summer orchestra with its many young players and dozen or so symphony regulars, the white-coated conductor, the crowd, the flowers, and Recreation Minister Sam Bawlf as he performed the official opening.

The performances were lively, brimming with a summery sense of pleasure. Both programs (they varied from each other) were devoted to the music of Johann Strauss Jr. and were melodic to a point of charming every ear.

Conducted dynamically with clear and positive direction as well as with a fine sense of nuance, Vernon conjured effective playing from the ensemble he has taken over recently.

The summer festival will continue through Aug. 28 with six weekly concerts — two each on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays — in Centennial Square, and two on the next five Sunday afternoons.

The first pair this Sunday will be at Oak Bay Recreation Centre's Roller Skadium at 2:30 and 3:45 p.m. Violinist Ruggiero Ricci, renowned faculty member of the Shawnigan Summer School, will be soloist, performing the mendelssohn E minor Violin Concerto and Saint-Saens Introduction and Rondo Caproccioso.

WATERY TRAIL LEADS POLICE

City police just followed the 20-block trail of water early this morning and arrested a suspect in a downtown hit-and-run accident.

Police, suspencting the hit-and-run car's radiator had been damaged, followed the trail and eventually found a car with a badly damaged front end in the parking lot of Royal Jubilee Hospital.

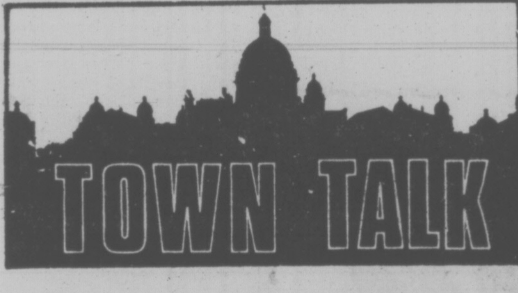
Seventeen-year-old Anthony James Stewart, 3016 Jutland, appeared in provincial court this morning charged with impaired driving, driving with a blood alcohol level about .08, refusing to provide a breath sample, failing to remain at the scene of an accident, and driving without insurance.

He was remanded without plea to Aug. 3 and released on his own undertaking.



TOWN TALK

It was neither — merely the Five Field Battery doing its thing at Albert Head, firing off 105 mm. blank ammunition.

The firings were in conjunction with militia summer training and it was the first night exercise of the summer.

It was also, says an Armed Forces spokesman, the last. All the training from now on will be daytime.

After a battle lasting more than four years, in which they enlisted support from across the country, the municipality's animal owners have persuaded their council to repeal a 1973 bylaw banning all pets except dogs, cats, horses and mules.

In the forward trenches of the battle was Lloyd La Vaux, owner of a pet spider monkey named Bubel, who refused to give her up despite the risk of a $1,000 fine for such monkey business.

After two articles about Bubel's inhuman rights being violated appeared in the Victoria Times, 61 Victorians wrote letters of protest to the Orangeville newspaper.

New we've received a letter (signed by Bubel in non-person) saying those efforts helped a lot in the successful campaign.

"Bless you and your readers for all that you did in my crusade to become a legal Canadian," writes Bubel.

That last $100,000 is tantalizingly close and the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria is in the midst of a final push to get its new wing completed.

The $900,000 wing will double to 24,000 square feet the size of the existing gallery approximately 3,000 square feet of which will be used to exhibit the extensive Asian collection.

Occupancy is targeted for mid-October and officials are hoping to have collected enough funds by then to ensure the wing is completed before moving in.

Anyone wishing to make a donation is invited to call the gallery for more information at 384-4101.

Oak Bay painter Brian Travers-Smith has become eligible for membership in the prestigious American Watercolor Society.

Artists from across North America are invited to submit one painting each for the AWS annual exhibition, making thousands from which to choose 300 for hanging.

From those, one-third are picked for the group's travelling exhibit, and Travers-Smith is included for the third consecutive year. That makes him eligible for full membership, and those who know his bright, familiar scenes will agree with the ranking.

Sandra Neely, 10, and twin banana

Is the town going a little bananas? Maybe not, but we seem to be running into some unusual banana happenings.

Earlier this month we told you about Rudy Burke getting a sort of message on a banana he bought, the letters F.C. carved into it in some far-off banana belt, invisible while the banana was green, coming to light as the banana ripened.

Now Mrs. G. B. Neely, 3874 Olivia Place, has a banana that is actually two bananas in one, both under the same skin, a sort of banana split in reverse.

Keep those banana stories coming, folks.

How come on a beautiful Sunday — around noon — only one of all those apartment dwellers on Dallas Road was out on his balcony drinking in the sheer delight of such a day!

Is there some unwritten rule that prohibits over-use of the balconies! Those of us who can only look at the house across the street are constantly amazed at how little these balconies get used.

And have you noticed at Oak Bay Marina that no matter how fine the day, the marina always seems to be nearly full of boats. You'd think everybody would be out on the water.

While the site of the former Alcazar Mansion on Fairfield remains an abandoned pile of rock, parts of the old mansion itself are already being recirculated.

Among other items, Attica Historic Home Supplies on Market Street has the magnificent bevelled-glass entrance doors for sale at $3,000.

Attica proprietor Allan Parkin said the craftsmanship is so good the 60-year-old solid oak and glass doorway will last anther 100 years.

The Alcazar was torn down earlier this year when the owners said they couldn't afford to renovate the 20-suite apartment to meet fire regulations.

Vow Kept On Job Security

School District 61 maintenance employees voted by a strong majority Monday to accept a two-year contract, but kept a vow to oppose sections affecting job security.

Canadian Union of Public Employees spokesman Bob Cunningham said the local is adamant against contracting-out provisions inserted by Greater Victoria Labor Relations Association, representing school trustees.

The battle will be postponed until the next round of contract negotiations which will start about September of next year.

"They must understand we are not dropping our bloody fight for job security through contracting-out," Cunningham said.

The local will fight this practice "whatever the cost" to ensure members their jobs are not going down the drain.

Cunningham said six positions have already been affected — all tradesmen such as carpenters, electricians and tinsmiths, who have been permanent classifications in the contract. The school board has recently advertised such openings as temporary employment.

Letters indicating the local's position will go to GVLRA chief negotiator Carl Anshelm and board chairman Susan Brice.

Seven CUPE locals representing municipal, school and regional employees were part of a joint bargaining committee in negotiations with GVLRA. An eighth, city of Victoria inside staff, did not join the committee and signed a one-year anti-inflation contract.

One of the seven, representing Capital Regional District employees, broke from the committee and signed a similary one-year agreement, and GVLRA has offered now to extend the one-year contract to two years, bringing it into line with the other six.

The city's inside local appeared Monday to oppose this suggestion on grounds that the Anti-Inflation Board may dissolve shortly and employees had now wish to bind themselves to a restricted contract next year.

Heritage Hassle Site Up for Sale

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

A Fairfield area property which was the subject of a lengthy legal hassle last year, involving the heritage status of the site's residential buildings, has now been advertised for sale only a few months after demolition was completed.

Ald. Murray Glazier said Monday the situation involving the property at 1040-1042 Linden is "painfully reminiscent" of what happened with the Alkazar Mansion on Fairfield, where another firm demolished the building, scrapped its original plans to build and tried to dispose of the land.

Bill McElroy, president of the Fairfield Community Association, said: "This proves these guys (developers) are not interested in making homes available for people . . ."

But developer George Stricker, partner in the firm of Krieger-Stricker which owns the Linden property, said today such criticisms are unfair because it was the city's own vacillating policies and delays which prevented the firm from proceeding with its original plans for apartment construction.

He also denied that the asking price for the site — $335,000 — will provide any profit for the firm.

"If we get that price in today's market it will still be less than our total costs if you include the original purchase price, accrued interest, taxes, legal costs and the costs of moving tenants from the (demolished) suites," he said.

"We can easily substantiate it."

Stricker recalled that his company undertook to purchase the property subject to a written assurance from the city that none of the buildings on it were considered for heritage designation.

Such assurance was provided, but a short time after the firm obtained a demolition permit the city introduced its emergency bylaw freezing demolitions on 77 buildings — including theirs — for which heritage designations were being considered.

The firm tried to have the bylaw quashed but the bylaw was upheld in B.C. Supreme Court.

Stricker said the firm's plans were stalled for more than six months but, ironically, city council came to the eventual conclusion that the buildings were not worth saving.

Meanwhile market conditions had changed considerably, he noted, "and we felt it was somewhat uneconomical to go ahead with construction. We lost too much time last year."

Glazier said the Linden, Alkazar and similar cases where substantial residential buildings are demolished and the sites are offered for sale, often to lie vacant for months, underline the need for council to be able to withold a demolition permit until the site's future use is approved and a building permit issued.

Human Rights Charge 'Absurd'—Trustee

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

Trustee Mark Fisher Monday night termed "utterly absurd" a B.C. Human Rights Branch claim that the Greater Victoria school board's teacher hiring policy contravenes the Human Rights Code.

He was replying to a letter from Reg Newkirk, assistant director of the branch, who questioned the policy of hiring younger teachers this year.

Fisher said teacher hiring is not a human rights issue but a monetary one based on the system of salaries and automatic increments.

The school district also wanted a contemporary input by having younger teachers, he said.

Trustee Peter Bunn said the code regulations are "straight from Lewis Carroll . . . right from Through the Looking Glass."

Holding up a copy of the regulations, he suggested other trustees read them "to see how hamstrung management is in making hiring decisions."

He said he wasn't too sure how he got the copy of the regulations.

Perhaps they came in "a plain brown envelope," he said.

In his letter to the board, Newkirk said the policy of hiring younger teachers violates the section of the code dealing with discrimination against applicants based on age.

Newkirk said people tend to be discouraged from applying for positions "when a preference for a particular group — e.g., younger candidates — has been stated."

He urged the board to reconsider the policy or explain to the branch why it felt it should be exempted from the code.

Superintendent of schools Allan Stables replied to Newkirk that the information Newkirk had received was a "position paper" presented to the board and not a "policy statement."

"It is rather unfortunate that our communications officer picked this up and included it in his news release in the manner he did," Stables wrote.

"In fact, our administration does not make policy. On the contrary, this is the prerogative of the board. The board simply received this paper and has not adopted it as policy."

At the meeting, Stables said the policy is still to hire the best teacher for the job.

And Trustee Peter Dorazio pointed out the district budgeted for $19,000 per teacher — near the top of the pay scale.

Vandals Suspected

Deputy chief Mike Heppell said only minimal damage was done in the fire which was set among wood shavings and short-end two-by-fours stacked in a corner of a second-floor closet.

Heppell said a neighbor heard noises in the building about 11:22 p.m. and when he looked over, saw the fire.

Famous Man Designs a Simpler Life

family

NEW YORK (NYT) — Giorgio di Sant'Angelo became plain Giorgio Sant'Angelo a year ago. It was just to make life simpler. At about the same time, he took a larger step in the same direction. He moved. But before he left his old apartment in Greenwich Village, he got rid of most of the possessions he'd picked up in his travels around the world.

"Mostly, I sold them to my friends," he said. "Except the small things — I kept those. I couldn't bear to give up everything."

The small things — figures of the Seven Dwarfs from the Walt Disney studio, where he first worked in this country; Chinese dolls, African and American Indian masks, Peruvian clay animals — are arranged neatly in the tiny room he uses as his studio in the new apartment on Park Avenue.

It is just a few blocks from the Fifth Street workrooms where he turns out his fashion collections. Walking to work is one of the ways he has simplified his life.

Having his favorite objects around inspires him when he works, Sant'Angelo said. But their ordered confusion is in direct contrast to the rest of the apartment. It looks spacious, unpretentious, and uncluttered. It is painted white, the furnishings are mostly natural wood and white canvas, and the effect is almost colorless.

"So the people stand out," he told a visitor. "They are not lost in a mass of patterns and colors."

When he got rid of his old furnishings ("a little bit Italian, a little French provincial"), Sant'Angelo made up his mind to try modern. But the modern furniture he saw in stores was not what he envisioned. It was too slick, too worked over, too complicated, he felt.

"It was as baroque as French provincial," he said. "The wood was not today's way of living."

Remember, it was simplicity he was after. Having studied architecture in Europe in his early years, he started to go about making some of the furnishings himself. The first thing he made was screens. He stretched canvas on pine dowels and laced it in the back.

"A little bit nautical, a little bit American Indian," said the designer, who was born in Florence and grew up on his grandfather's farm in Argentina. When he was 17, he moved to Florence with his parents, where he began his architectural studies.

The screens are a necessity in the Park Avenue apartment, which consists of a rabbit's warren of small rooms, with doorways of different heights.

"It was probably the servants' quarters when there was one apartment on each floor," he said. "The screens leveled everything."

He removed all the doors and, instead, uses the screens as dividers when privacy is necessary.

To hide some unattractive radiators, Sant'Angelo stretched some other canvas on frames and simply stood the resulting screens in front of them.

"It's a rental apartment and I didn't want to spend a lot of money on fixtures," he said.

After the screens, the next thing he attacked was the seating. For the main piece of furniture in his living area, he made a large pine box and piled it with pillows — three white canvas pillows to sit on, three others to lean on, and some narrow versions in beige Ultrasuede to curl up with.

The pillow covers, incidentally, were made without zippers or other metal fastenings.

"Metal gets messed up in washing machines," Sant'Angelo pointed out. He made his covers so the pillows fold into them as if into envelopes. He expects them to be in washing machines a lot, including of course the Ultrasuede.

The table in front of the pine box with pillows is an old oak dining table he picked up for $19 at a yard sale in Southampton. He cut the legs so the table rises just a few inches from the floor. Everything in the apartment is built close to the floor and when a large crowd gathers for one of his dinner parties, pillows on the floor are the preferred seating.

Lacquered trays from Japan repose on some of his low boxes in place of pillows. The footed traps are used for dining at these informal gatherings " and then the whole thing can be taken into the kitchen," he says triumphantly.

Most of the lighting is from the floor, which he feels is most comfortable and flattering. When he needs work lights, which he does in his studio, the designer uses an architect's lamp.

By LESTER COLEMAN, MD

I'm a little past 55. I recently became a widower and my life has been in a turmoil. I feel that I could use the help of a psychologist. Whenever I suggest it to my children they embarass me by insisting that I'm too old to get started on such a thing. What is your opinion? — Mr. G.R.T.

Dear Mr. T.:

There is no age in which one cannot derive benefit from some form of psychological guidance. When you confronted the situation and came to the conclusion that you needed some form of psychotherapy, you made a courageous step in the right direction.

Those who are advising you are apparently doing so without the background or knowledge that qualifies them to make such a judgment.

It is true that some psychoanalysts believe the intensive psychoanalysis should be reserved for younger persons. This is probably not what you're seeking.

There are many variations of psychotherapy that might be extremely beneficial and can open horizons of happiness for you. An appraisal of your emotional health, with subsequent guidance, will probably eliminate much of the tension and confusion that now exists.

Many people your age who are overwhelmed by the impact of the loss of a loved one are able to find emotional compensation with the direction and help of competent specialists in the field of psychology or psychiatry.

By all means, follow your own instinct and seek such help after openly discussing your problem with your own doctor. He is in the best position to recommend the person who can help you.

Ballet Lessons Good for Boys

DEAR READERS: A woman signed BUDDY'S MOTHER wrote to say that her 10-year-old son who had taken ice skating lessons for two years had asked to take ballet lessons.

She said that she and her husband feared that if they let him take up ballet he might turn into a homosexual.

I told her that it took a great deal of manly discipline for a boy to excel at ballet, and to go ahead and give the boy ballet lessons.

The reader feedback was interesting. Some samples:

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet BUDDY'S MOTHER lives in Dade County, Fla., where they recently voted to deny homosexuals their constitutional rights because of Anita Bryant's crusade to "Save Our Children." I'd appreciate your comments.—STRAIGHT AND CONCERNED

DEAR S. AND C.: No straight boy ever became gay because he took ballet lessons. Neither did a gay become straight because he joined the Marine Corps. No one knows what causes some people to be gay and others to be straight. But it's a fact that "our children" do not need to be "saved" from homosexuals. (More children are molested by straights than by gays.)

To use "God," the flag" and the emotionally charged cry to "Save Our Children" in an effort to deny employment, housing and public accommodations to a whole segment of our population because of their personal sexual preference is outrageous!

DEAR ABBY: I was shocked when I read the letter in your column from the mother who was reluctant to allow her son to take ballet lessons because it might encourage him to become a homosexual. How ignorant can some people be?

I have three sons. The two older boys excelled in football, but the younger boy favored ice skating and ballet. I made sure the two older boys did not ridicule their younger brother because of his interest in ballet.

As for ballet being for sissies, I'd like to see a sissy lift a 13-pound ballerina with one hand and hold her over his head. And all those strenuous leaps turns and jumps take muscle control, co-ordination and strength the finest athlete would envy.

Ballet does more for a boy's body than football. I'd rather see my son dance than see him carried off a football field on a stretcher with a broken nose or a broken leg!—POMONA MOM

DEAR ABBY: Would you believe that before my son became a Golden Glove boxing champion he was advised to take ballet lessons to improve his footwork? He took them, too. And when he was kidded about it, he laughed harder than anybody because he knew that he was as much a man as the manliest.—CHAMP'S MOTHER

Whether you want to travel alone or in a group, for just a few days or for a month and if you have limited funds, hostelling may be the answer.

The folder Let's go hostelling mentions that there are more than 4,500 hostels in 50 different countries around the world. All provide simple overnight accommodation to anyone, irrespective of race, religion, age or creed. In Canadian hostels overnight accommodation ranges from 75 cents to $3.50 per person.

Another folder Youth hostelling in North America states that at present there are 50 youth hostels in Canada and 154 in the United States. A map which shows the location of these hostels is included in the folder.

A third folder Youth Hostelling Overseas says that the average cost of a night in a hostel abroad is $1.25 and that meals cost from 50 cents to $1. However, hostellers are free to buy and cook their own food at the hostel. There is no maximum age limit at foreign hostels except in Switzerland and Bavaria where guests must be under 27 years.

'POTENT CANCER CAUSE' IN BACON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A German research scientist says two preservatives used in bacon and other cured meats create the "most potent" cancer-causing substances now known.

Dr. Rudolf Preussmann said cancer causing compounds called nitrosamines, which are formed from the preservatives sodium nitrate and nitrite, should be phased out of use.

"If I had a choice I would do something about my exposure to nitrosamines and live happily with DDT and cyclamates," said Preussmann.

Nitrosamines come from a variety of sources other than cured meat, including air pollution and fresh vegetables. But Preussmann said the nitosamines formed from sodium nitrate and nitrite "are among the most potent carcinogenic compounds we know at present."

Preussmann showed the Agriculture Departments panel of experts slides of dissected rats with tumors induced by nitrosamines, and said one study showed succeeding generations of rats had a higher incidence of tumors even though they were not fed the material directly.

The panel has been studying the cured meat question for four years and hopes to make a recommendation later this year.

Asked what his recommendation would be for nitrites and nitrates, Preussmann said the government should "try to find another preservative."

DIABETIC DRUG BANNED IN U.S.

WASHINGTON (TNS)—An oral diabetic drug which may have been responsible for as many as 1,000 deaths a year from an often fatal side effect is being banned in the first government action of its kind.

The drug, called phenformin and marketed for the past 18 years under the brand names "DBI" and "Meltrol," is being taken by 385,000 Americans in the early stages of diabetes.

Under an order issued Monday by HEW Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., doctors have 90 days to switch such patients to other drugs or control the disease with strict diets instead of medication.

Dr. Sidney Wolfe, head of Ralph Nader's Health Research Group which took the government to court earlier this year to try to get such a ban, called it "tragic that this drug wasn't banned earlier."

In Ottawa, a spokesman for the federal health department said the drug was voluntarily taken off the Canadian market May 24.

U.S. Probing Into Oil Prices

Washington Post

WASHINGTON — The Carter administration will undertake a major investigation of the 15 major oil companies aimed at recouping alleged overcharges since the 1973 Arab oil embargo "possibly amounting to several billion dollars," Federal Energy Administration head John F. O'Leary said Monday.

O'Leary said efforts to enforce the FEA's complicated oil pricing regulations had been "skimped" in the past, and he strongly endorsed the findings of a 14-member task force led by Stanley Sporkin, head of enforcement at the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The task force report said, "FEA's enforcement program has historically been ineffective without either the commitment or direction to the job . . . (it) has floundered and moved from crisis to crisis."

Sporkin, who has a reputation as a tough enforcer in the corporate world, said FEA's attempts to get the largest refiners to comply with oil pricing regulations were "a failure."

FEA has a backlog of about 3,600 open cases with a potential of $1.7 billion in pricing violations. Since July, 1974, FEA has settled cases with major refiners involving $358 million in violations.

FEA officials identified the 15 integrated oil companies and others with large refinery operations as Exxon, Standard Oil Co. of Indiana (Amoco), Shell, Texaco, Standard Oil Co. of California (Socal), Mobil, Gulf, Atlantic Richfield, Sun, Marathon, Union, Continental Oil Co. (Conoco), Phillips, Cities Service and Getty-Skelly.

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — The Marxist government of Angola says it is under guerrilla attack on three fronts and accuses Zaire and South Africa of involvement in the fighting.

Angola's official Radio Luanda, monitored by the South African Broadcasting Corp., said Monday guerrillas had attacked two southern towns and one in the east, and that invading troops from Zaire assaulted other towns in the northeast.

Another Luanda broadcast monitored in Portugal accused South African troops of invading Angola and capturing the town of Cuangar near the southern border with South West Africa.

The guerrillas attacked the towns of Calueque and Santa Maria in the south and Kalanda in the east, while the Zairean troops attacked some unidentified towns in the northeast, the broadcast monitored in Johannesburg said.

It said the Zairean invasion was timed to coincide with intensified operations around Cuangar by the anti-Marxist National Union for the Total Liberation of Angola, led by Dr. Jonas Samibi.

The broadcast monitored in Portugal accused troops from South Africa's white minority regime of capturing Cuangar five days ago. But Angolan refugees who fled from the battle—many of them government s oldiers—told officials in South West Africa the town was overrun by Samibi's guerrillas.

Although President Agostinho Neto's Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, backed by Cuban troops, defeated two pro-West guerrilla groups in the 1976 civil war, the guerrillas continue to fight and claim control over sections of the countryside.

Samibi's forces are concentrated in the southeast while the northeastern section is a traditional stronghold of the National Front for the Liberation of Angola, under the leadership of Holden Roberto.

Washington Post

SEOUL, South Korea—Seventeen GIs stationed in South Korea are petitioning President Jimmy Carter to withdraw U.S. support from President Park Chung Hee over his alleged repression of human rights.

The signers of a 250-word statement addressed to the president are all enlisted men in the 2nd Infantry Division, which is to withdraw from South Korea with all other U.S. ground-combat units over the next five years.

Secretary of Defence Harold Brown opened two days of talks with Park and other Seoul government ministers Monday on the timing of the pullout.

The petition reads, in part: "We believe that with the current administration's stand on human rights it is time for the American government and the American people to position themselves against the regime of President Park Chung Hee. We are personally not prepared to fight, die or support for another minute a narrow-minded government."

Meanwhile, a high U.S. official said Brown has informed the Koreans of concern that the U.S. Congress might not appropriate the $2.3 billion needed to upgrade South Korean armed froces as most of the 33,000 U.S. combat soldiers are withdrawn.

Defective Windshields Alleged

DETROIT (AP)—A Ford Motor Co. safety engineer has filed a $500,000 damage suit in U.S. court contending the automaker knowingly built more than one million cars with potentially unsafe windshields.

Frank Camps, 55, charged he was demoted after he told higher company officials of the windshield problem.

The suit was filed Friday in U.S. District Court here. A Ford lawyer said Monday he has not read the suit and had no immediate comment.

A company spokesman said during the weekend that "as to the alleged fault in the windshield, we can say our cars meet federal safety standards."

Camps charged in his suit that Ford "has in the past and continues today to manufacture" 913,857 Pinto and 98,128 Mercury station wagons since the start of the 1972 model year with windshields that were not strong enough to meet federal crash standards.

In Oakville, Ont., a spokesman for Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd., said in an interview that windshields are manufactured in the company's Niagara Falls, Ont., plant and three or four plants in the U.S.

He said he did not know whether the windshields made in Canada were for the model cars named in the law suit.

Sickness Hits Picnic

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Canadian and American Legionnaires who suddenly became ill at a Sunday picnic did not suffer a recurrence of the dreaded legionnaire's disease which claimed at least 29 lives last summer in Philadelphia.

Dr. George Bladen of the Onondaga County health department, said Monday the 15 who became ill probably were suffering from an intestinal virus.

Accused Executives Duck Again

By FRANK RUTTER
Times London Bureau

LONDON — Executives accused of belonging to a uranium cartel are going to the House of Lords to try to escape giving evidence about the allegation.

The Lords will be asked on Wednesday to grant a stay in proceedings at which the executives of Rio Tinto-Zinc, parent of Rio Algom in Canada, have so far refused to testify.

Another attempt to get them to talk was made at the U.S. Embassy here on Monday, when consular official Mary Gerber presided at a hearing to take depositions.

But the first two executives on the stand, Kenneth Baylis and Andrew Buxton, repeated continuously: "I decline to answer."

They did so even though the British Appeals Court earlier in the day had denied their request for a stay in the proceedings.

The extremely complicated legal campaign is being waged on both sides of the Atlantic.

In the U.S., the justice department has begun a grand jury investigation into the allegations of a cartel in which Rio Tinto-Zinc and Rio Algom, among others, are claimed to be members.

Meanwhile 27 U.S. power utilities have sued the Westinghouse Corporation for failing to supply uranium under contracts for 20 years at fixed prices.

In turn, Westinghouse is suing 29 uranium producers, including Rio Tinto-Zinc, claiming they operated a cartel to boost prices far above its contracted level.

The Canadian government has protested the U.S. investigations and has forbidden the export of documents which could be used in legal proceedings.

Westinghouse and the U.S. government hope to get evidence by the roundabout route of court hearings in Britain.

These hearings, conducted as if they were in the U.S., were permitted by the British courts under what are known as "letters rogatory."

Rio Tinto-Zinc lost an appeal against the letters rogatory, but has applied to the House of Lords for final judgment. Meanwhile it is also applying to the Lords for a stay in the U.S. proceedings here.

The British attorney-general also announced Monday that the government would consider joining Rio Tinto-Zinc in its appeal to the Lords against the letters rogatory.

This was cited by counsel Michael Burton as one reason Rio Tinto-Zinc executives were refusing to answer questions. A second reason, he contended, was that the company was protected by the Treaty of Rome, the founding instrument of the European Common Market in which Rio Tinto-Zinc does business.

Earlier executives of the company had pleaded the Fifth Amendment under U.S. law, refusing to testify on grounds of possible self-incrimination. But they were then granted immunity, which negated the need for pleading the fifth.

Monday's embassy hearing dragged to an inconclusive halt when Samuel Haubold, representing Westinghouse, said he would apply to the British courts for an order to force the Rio Tinto-Zinc executives to testify.

A previous order had only required them to appear.

The Bridge Expert

By FRED KARPIN

According to the records of the American Contract Bridge League, the all-time top-ranking player in the United States Congress has been the late Rep. John C. Kunkel of Pennsylvania. Through the years, Congressman Kunkel had amassed over 3,000 master points, with but 300 being needed to become a Life Master, organized bridge's highest award.

When I once asked Kunkel what his favorite hand was, he gave me today's deal, in which he took a beating. He was sitting South.

North-South vulnerable.
South deals.

NORTH
♠ 8 7 5 4 2
♡ 6 4 3

WEST	EAST
♠ A Q 9 6	♠ 3

SOUTH
♡ A Q 8
◇ Q 10 6
♣ K Q 10 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Pass

Opening lead: Four of ◇.

After winning the opening lead with the diamond king, East played back the three of diamonds. South put up the ten, West's jack winning. The diamond ace then felled South's queen. West returned his remaining diamond, East's seven-spot taking the trick as South discarded a club. At this point East did not cash his high diamond. Instead, he shifted to the jack of hearts.

When South covered with the queen, West's king captured the trick. West returned a heart, East's nine being taken by South's ace. Kunkel next laid down the club king, East's ace taking the trick. East now cashed his remaining diamond, South discarding the club ten while West discarded the spade six. Next came the ten of hearts, everybody following suit. East then played the 13th heart — and Kunkel had a problem.

His last four cards were the K-J-10 of spades and the club jack. If, on East's heart lead, Kunkel discarded his club queen, he would make a winner out of West's jack. So, as a lesser-of-evils play, he tossed away his ten of spades. West, on this lead, discarded the club jack.

East now played back a spade, trapping South's K-J, and enabling West to capture the last three tricks. All Kunkel made was one trick, the ace of hearts, and he suffered a loss of 1,700 points, owing to circumstances beyond his control.

After the score was recorded, I have the feeling that Congressman Kunkel folded up his tent and silently stole away.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Astrological Forecast for Wednesday, July 27

By SIDNEY OMARR

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent communication. Put point across. Be positive others know your meaning — and that you are correctly quoted. Being headstrong now could cost a "pretty penny." Changes occur and you doubt benefits. But ultimately you gain through variety, travel, written word. Yes, opposite sex is involved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Investment which beautifies surroundings is good — don't fret because friend or relative attempts to belittle your efforts. Libra is in picture. Another Taurus needs a crying towel. Health will improve. Your vitality is making a belated comebcak.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Analyze reasons — take nothing for granted. One who cares for you wants some Evidence" that feeling is reciprocated. Reject superficiality — dig deep and you could strike pay dirt. Legal decision will be favorable.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Cycle moves up as day progresses. You get rid of some secret fears, doubts. Clandestine meeting proves that your worries were for nothing. Capricorn figures prominently — so does the number "8." Be direct, confident — organize priorities.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You have greater freedom. You could be called upon to finish assignment begun by someone else. Travel might be involved. Keep communication lines open. Spread influence, broaden horizons. Aries, Virgo, Libra might be part of scenario.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept 22): Make new start in new direction. Be independent, a self-starter, original, creative — and unafraid to love. Message will become crystal-clear! Accent on money obtained from property, interest on savings account. You're going to make an important decision.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Idea can be developed into something solid, valuable. Don't sell your self short. Individual who teaches asks your opinion. Morale soars. Follow through on hunch. You'll feel more secure. Past effort comes home to roost — and pays dividends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Element of luck, timing rides by your side. You can have fun and make money, too. Know it and relax. Means get rid of tension. Social affair could produce valuable allies. Gemini, Sagittarius persons figure in scenario.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Element of excitement prevails. You realize that your own style, methods are identifiable. You hear sound of your own voice. You're unique. You don't have to imitate — you succeed by being yourself. Know it and act accordingly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 19): Situation is more favorable than might be imagined. Cycle is high — get going, be direct, independent, trust intuition. Make personal appearances; wear bright colors. Accent locating lost articles, discovering "missing links."

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Friend visits, imparts information of value. Spotlight on area of chart featuring desire and how to fulfill it. Taurus, Libra figure prominently. Adjustment will occur within family. Keep promises to loved one.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): What seemed a lost cause is revived. New hope on horizon. Key now is to define goals, make terms crystal-clear, get rid of superfluous material, be willing to streamline and to face facts as they exist. Be finished with trap of wishful thinking. Yes, there is room at top!

IF JULY 27th IS YOUR BIRTHDAY, you are capable of appealing to many persons. You attract members of opposite sex. You could succeed in "show business." You are intrigued with law and medicine. Aries, Libra persons play important roles in your life. You travel next month, make wonderful social contacts, expand horizons and come to realization that more hope, greater freedom is upcoming. Yes, happiness will replace gloom as your companion!

FORD — Barry and Verna are pleased to announce the arrival of their second son Craig Stanley, 7 lbs., 15 ozs. Brother for Dean. Special thanks to Dr. E. Prevost, Dr. R. Anderson and Dr. R. A. White and maternity staff at Royal Jubilee. (Insured).

LUCHIN—Born to Luciano and Joan (Nee Jenvey) on July 17th, 1977 at Royal Jubilee Hospital a boy, Daniel James, 7 lbs. 7 ozs. A brother for Tony. Thanks to Dr. Madill and Maternity staff.

8 CARD OF THANKS

THANKS FROM AN OPEN HEART PATIENT

Recently I spent 12 days in the Royal Jubilee Hospital undergoing open heart surgery, so common these days.

May I through your printed page express my deepest appreciation and thanks to my many friends and relations who in my time of need showered me with letters, cards and wishes for a speedy recovery. To those who so generously donated to the heart fund my humblest thanks and God's blessing.

To the nursing staff, both male and female who treated me as someone very special and very thoroughly explained what was expected of me to assist in a successful operation. I cannot say enough. Every member of the staff were so very dedicated to the duty assigned to them but at the same time were so attentive to my every need.

Although I was very pleased to leave for home two days sooner than planned, at the same time I felt the loss of a new found closeness to a group of our so called younger generation whom I had come to realize were not only very capable but were out to go us older generation, one better.

To all the staff on 4 Royal and intensive Care, my very deepest respect and thanks.

To Dr. Friesen and Dr. Browniee may I be ever grateful.

Pruning Wistaria for Flowers

Wistaria, named to honor Caspar Wistar (1761-1818), Professor of Anatomy, University of Pennsylvania, needs pruning twice a year to promote good flowering. It is a long lived plant, specimens being known that are a century old, covering hundreds of square feet, branching from a main stem 12 ins. in diameter at soil level.

In contrast, Wistaria floribunda (or multijuga) has flower clusters to 48 ins. long, 13 to 19 small leaflets make up one leaf, fragrant, turns yellow in fall, leaves appear during flowering, and vines twine right to left.

The flowers of sinensis are comparatively large and the entire cluster opens within a few days but fades in 7 to 10 days, giving a brief but outstanding display. Colors are limited to purples and white.

The individual flowers of floribunda are much smaller, those at the top of the cluster opening first, then opening continues slowly down the long flower stem to the tip. This gives a small display of fragrant flowers over three weeks. Named varieties have colors of peach, pink, pale lilac, white, and the variety floraplena has large double flowers of deep violet.

The number of flower clusters on a plant is directly related to the pruning it receives.

During the summer Wistaria makes a quantity of long growths. Summer pruning consists of cutting back all these long growths at approximately the fourth leaf from point of origin with a sharp pruning knife. Remember, fourth leaf, not fourth leaflet.

Eventually these shortened growths will produce a flowering bud at the base which develops into a flowering spur that elongates and flowers year after year. Flower spurs should never be cut off. The shortening of long growths is done from mid-July to mid-August.

Shortened summer growths which as yet have failed to produce flower buds or spurs are shortened again in winter to leave two growth buds. This is done in late February to early March.

Two things the Wistaria does not like are transplanting and fertilizer, the latter causing rampant growth at the expense of flowers. The only time to apply fertilizer, if needed, is in late February. The roots are deep and spreading so a small amount of fertilizer must be spread over a large area.

While Wistaria sinensis comes fairly true from seed, there is great variation in seedling floribundas, which is the reason for so many poor plants when growers produce their stock from seeds. All named varieties are grafted plants.

Wistarias need a soil well filled with compost as they are swamp plants requiring constant moisture at their roots. E. H. Wilson, the plant hunter, found Chinese plants by pools and streams with flower clusters 64 inches long. Summer watering is essential here.

Climbing plants "climb" in order to reach above neighboring plants for sunlight. To succeed with any climber the roots should be in cool shade beneath other shrubs and the tops in full sun.

For the first five years a Wistaria plant grows only to about 18 inches with a cluster of leaves at the top. After that it puts up the climbing vines. It is the care given it during the first ten years in the garden that determines its final state of beauty.

HELP!
Here I sit — a devilishly good-looking yellow and black Monza Towne Coupe (1976!). I have nearly everything I need, such as V-8, 4-speed, alloy wheels, radials, stereo-tape, tilt steering, handling package, power steering, and power brakes, but what I REALLY need is a new owner. My present owner loves me, but loves his business, too! One of us had to go. Please call 478-2250 (evenings) P.S. I'm lonely.

GINGER BROWN MGB, '69 GT model has always been babied and garage kept. Black leather interior, spoke wheels, new tires, 30 m.p.g., city tested, just tuned. $2,150. 658-5368, Ask for B. J. Bennett.

HAPPINESS IS

DEAN PARK ESTATES

FROM $28,500

1—Splendid views of the Straits, Gulf Islands and Mt. Baker.

2—Fully paved and curbed streets — well lit with full underground services. It's own water system and complete sewage system including the most modern sewage treatment plant on the Saanich Peninsula.

3—Well treed one-third of an acre lots.

4—Fully controlled development for environmental and economic protection.

6—Low, low taxes and all local improvements paid.

7—A few minutes to shopping (Sidney) good schools, the Panorana Rec Centre (skating, swimming, etc.), riding trails, golf courses, marinas, tennis courts and John Dean Provincial Park.

8—A home in Dean Park is a superior investment. We beg you to compare; you'll be happy you have.

HOW TO WRITE

A GOOD

CLASSIFIED ACTION AD

1—IT'S BEST to start your ad with the name of the article or service you have to offer. If you have an apartment, room etc., for rent, or property for sale: start your ad with the location.

2—BE CLEAR. Readers respond more quickly and favorably when given complete, definite information. Always include the price in your adveertisement.

3—MAKE IT EASY for the reader-prospect to reach you. Always give your telephone number or your name and address. If you do not have regular hours, state a preferred time for the prospect to get in touch with you.

4—PLAY SAFE. You get the greatest reader attention by using consecutive insertions. A six-day order is best and costs less, and you can, of course, stop your ad as soon as you get the results you want. You pay only for the days your ad appeared. Lower yearly rates are available to those who wish to keep their services or products before the public.

5—PLACE YOURSELF in the reader's position and ask yourself what you want to know about your offer. The answer you give will make a good Want Ad.

6—GIVE YOUR PROSPECT every inducement you can with good copy. Classified action ad readers have the money and are already interested in buying the merchandise or service you have to offer; the details and information you give are the most important.

7—TO PLACE YOUR AD, call 386-2121, your direct line number to fast Want Ad action. A courteous, efficient advisor will be glad to help you word and place your order. And remember. Classified Action Ads afford you the most complete coverage. Telephones are open 8:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m. for you daily, Monday through Saturday calls. Don't allow the reader to speculate

309 IN MEMORIAM

BLAIKIE — Gladys Mary, whose death occurred July 26th, 1973. In loving memory of a dear sister.
We mourn for her in silence,
No eyes can see us weep,
But many a silent tear is shed,
While others are asleep.
—Marjorie Jackson and niece Gwen.

DALMAN—In loving memory of Allen who passed away July 26, 1973.
There is a link
Death cannot sever,
Love and Remembrance
Last forever.
Mom.

NOBLE—Elsie, in loving memory of a wonderful wife, Mother and Nanna, who passed away July 26, 1975.
There is a link death cannot sever,

PATTERSON—In loving memory of our beloved Florence, who departed this life, July 26, 1972. "Shall claim of death cause us to grieve, or make our courage faint or fail, Nay, let us faith and hope receive, the Rose still grows beyond the wall. Scattering fragrances far and wide, Just as it did in days of yore, just as it did on the other side, just as it will for evermore."

ROACH—In memory of a loving husband and father who passed away July 25, 1972.
Deep in the heart lies a picture of a loved one laid to rest
In memory's frame we shall keep it
Because he was one of the best
—Viola, Cherie, and family.

THEY SHALL GROW NOT OLD AS WE WHO ARE LEFT GROW OLD, AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM, NOR THE YEAR'S CONDEMN, AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN, AND IN THE MORNING, WE WILL REMEMBER THEM.
WITH GRATITUDE, SANDS

Teacher Will Be Put In Detention Centre

Greater Victoria school board decided Monday to place a teacher in the juvenile detention home despite fears by some trustees the move indicates children will be imprisoned there for months instead of days.

The attorney-general's department promised earlier that in its plan to convert the home into a holding centre, young offenders would not be held for more than three or four days.

But in a letter to the school district asking it to hire a teacher for the centre, ministry of education policy development director R. J. Carter said the teacher would be working within a core curriculum common to long-term juvenile detention camps in other parts of the province.

In a memo to the board because she could not attend Monday's meeting, Trustee Lavinia Greenwood said the suggestion of a co-ordinated core curriculum common to all four centres "suggests that the corrections branch has no doubt that children will be detained here in Victoria for many weeks at a time."

But most other trustees weren't concerned with the length of time juveniles will be held.

Mark Fisher said the district will always have children of school age in that situation.

"The length of time is not our concern.";

He added that if the imprisonment is for a longer period, then having a teacher in the home is all that more important.

Trustee Peter Bunn pointed out the corrections branch is paying for the teacher and said "we haven't paid the piper; we can't call the tune."

He said Mrs. Greenwood and Trustee Daphne Temple, who also opposed hiring the teacher, are "enmeshed in the philosophical aspects of containment," which is not the issue.

":I agree with containment," Bunn said, "Keep the little beggers off the street."

After the meeting, Fisher said he didn't agree with arguments that the district is in effect condoning longer incarceration in the Victoria home by agreeing to hire the teacher.

He said no matter how short a time a child is in the centre, a teacher is invaluable.

The teacher could assess the child's learning potential and recommend what would be best for him in the way of a forest camp or a foster home.

Thieves Steal Indian Jewelry

WEST SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — Thieves stole American Indian jewelry valued at $150,000 Sunday leaving a security guard handcuffed naked to an air conditioning unit outside a hotel, police said. George Price told police the men took him by surprise and pried open the door to Sheraton West Hotel's Connecticut Room, where the jewelry was arranged for exhibit on open display tables, officials said.

UVic Mortgage Bid Rejected

The Universities Council of B.C. won't support a University of Victoria bid for preferential interest on mortgage rates for student residences.

The council told UVic it does not consider student residences within its mandate and will not actively support the school in its attempts to get a better deal from the Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation.

Both UVic and Simon Fraser University in Burnaby need more student accommodation. UVic has one of the lowest student resident-enrolment ratios in Canada, although about 55 per cent of the student body comes from outside Greater Victoria.

Previous submissions to the universities council to include student residences in capital spending programs were rebuffed on the grounds that money from the education ministry budget should not be used for non-academic purposes.

The council suggested that UVic and Simon Fraser seek preferred interest rates from CMHC. The two schools were assured by the minister responsible for CMHC, Andre Ouellet, that student residence funds would be given a high priority in B.C.

But UVic President Howard Petch said Monday interest rates of 9⅝ per cent would mean a 13 per cent hike in residence fees to cover the higher borrowing costs. Added to inflation-caused increases of 11 to 13 per cent each year, fees could rise by as much as 25 per cent, Petch said.

UVic wants the preferred rate of eight per cent even though this would mean a similar increase in fees, putting UVic's housing costs near the top among Canadian universities.

Nine Charged In Ferry Terror

SANT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Nine of 18 motorcyclists arrested during the weekend for allegedly terrorizing passengers aboard the Bay of Fundy ferry Princess of Acadia were charged Monday while nine were released without charges being laid.

All nine pleaded not guilty to a total of 13 charges.

SALMON WASTE FEARED

VANCOUVER (CP) — The International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission, in an attempt to control fish wastage, has passed an emergency order prohibiting the catching or taking of sockeye and pink salmon on days declared closed by the commission.

Commission director Al Cooper said Monday the order was a result of, and will in effect ban, large mesh nets used by United States native fishermen to catch chinook salmon.

However, he said the manner in which the order will be enforced "remains to be seen."

Cooper said the native fishermen catch large quantities of sockeye and pink along with the chinook, though they must be thrown back on designated non-fishing days. If enough native fishermen fish with these large mesh nets, it could result in a tremendous wastage of pink and sockeye, he said.

Canadian convention waters will remain open longer than U.S. waters, he said, to give Canadian fishermen a chance to get their fair share of the catch. So far this season, U.S. fishermen have caught 735,000 fish; Canadians have caught 515,000.

Bus Passes Backed

The University of Victoria board of governors will back efforts to reinstate student bus passes.

The board Monday voted to endorse the bus pass system which was in effect last year but cancelled by B.C. Hydro this spring. The governors will co-operate with the student Alma Mater Society in negotiations with Hydro to renew the passes.

The resolution was put to the board by student representative Clayton Shold.

Hydro claims the student pass program was cancelled because it was not successful. However, dean Trevor Matthews told the governors the university has correspondence from last fall in which the transit corporation agreed that the program, involving 964 students, was a success.

The Alma Mater Society points out the program cost Hydro nothing. The passes were printed at the society's expense and UVic subsidized them and collected the fees. Hydro in turn agreed to accept money for the passes in a lump sum and honor the passes when shown by students.

Campus Huts Remain

Despite several new buildings at the University of Victoria, growth continues to outstrip space, and the institution will have to continue to use antiquated army huts.

"We are going to have to keep on spending money to maintain these old army huts," Dr. Howard Petch told the university's board of governors meeting Monday. "They weren't built to last that long."

The huts house several academic departments and laboratories as well as the theatre department and several administrative and student services offices.

Many of them do not meet municipal building standards.

New professional programs such as law, social work, nursing and public administration grow rapidly as they add successive years to their programs.

"If anything our space situation is worse now than when I got here two and a half years ago," Petch said.

Recent additions such as the third wing of Clearihue Building, the university centre and the music wing are not enough to handle growth, Petch said.

BCGEU SAYS TALKS SLOW

VANCOUVER (CP) — Contract talks between the B.C. government and its 31,000 workers will probably not bring a new agreement before the current one expires July 31, the secretary of the B.C. Government Employees Union said Monday.

John Fryer said 65 items are unresolved, ranging from critical economic points to minor issues. The union's main priorities are for a wage increase and cost-of-living adjustment.

There have been nine meetings between government and the union negotiators to date and more are set for this week.

Fryer did not rule out a strike if an agreement isn't reached, but said the union would probably opt for mediation before taking a strike vote.

RCMP Probing Kerster Claim

The RCMP said today it is investigating the possibility of a criminal offence involving Surrey Dodge Ltd. and an insurance claim paid by the Insurance Corp. of B.C.

Spokesman Supt. Bob Mulloch, head of the force's commercial crime section in Vancouver, said the RCMP maintains a continuing relationship with ICBC's special investigation unit and had the Surrey Dodge case referred to it on Monday.

Opposition MLAs have accused Education Minister Pat McGeer, who is responsible for the insurance corporation, of covering up because Social Credit MLA George Kerster of Coquitlam, the former president and general manager of Surrey Dodge, appealed to ICBC on behalf of the firm to have the claim paid.

Supt. Mulloch said the case is still under investigation and is being treated as the many other cases of possible fraud on which the ICBC special investigation unit and RCMP fraud section work together.

On July 22 ICBC auditors were instructed to refer their information to the attorney-general who would direct the force to start an investigation. That authority has not yet been given, Mulloch said.

These documents were delivered to NDP members of the legislature and apparently are the basis of allegations involving Kerster and Surrey Dodge.

In the house Monday McGeer said he has no control over the RCMP, who could decide themselves whether there are grounds for an investigation.

"I think this is a cover-up. It has to be a cover-up," he said. "Never has the legislature been treated to more contempt by a minister of the crown."

McGeer accused Macdonald, attorney-general under the former NDP government, of being sanctimonious and said he should be ashamed to sit in the legislature.

"He sits there with instant, perfect judgment," McGeer said. "He knows the member (Kerster) is guilty. You of all people, a former attorney-general, stand up as prosecutor, judge and jury."

MIX-UP ON PRESS

About 2,500 copies were on the street before the mistake was caught. Another 3,000 copies were stopped before they left the Victoria Press plant.

The Times apologizes to those readers who received the mixed-up edition.

WAGE PACKAGE REJECTED

Air Controllers' Mediator Fails

OTTAWA (CP) — A conciliation board report on the air traffic controllers' dispute was released today but board recommendations failed to remove the threat of a controllers' strike.

Jim Livingston, president of the Canadian Air Traffic Control Association (CATCA), said the board proposals provide "no basis for settlement."

The country's 2,200 controllers are voting on a CATCA request for a mandate to call a strike. Ballot boxes are to be opened at noon EDT Friday and results announced at 4 p.m.

The three-man conciliation board headed by mediator T. C. O'Connor recommended an increase in total wage benefits of eight per cent. Livingston said the CATCA and the government disagree about what that means.

The conciliation report makes no recommendations on a new classification standard for CATCA members and implementation of a proposed early retirement program because these two issues were ruled to be beyond the board's authority.

The board urged the controllers and the government to settle these two issues which it said are the key problems in the dispute.

The conciliation board, which was established by the Public Service Staff Relations Board (PSSRB), was instructed by the PSSRB not to make proposals on those issues. The government had objected to including the items in the conciliation board terms of reference.

The conciliation board rejected the CATCA position on all other major items in dispute.

The union has said about $3 million in wage benefits separates the government and CATCA. That amounts to about $1,300 a year for each CATCA member.

The union is seeking an eight-per-cent wage increase while the government has offered 6¼ per cent.

In addition, CATCA is asking for changes in the job classification system, changes it says would lead to promotions and wage increases for 60 per cent of its members. Controllers benefiting from the increases would get an average $1,035 in addition to regular wage increases.

Livingston has said the reclassification system would be exempt from anti-inflation board riles but that is disputed by the government.

Annual salaries for non-supervisory controllers range between $8,000 for trainees and $25,000 for those with 12 years' experience. The average annual salary for these CATCA members is about $18,000.

CANADIAN DOLLAR AT 7-YEAR LOW

TORONTO (UPI)—The Canadian Dollar plunged to a seven-year low of 93.89 (U.S.) cents today as concern over a weak Canadian economy produced a sharp downward trend on United States money markets.

The floating dollar was listed at 93.96 cents at the start of trading and fell to 93.89 by noon.

Toronto financial experts said the price was the lowest since the Canadian government floated the dollar in May, 1970.

"At the moment, the Canadian dollar is a weak currency which moves down quickly when any stress is put upon it," said Graham Sweet, deputy chief trader for the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce.

Sweet said current stress on the dollar resulted from concern over unemployment, end-of-month repatriation of profits to the U.S. and pessimistic forecasts by Finance Minister Donald Macdonald.

Macdonald said recently it was unlikely the government could meet its goal of holding inflation to six per cent this year.

Eggs Thrown At Blais' Car

Times News Services

OTTAWA — Postmaster-General Jean-Jacques Blais had the windshield of his car splattered with eggs Monday during a surprise visit to the main postal terminal where inside workers are on strike.

Blais, meanwhile, said Monday an estimated 400,000 Canada Pension Plan cheques will be processed at the Ottawa post office in spite of the five-day wildcat strike.

He told the Commons that 250 regular employees, as well as casual workers hired through manpower centres, were working through a backlog of mail.

Maurice Monette, vice-president of the local, said no meetings with post office managers were planned. Local members would wait for an injuction before taking any action.

Monette disputed the government's figures for the number of employees at work, saying only 20 to 25 members reported for work Monday and only half of 250 casuals hired by the post office actually crossed picket lines.

Walter Curry, acting manager of Ottawa postal operations, said casual workers and some CUPW workers who have crossed picket lines have been able to keep some mail moving. But each time a backlog is cleared, a fresh flood arrives, Curry said.

Postmen, members of the Letter Carriers Union of Canada were at work today despite a call by their executive Monday to honor CUPW picket lines.

SOCRED MP FINED $5,050

GRANBY, Que. (CP) — Sovial Credit MP Gilbert Rondeau was fined $5,050 Monday on 17 counts of fraudulent tax evasion in connection with a party fund-raising scheme.

The 49-year-old Rondeau, MP for the rural Shefford riding for 12 of the last 15 years, appeared shocked when the sentence was announced by Judge Yvon Roberge of sessions court.

Judge Roberge noted that Rondeau committed the crime with premeditation and that he was at "a high level in the hierarchy . . . and one of the instigators of the affair."

The judge said Rondeau's offence involved "betraying the confidence of those who elected him."

Blast Damages Pipeline

FAIRBANKS (AP)—A blast from an undetermined explosive device damaged the exterior of a section of the Trans-Alaska pipeline, but the flow of oil was not affected, authorities said.

State police Lt. George Pollitt said the blast, which damaged insulation around the outside of the line, occurred about 9 p.m. Monday about 17 miles north of Fairbanks.

Pollitt said FBI investigators and state police were on the scene. He said authorities had been notifed by Ayleska Pipeline Service Co. "that an explosive device had been detonated near the pipeline" and added that troopers at the scene "confirmed that some damage to the insulation had been done by what appeared to be a blast of some type."

Pollitt said troopers were bringing pieces of the debris back to Fairbanks for analysis.

An Alyeska official said there was no halt or slowdown in oil flow through the pipe following the explosion.

The leading edge of Prudhoe Bay oil now in the pipeline moved only two miles through the line Monday as crews worked out some bugs at pump station No. 9, according to Alyeska officials.

Conservatives Fear 'Manipulation of News'

By DAN POTTIER

Times-Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — The setting up of a new information centre to counter the "subversive propaganda" of the Parti Quebecois has raised concern that it might become a tool to boost the image of the Trudeau government.

Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons Monday that a group of 10 people from various departments was being set up to "distribute material on the subject of Canadian unity."

With details still sketchy, Allan Lawrence (PC — Northumberland Durham) said the new "propaganda machine" might be used by the government to "manipulate the news" by trying to "spoonfeed the media."

However, Trudeau told the Tory MP the new group was in answer to the "10 or 15 offices set up by the Parti Quebecois government to convey information favorable to separatism."

It would "counteract that subversive propaganda," he added.

Lawrence said it seemed as if Information Canada was being revived and failed to get an answer when he asked for the new group's terms of reference, its cost and its method of operation.

The prime minister said the group would be based in the secretary of state department for financial administration reasons but that it would work with the national unity office headed by Paul Tellier.

Tellier said in an interview the group's budget would be about $1 million a year and rejected Lawrence's claims

Third Suspect Freed

Times News Services

AGASSIZ — Police today said they had released the third suspect questioned at length in the slaying last week of two and possibly four teenagers on the banks of the Fraser River.

A police spokesman said the suspect, who closely resembled a description of the killer and was wearing a ring similar to one worn by one of the youths, was released late Monday.

Police interrogated the man for several hours but did not believe him involved in the killings, police said.

The ring in his possession could not be identified as belonging to the youth.

Cpl. W. D. McClure earlier said police acted on a tip from the public in arresting the 26-year-old man on a downtown street in Penticton, B.C., early Monday.

McClure described the suspect as "closely" resembling a police drawing compiled from information given by the only known survivor of the incident at Ferry Island near Chilliwack.

'Nanaimo Dodge' Switch

By LIZ HUGHES

Times Staff

A total of $21,276 was paid out two years ago to the NDP-based Nanaimo Commonwealth Holding Society for secretarial services for MLAs in what government members today termed the "Nanaimo Dodge."

Government MLAs on the legislature's public accounts committee today demanded an explanation of why the money was paid to the society which has as its objectives the development and holding of property and supplying of hall facilities in the Nanaimo area, and the furthering of socialist education.

Socred George Kerster (Coquitlam) said the vouchers for the $21,276 revealed the money was in return for constituency secretarial services for several NDP MLAs of the day representing such diverse ridings as Kootenay, Kamloops, Nanaimo and Cowichan-Malahat.

Kerster said the practice is still going on and suggested the payments were made under "questionable circumstances," because NDP-MLA Dave Stupich of Nanaimo, also chairman of the public accounts committee, is a director of the Nanaimo Commonwealth Holding Society.

Socred Ray Loewen (Burnaby-Edmonds) said the payments to the society were "only one step removed" from Stupich getting the funds directly.

Stupich promised an explanation at an upcoming meeting of the public accounts committee, probably next week, prompting a comment from Labor Minister Allan Williams that the committee would finally get to the bottom of the "Nanaimo Dodge."

The legislature has debated for more than a week a controversial Insurance Corp. of B.C. claim involving the Surrey Dodge dealership, formerly owned by Kerster.

NERVE GAS LEAK

DUGWAY, Utah (UPI)—A tank holding 31 M139 "bomblets" containing the nerve gas GB exploded at the Dugway Proving Grounds Monday, but no one was reported hurt or contaminated.

Dugway commander Col. Adalbert Toepel said damage was limited to the immediate area.

Toepel said the bomblets were being neutralized when a tank containing the devices exploded, throwing several of them out on the ground. An inspection of the site showed that some of the bomblets had ruptured and seven were leaking GB.

Dick Whitaker, a spokesman for Dugway, said 20 to 25 persons were evacuated from the area but no one was close enough to be contaminated.

HOT WEATHER SPARKS PLANT EXPLOSIONS

No injuries were reported as the plant's 14 workers escaped through a rear door.

The plant was located in a new building, opened less than two months ago.

Summerland fire chief Mike Murphy said the explosions were "quick flash-fire explosions" caused by hot weather which caused a reaction in the chemicals used in the plant.

He said two firemen were overcome by cyanide gas given off during the blaze.

Levesque Could Sit Pat on Language—Report

By KEN POLE

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — An independent study of the use of English and French in Quebec indicates strongly that Rene Levesque didn't need to bring in his controversial language legislation.

Completed in March for the Secretary of State's department, it was prepared by Dr. Ronald Sutherland of the University of Sherbrooke English department and attention was focused on it by written questions tabled in the House of Commons a few days ago by Liberal MP Harold Herbert.

Curiously enough, despite the general findings of the report, the government has chosen so far to keep quiet, distributing it only to departmental libraries across the country.

According to Herbert who represents the riding of Vaudreuil west of Montreal, Sutherland's report shows not only that the anglophone presence is no longer significant in many parts of Quebec, but also that many anglophones have been taking special pains to learn French, to facilitate working in an increasingly French culture.

"It very clearly defeats the need for Levesque to do anything at all," the Liberal backbencher said in an interview Monday. "It's happening already in Quebec and we don't need Levesque;s legislation, obviously."

Nowhere does the report say, as Herbert points out in one of his written questions, that "the Quebec francophone majority is in danger of being dominated by the anglophone minority."

What it does say — and this may help explain why the federal government has been less than anxious to publicize it — is that official bilingualism hasn't been as successful in Quebec as Ottawa would have liked.

It says the average Quebecois is primarily, even exclusively in many cases, preoccupied with what happens in Quebec, While they aren't particularly concerned about bilingual government services in, say, Moose Jaw, there could be considerable secsitivity "about the sign on a washroom door in an executive suite in Trois Rivieres."

Sutherland notes that when the average French-speaking Quebec resident is drawn by the sun and sea of Florida and other southern states, he or she finds ways to transcend the language barrier.

"At home, in Quebec, he no longer feels like it. Pride and principle rather than practicability are what is at stake and it is for this reason that the practical solution of promoting bilingualism in order to make the francophone Canadian feel at home throughout the nation, important as it may be in the long term, is not working as it should in the current situation."

Word War Raked

that it would be a propaganda arm for the government.

He said its purpose was to deal with requests for information from the public; a task too large for his small national unity group in the Privy Council.

The foundations for the group had been laid a couple of months ago with Pierre Lefebre of his office heading it. It had only been formalized recently and was just getting under way.

Tellier said it was completely different from Information Canada which was scrapped by the government last year as part of an austerity drive. It saved the taxpayer about $7 million.

The group would not set up "storefront operations" like the Information Canada bookstores.

For example, Tellier said, last week the group distributed to all MPs copies of Quebec's revised language law proposals — Bill 101.

Trudeau said the basic aim of the information centre was to "make available to Canadians information and facts favorable to Canada rather than to separatism."

Lawrence raised the issue based on published reports quoting Secretary of State John Roberts as saying the prime minister had directed him to begin work on a new information network.

He was also quoted as saying the group would distribute non-partisan information about the federal government because the news media only spread bad news about the Trudeau administration.

"Let's face it, bad news is news," Roberts is quoted as saying. "Good news doesn't make it."

Trudeau urged the opposition to support the new centre, but Lawrence later told reporters much more information was needed on the matter.

"The prime minister should not think he can trap the opposition in all kinds of weird things in the name of national unity," he said.

He was concerned over the possibility of "news manipulation" in that the group might try to "downplay the bad news and grind out at public expense matters that would put the government in a good light."

Armed Guard Ban Studied by Munro

By DAN POTTIER
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — Labor Minister John Munro says the possibility of rules to keep armed guards away from labor conflicts is being examined by his department.

"As a general proposition it makes a lot of sense," the minister told reporters Monday.

However, careful study was needed to see which level of government has the jurisdiction to bring this about.

"We are now looking at this matter to see if it is covered by present laws," he added.

He was responding to questions about the wounding of eight strikers Friday at the Robin Hood Multifoods Ltd. flour mill in Montreal.

Three security guards from a private firm pleaded not guilty Saturday to charges of discharging a firearm with the intent to maim or wound. The company involved is Bureau des Detectives industrielles.

Earlier, New Democratic Party leader Ed Broadbent had urged Ottawa to adopt no firearms policy in labor conflict under its jurisdiction.

Calling it a "violent and very disturbing incident," Broadbent said Ottawa should make it clear that it was inappropriate to hire armed guards in industrial disputes where tempers can flare.

The police forces were available to maintain law and order when there were perceived threats to property.

He urged Munro to call Robin Hood management to Ottawa to stress those points, but the minister rejected the this idea saying it would indicate he had made a judgment as to where responsibility lay for the incident.

"I do not want to make judgments off the cuff," he said, "although I do not approve of the use of firearms to maim people. I cannot attach responsibility to anyone becaust I do not know all the facts."

Broadbent told a news conference the prime responsibility was with the company which hired a private security company.

FERRY OFFICERS APPEAL BACKED

B.C. Ferry and Marine Workers Union will support a bid by its officer component to be reclassified by the Labor Relations Board, although the union executive believes the move is wrong.

A statement by the executive and table officers Monday said the view of officers is respected, but is is felt the union should observe the first year of the amalgamated union in an effort to make it work.

Officers were ordered to join with unlicenced ferry workers formerly with B.C. Government Employees Union to form the new BCFMWU.

A B.C. Ferries Officers Committee has been formed with the object of testing the validity of the LRB ruling that forced the 500 officers into the new union for a total membership of 2,600.

Legal advice suggests officers may be subject to federal government jurisdiction because shipping and navigation are federal responsibilities.

The statement said a majority of members, including officers, want to make the single union work. Four officers were party to the statement.

SCHOOL BOARD SEES SURPLUS

Although it is only halfway through the budget year, Greater Victoria school board officials are cautiously predicting a surplus for the second straight year.

Trustee Peter Dorazio, noting most departments have spent less than half their budget, Monday night asked superintendent Allan Stables if this is an indication of a year-end surplus.

Stables said there are still some factors to be considered, "but yes, I think we will have a surplus. That's a feeling I have."

He said he'd be "foolish" to try and put a figure on it at this point.

Last year the district ended up with a surplus of more than $3 million, and most of the tax reduction this year was attributable to that surplus.

Toronto Market Sharply Lower

TORONTO (CP) — Plummeting mining and oil issues sent the Toronto stock market sharply lower in moderate midafternoon trading Tuesday.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 1.43 million shares.

Among industrials, Great West Life Assurance dropped 1 to $56½, Inco A ¾ to $24⅛, Bow Valley Industries ⅝ to $20¾, Harlequin Enterprises ½ to $19½ and Pacific Petroleums ½ to $31¾.

Maclaren Power A gained ¾ to $33, consolidated-Bathurst A ⅝ to $26⅝, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas ¼ to $40¾, Eastern Provincial Airways 40 cents to $2.50 and Greyhound Computer of Canada five cents to 65 cents.

Brenda Mines fell ⅝ to $10½, Cassiar Asbestos ¼ to $9½ and Pamour Porcupine A 15 cents to $3.85. Wright-Hargreaves Mines rose 23 cents to 98 cents and Kerr Addison A ⅛ to $15⅝.

Numac Oil and Gas slipped ⅞ to $12⅛, Ocelot Industries B ¼ to $11⅛ and Merland Explorations ¼ to 5⅞. United Western Oil and Gas was up two cents to 40 cents and American Eagle Petroleums two cents to 60 cents.

New York

Declines outnumbered advances by about a 5-2 spread among New York Stock Exchange-listed isssues.

NYSE volume came to 14.91 million shares at mid-afternoon.

The market's drop Monday brought a sudden halt to the gradual rally of the past six sessions.

Analysts blamed the downturn on continuing concern that economic growth would slow in the months ahead. They also noted that the market's recent behavior had dimmed hopes of any sustained rally in the immediate future.

U.S. Steel fell 1¼ to 36¾ as the company reported second-quarter earnings of 91 cents a share, down from $1.47 in the same period last year.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally lower in light to moderate afternoon trading today on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

London

LONDON (CP)—Prices dropped sharply near the close of light trading today on the London stock market. The Financial Times index was down 6.1 to 431.1 an hour before the close. Equity leaders declined heavily, while gold issues drifted lower with the drop in bullion prices. Canadian stocks eased in light trading.

TODAY'S GRAIN

Flax was unchanged to slightly higher and Thunder Bay rapeseed was unchanged and inactive.

Monday's volume of trade was 32,000 metric tons of rapeseed, 11,920 of barley, 10,200 of feed wheat, 9,740 of oats, 7,420 of flax and 3,240 of rye.

Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — New crop soybean prices retreated about a dime on the Board of Trade today, while old crop options shot down 20 cents in the wake of a lower Brazilian export tax.

Corn lost one cent, but wheat and oats were fractionally mixed. Soybean meal and oil futures were down sharply from the previous close and other deliveries were firmly lower.

Brazil's decision to cut its soybean export tax from seven per cent to four per cent triggered the sharp decreases in old crop beans Monday and the downtrend continued Tuesday.

Symphony and sunglasses were in order Monday at Centennial Square Summer Festival opener

Windblown hair didn't detract conductor Timothy Vernon

It Was a Symphony of Summer

By AUDREY JOHNSON
Times Staff

Despite a breeze that ruffled music pages and the conductor's hair and the roar of Vancouver-bound seaplanes, the first Victoria Symphone Summer Festical concert of the season got things off to a promising start Monday evening.

With a new conductor on the podium — gifted Canadian and former Victorian, Timothy Vernon — and in the new loxation of Centennial Square, the two 45-minute concerts attracted about 1,000 persons. There were toddlers and teenagers, senior citizens, hikers, handicapped, family groups, even a dog or two.

The MacPherson Playhouse glass facade formed a backdrop that reflected the whole scene — the summer orchestra with its many young players and dozen or so symphony regulars, the white-coated conductor, the crowd, the flowers, and Recreation ing.

The performances were lively, brimming with a summery sense of pleasure. Both programs (they varied from each other) were devoted to the music of Johann Strauss Jr. and were melodic to a point of charming every ear.

Conducted dynamically with clear and positive direction as well as with a fine sense of nuance, Vernon conjured effective playing from the ensemble he has taken over recently.

The summer festival will continue through Aug. 28 with six weekly concerts — two each on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays — in Centennial Square, and two on the next five Sunday afternoons.

The first pair this Sunday will be at Oak Bay Recreation Centre's Roller Stadium at 2:30 and 3:45 p.m. Violinist Ruggiero Ricci, renowned faculty member of the Shawnigan Summer School, will be soloist, performing the mendelssohn E minor Violin Concerto and Saint-Saens Introduction and Rondo Caproccioso.

WATERY TRAIL LEADS POLICE

City police just followed the 20-block trail of water early this morning and arrested a suspect in a downtown hit-and-run accident.

Police, suspencting the hit-and-run car's radiator had been damaged, followed the trail and eventually found a car with a badly damaged front end in the parking lot of Royal Jubilee Hospital.

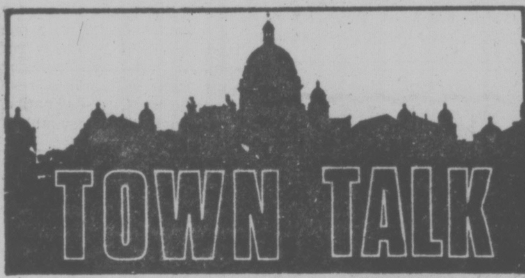
Seventeen-year-old Anthony James Stewart, 3016 Jutland, appeared in provincial court this morning charged with impaired driving, driving with a blood alcohol level about .08, refusing to provide a breath sample, failing to remain at the scene of an accident, and driving without insurance.

He was remanded without plea to Aug. 3 and released on his own undertaking.



Distant rumblings heard in Victoria late Monday sounded like thunder or an invasion.

It was neither — merely the Five Field Battery doing its thing at Albert Head, firing off 105 mm. blank ammunition. The firings were in conjunction with militia summer training and it was the first night exercise of the summer.

It was also, says an Armed Forces spokesman, the last. All the training from now on will be daytime.

After a battle lasting more than four years, in which they enlisted support from across the country, the municipality's animal owners have persuaded their council to repeal a 1973 bylaw banning all pets except dogs, cats, horses and mules.

In the forward trenches of the battle was Lloyd La Vaux, owner of a pet spider monkey named Bubel, who refused to give her up despite the risk of a $1,000 fine for such monkey business.

After two articles about Bubel's inhuman rights being violated appeared in the Victoria Times, 61 Victorians wrote letters of protest to the Orangeville newspaper.

New we've received a letter (signed by Bubel in non-person) saying those efforts helped a lot in the successful campaign.

"Bless you and your readers for all that you did in my crusade to become a legal Canadian," writes Bubel.

Don't mention it, ma'am, always ready to help a damsel in distress.

That last $100,000 is tantalizingly close and the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria is in the midst of a final push to get its new wing completed.

The $900,000 wing will double to 24,000 square feet the size of the existing gallery approximately 3,000 square feet of which will be used to exhibit the extensive Asian collection.

Occupancy is targeted for mid-October and officials are hoping to have collected enough funds by then to ensure the wing is completed before moving in.

Anyone wishing to make a donation is invited to call the gallery for more information at 384-4101.

Oak Bay painter Brian Travers-Smith has become eligible for membership in the prestigious American Watercolor Society.

Artists from across North America are invited to submit one painting each for the AWS annual exhibition, making thousands from which to choose 300 for hanging.

From those, one-third are picked for the group's travelling exhibit, and Travers-Smith is included for the third consecutive year. That makes him eligible for full membership, and those who know his bright, familiar scenes will agree with the ranking.

Sandra Neely, 10, and twin banana

Is the town going a little bananas? Maybe not, but we seem to be running into some unusual banana happenings.

Earlier this month we told you about Rudy Burke getting a sort of message on a banana he bought, the letters F.C. carved into it in some far-off banana belt, invisible while the banana was green, coming to light as the banana ripened.

Now Mrs. G. B. Neely, 3874 Olivia Place, has a banana that is actually two bananas in one, both under the same skin, a sort of banana split in reverse.

Keep those banana stories coming, folks.

How come on a beautiful Sunday — around noon — only one of all those apartment dwellers on Dallas Road was out on his balcony drinking in the sheer delight of such a day!

Is there some unwritten rule that prohibits over-use of the balconies! Those of us who can only look at the house across the street are constantly amazed at how little these balconies get used.

And have you noticed at Oak Bay Marina that no matter how fine the day, the marina always seems to be nearly full of boats. You'd think everybody would be out on the water.

While the site of the former Alcazar Mansion on Fairfield remains an abandoned pile of rock, parts of the old mansion itself are already being recirculated.

Among other items, Attica Historic Home Supplies on Market Street has the magnificent bevelled-glass entrance doors for sale at $3,000.

Attica proprietor Allan Parkin said the craftsmanship is so good the 60-year-old solid oak and glass doorway will last anther 100 years.

The Alcazar was torn down earlier this year when the owners said they couldn't afford to renovate the 20-suite apartment to meet fire regulations.

Vow Kept On Job Security

School District 61 maintenance employees voted by a strong majority Monday to accept a two-year contract, but kept a vow to oppose sections affecting job security.

Canadian Union of Public Employees spokesman Bob Cunningham said the local is adamant against contracting-out provisions inserted by Greater Victoria Labor Relations Association, representing school trustees.

The battle will be postponed until the next round of contract negotiations which will start about September of next year.

"They must understand we are not dropping our bloody fight for job security through contracting-out," Cunningham said.

The local will fight this practice "whatever the cost" to ensure members their jobs are not going down the drain.

Cunningham said six positions have already been affected — all tradesmen such as carpenters, electricians and tinsmiths, who have been permanent classifications in the contract. The school board has recently advertised such openings as temporary employment.

Letters indicating the local's position will go to GVLRA chief negotiator Carl Anshelm and board chairman Susan Brice.

Seven CUPE locals representing municipal, school and regional employees were part of a joint bargaining committee in negotiations with GVLRA. An eighth, city of Victoria inside staff, did not join the committee and signed a one-year anti-inflation contract.

One of the seven, representing Capital Regional District employees, broke from the committee and signed a similar one-year agreement, and GVLRA has offered now to extend the one-year contract to two years, bringing it into line with the other six.

The city's inside local appeared Monday to oppose this suggestion on grounds that the Anti-Inflation Board may dissolve shortly and employees had now wish to bind themselves to a restricted contract next year.

Heritage Hassle Site Up for Sale

By PAUL MOSS
Times Staff

A Fairfield area property which was the subject of a lengthy legal hassle last year, involving the heritage status of the site's residential buildings, has now been advertised for sale only a few months after demolition was completed.

Ald. Murray Glazier said Monday the situation involving the property at 1040-1042 Linden is "painfully reminiscent" of what happened with the Alkazar Mansion on Fairfield, where another firm demolished the building, scrapped its original plans to build and tried to dispose of the land.

Bill McElroy, president of the Fairfield Community Association, said: "This proves these guys (developers) are not interested in making homes available for people . . ."

But developer George Stricker, partner in the firm of Krieger-Stricker which owns the Linden property, said today such criticisms are unfair because it was the city's own vacillating policies and delays which prevented the firm from proceeding with its original plans for apartment construction.

He also denied that the asking price for the site — $335,000 — will provide any profit for the firm.

"If we get that price in today's market it will still be less than our total costs if you include the original purchase price, accrued interest, taxes, legal costs and the costs of moving tenants from the (demolished) suites," he said.

"We can easily substantiate it."

Stricker recalled that his company undertook to purchase the property subject to a written assurance from the city that none of the buildings on it were considered for heritage designation.

Such assurance was provided, but a short time after the firm obtained a demolition permit the city introduced its emergency bylaw freezing demolitions on 77 buildings — including theirs — for which heritage designations were being considered.

The firm tried to have the bylaw quashed but the bylaw was upheld in B.C. Supreme Court.

Stricker said the firm's plans were stalled for more than six months but, ironically, city council came to the eventual conclusion that the buildings were not worth saving.

Meanwhile market conditions had changed considerably, he noted, "and we felt it was somewhat uneconomical to go ahead with construction. We lost too much time last year."

Glazier said the Linden, Alkazar and similar cases where substantial residential buildings are demolished and the sites are offered for sale, often to lie vacant for months, underline the need for council to be able to withold a demolition permit until the site's future use is approved and a building permit issued.

Human Rights Charge 'Absurd'—Trustee

By PAUL NICHOLSON
Times Staff

Trustee Mark Fisher Monday night termed "utterly absurd" a B.C. Human Rights Branch claim that the Greater Victoria school board's teacher hiring policy contravenes the Human Rights Code.

He was replying to a letter from Reg Newkirk, assistant director of the branch, who questioned the policy of hiring younger teachers this year.

Fisher said teacher hiring is not a human rights issue but a monetary one based on the system of salaries and automatic increments.

The school district also wanted a contemporary input by having younger teachers, he said.

Trustee Peter Bunn said the code regulations are "straight from Lewis Carroll . . . right from Through the Looking Glass."

Holding up a copy of the regulations, he suggested other trustees read them "to see how hamstrung management is in making hiring decisions."

He said he wasn't too sure how he got the copy of the regulations.

Perhaps they came in "a plain brown envelope," he said.

In his letter to the board, Newkirk said the policy of hiring younger teachers violates the section of the code dealing with discrimination against applicants based on age.

Newkirk said people tend to be discouraged from applying for positions "when a preference for a particular group — e.g., younger candidates — has been stated."

He urged the board to reconsider the policy or explain to the branch why it felt it should be exempted from the code.

Superintendent of schools Allan Stables replied to Newkirk that the information Newkirk had received was a "position paper" presented to the board and not a "policy statement."

"It is rather unfortunate that our communications officer picked this up and included it in his news release in the manner he did", Stables wrote.

"In fact, our administration does not make policy. On the contrary, this is the prerogative of the board. The board simply received this paper and has not adopted it as policy."

At the meeting, Stables said the policy is still to hire the best teacher for the job.

Vandals Suspected

Deputy chief Mike Heppell said only minimal damage was done in the fire which was set among wood shavings and short-end two-by-fours stacked in a corner of a second-floor closet.

Heppell said a neighbor heard noises in the building about 11:22 p.m. and when he looked over, saw the fire.

Toronto Market Sharply Lower

TORONTO (CP) — Plummeting mining and oil issues sent the Toronto stock market sharply lower in moderate midafternoon trading Tuesday.

Volume of trading by 2 p.m. totalled 1.43 million shares.

Among industrials, Great West Life Assurance dropped 1 to $56½, Inco A ¾ to $24⅛, Bow Valley Industries ⅝ to $20¾, Harlequin Enterprises ½ to $19½ and Pacific Petroleums ½ to $31¾.

Maclaren Power A gained ¾ to $33, consolidated-Bathurst A ⅝ to $26⅝, Hudson's Bay Oil and Gas ¼ to $40¾, Eastern Provincial Airways 40 cents to $2.50 and Greyhound Computer of Canada five cents to 65 cents.

Brenda Mines fell ⅝ to $10½, Cassiar Asbestos ¼ to $9½ and Pamour Porcupine A 15 cents to $3.85. Wright-Hargreaves Mines rose 23 cents to 98 cents and Kerr Addison A ⅛ to $15⅝.

Numac Oil and Gas slipped ⅞ to $12⅛, Ocelot Industries B ¼ to $11⅛ and Merland Explorations ¼ to 5⅞. United Western Oil and Gas was up two cents to 40 cents and American Eagle Petroleums two cents to 60 cents.

New York

Declines outnumbered advances by about a 5-2 spread among New York Stock Exchange-listed isssues.

NYSE volume came to 14.91 million shares at mid-afternoon.

The market's drop Monday brought a sudden halt to the gradual rally of the past six sessions.

Analysts blamed the downturn on continuing concern that economic growth would slow in the months ahead. They also noted that the market's recent behavior had dimmed hopes of any sustained rally in the immediate future.

U.S. Steel fell 1¼ to 36¾ as the company reported second-quarter earnings of 91 cents a share, down from $1.47 in the same period last year.

Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — Prices were generally lower in light to moderate afternoon trading today on the Montreal Stock Exchange.

London

LONDON (CP)—Prices dropped sharply near the close of light trading today on the London stock market. The Financial Times index was down 6.1 to 431.1 an hour before the close. Equity leaders declined heavily, while gold issues drifted lower with the drop in bullion prices. Canadian stocks eased in light trading.

TODAY'S GRAIN

Flax was unchanged to slightly higher and Thunder Bay rapeseed was unchanged and inactive.

Monday's volume of trade was 32,000 metric tons of rapeseed, 11,920 of barley, 10,200 of feed wheat, 9,740 of oats, 7,420 of flax and 3,240 of rye.

Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — New crop soybean prices retreated about a dime on the Board of Trade today, while old crop options shot down 20 cents in the wake of a lower Brazilian export tax.

Corn lost one cent, but wheat and oats were fractionally mixed. Soybean meal and oil futures were down sharply from the previous close and other deliveries were firmly lower.

Brazil's decision to cut its soybean export tax from seven per cent to four per cent triggered the sharp decreases in old crop beans Monday and the downtrend continued Tuesday.
